Respect, Responsibility Are Key For Sturgeon Family

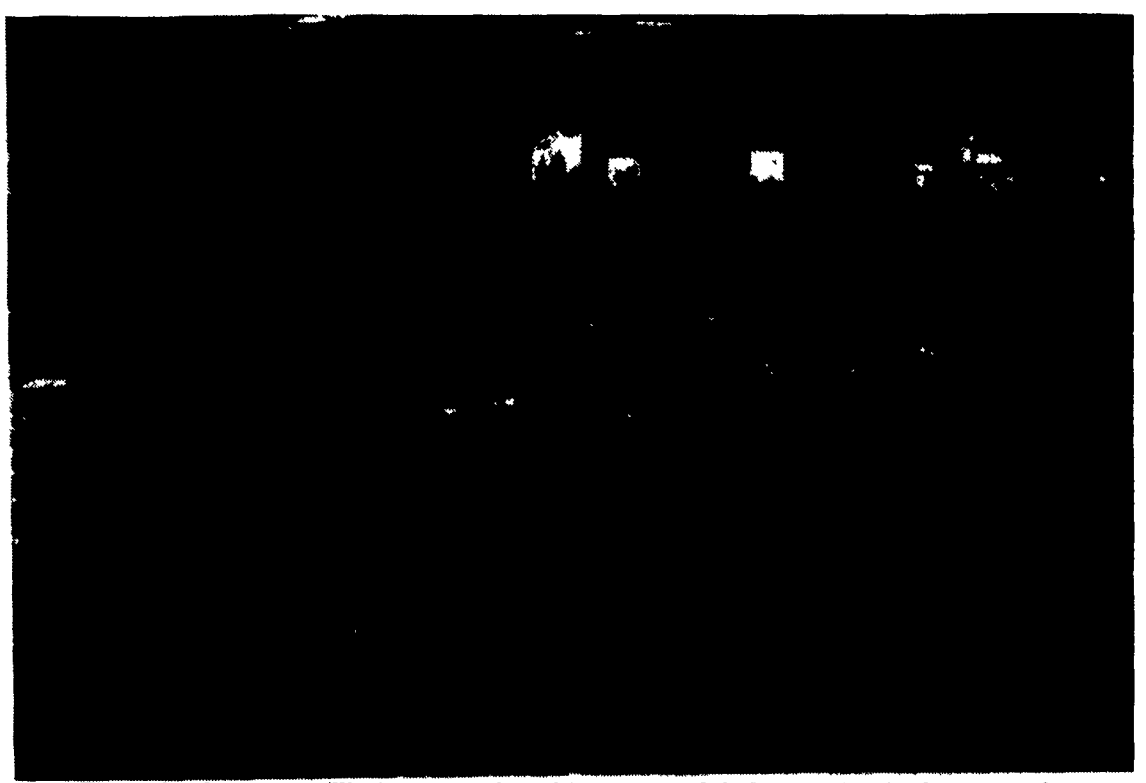
More To Sell, But No Change In This Year's Top Tobacco Price



The sales barn was filled to capacity with about 450,000 pounds of tobacco at the start of the sale.

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — The county's number one cash crop went on the auction block at 10:05 a.m. on Monday, starting at $1.20 per pound and climbing quickly to a top price of $1.25 per pound, during opening day of the season at the Paradise Tobacco Auction. The top price was unchanged from last year.

About 80 sellers followed Mitch "Snake" Ashby, from North Carolina, as he called off prices to about eight buyers from across the country.

About 175 tobacco growers were on hand, filling the ware-

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The least-told stories about those who hold public office involve the human ones showing hurt from public insults and scrutiny but display joy when revealing the real benefits of concern for fellow people.

Such is the story of Pennsylvania's retiring Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff.

At the 1987 Farm Show, when Gov. Robert Casey, starting his first term, announced that Wolff would be his cabinet choice, the barn smell was still on the new ag secretary's boots. Wolff had just sold his family farm one week earlier.

Suddenly the demands of his registered Holstein cows and the whims of the weather no longer ruled his life. Political protocol and partisan posturing became the gauge of how this transplanted

Report Supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: THE MARKET TONE WAS STEADY TO FIRM. DEMAND WAS MODERATE TO VERY GOOD, BEST FOR CARTONED EGGS INTO RETAIL SPECIALS. SUPPLIES WERE GENERALLY ADEQUATE WITH EXTRA EGGS OFFERED AT HIGHER PRICES OR HELD WITH CONFIDENCE. BREAKING STOCK OFFERINGS WERE BARELY ADEQUATE TO ADEQUATE, AND EXTRA OFFERINGS WERE MINIMAL, PARTIALLY DUE TO THE WIDE DIFFERENTIAL BETWEEN BREAKING STOCK PRICES AND GRADABLE NEST RUN PRICES. National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO

WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 7, 1994

GRAIN AND SOYBEAN PRICES WERE STRENGTHENED BY FUND BUYING ON THE BOARD AND OPTIMISTIC EXPORT OUTLOOK. WHEAT 1 TO 6 CENTS HIGHER. CORN 1 TO 2 CENTS HIGHER. SORGHUM 2 TO 5 CENTS HIGHER. SOYBEANS 1 TO 2 CENTS HIGHER. WHEAT PRICES RECEIVED SLIGHT SUPPORT FROM JORDAN'S EEP BID TODAY AND HOPES THAT CHINA AND EGYPT WOULD SOON TENDER. ACTIVE FUND BUYING SET IN ON THE BOARD ON INDICATIONS EGYPT IS SEEKING UP TO 300,000 TONNES OF U.S. WHEAT. EXPORT SALES OF CORN WERE VERY GOOD AGAIN TODAY WITH SOUTH KOREA NEEDING ADDITIONAL U.S. CORN AND STIRRING UP MASSIVE FUND BUYING IN THE PITS. CORN FUTURES REACHED AN ALMOST FOUR WEEK HIGH. BITTER COLD WEATHER SPREAD ACROSS THE MIDWEST YESTERDAY, SLOWING FARMER SELLING AND INCREASING FEED USAGE, ALSO A POSITIVE FACTOR IN HIGHER CORN PRICES. A SLIGHT TURN AROUND IN SOYBEAN PRICES STEMMED FROM STRONGER SOYMEAL PRICES AND COMMERCIAL BUYING ON THE BOARD. IDEAS BRAZIL COULD SEE DRIER WEATHER BY WEEK'S END ALSO ADDED SUPPORT TO BEAN PRICES.

The most important barometer of our success is the growers' successes themselves.

W-L Research has been a provider of superior alfalfa seed for over thirty years, and in that time has — through research — developed seed well-known for its value. At W-L, "value" is defined as long-term yield, persistence, and quality. These characteristics of W-L varieties are the cornerstone of our success, and we continue to measure our success as we always have — one grower at a time.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

FULL COLD MOON, DECEMBER 17.

SATURNALIA

From December 17 to 23, the ancient Romans stopped all work and celebrated the festival of Saturnalia. A tribute to the winter solstice as well as Saturn, the god of agriculture, Saturnalia was a time to celebrate the fecundity of the fields and the people But it was also a time when schools were closed, war making ceased, and all men whether slave or free, rich or poor, were declared equal Anger, resentments, and threats were against the law Libanius, a fourth-century Greek, wrote "A stream of presents pours itself out on all sides It may justly be said that it is the fairest time of the year " Little wonder that the early Christian church incorporated many aspects of this pagan festival into the Christian feast day it later became

The merry in heart have a continual feast.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Don't store soft and crisp cookies in the same container or the crisp cookies will soon become limp.

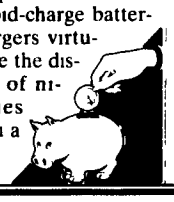
EARTHWISE

Every year it's the same thing "Batteries not included " It comes as no surprise that about 40% of the 2 5 billion disposable batteries sold annually in the U S are purchased at this time of year And a sizable portion of them are disposed of early in the New Year This year, give yourself and the planet a present The new breed of rapid-charge batteries and chargers virtually eliminate the disadvantages of nicad batteries and save you a bundle.



FAVORITE CUTOUT COOKIES

1 cup butter
2 cups light brown sugar, firmly packed
2 eggs, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon baking soda
dash of salt

Cream butter and sugar Add eggs, vanilla, and dry ingredients, mixing well Chill dough Roll out on floured pastry cloth to about 1/8 inch thick. Cut out and place on lightly greased cookie sheets Bake at 375° F for 7 to 8 minutes, until lightly browned Decorate as desired when cool.

Makes 4 to 6 dozen.

OPINION

Deal To Good To Be True

Beware of telephone sales persons who solicit you to buy products that you know nothing about. This warning comes from W. James Milliken and John E. Hall, Maryland extension agents. Often the caller will pretend you requested information on their product. "You must have signed up at a farm show," they say. "I'll send you a pair of gloves for your interest."

If you didn't sign up, tell them so.

Sometimes it involves herbicides that seem cheap but are very dilute, very expensive formulations. It has been plant foods, extracts, machinery, or fuel additives.

If you accept shipment for a little to try, you'll probably wind up with a lot of overpriced product. If you refuse to pay, you may be faced with legal problems or possibly credit problems, certainly harassmenmt. There are many "broiler-room" telephne scams out there, and lots of new ones every day. Here's several good words of advice:

- Buy locally. Your local suppliers stand behind their products.
- Don't buy from someone you don't know especially over the telephone.
- Don't ever give credit card numbers over the phone except to known, legitimate companies.

Because there are so many good suppliers of goods and services to the farm community (many of them advertise in Lancaster Farming)there is no good reason to be taken by a con artist. Always remember: if the deal seems too good to be true, it likely is.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Clean Equipment

With a lot of the fall activities completed, now comes the time to clean, service, and winterize equipment.

Proper cleaning and storage of equipment now will leave them in top shape and ready to use next year. Remove all soil and dirt. Make any necessary repairs. Oil and grease chains, wheels, pulleys etc. Clean battery terminals. Check antifreeze in engines. Replace worn spark plugs. Sharpen blades. Restock parts inventory. Service and winterize gasoline engines.

By taking time now to properly take of your equipment, you will increase useful life of your equipment and thus lower your production costs.

To Consider Off-Season Lambing

Of the approximately 160,000 Pennsylvania lambs marketed each year, 30 percent are sold as off-season and holiday lambs. These lambs are marketed using both conventional (auctions, slaughterhouses, and brokers) and nonconventional (niche markets, specialty stores, and direct marketing) methods.

The ideal market weight is 110 pounds for off-season lambs and 40-45 pounds for holiday lambs.

Off-season and holiday lamb production is easily adapted to small-scale or part-time farming operations.

This type of production has a slightly higher investment cost than spring lambs because of increased housing costs.

The most significant advantages are:

- Market prices are higher during the off-season.
- Premium prices are paid for the smaller holiday lambs.
- Holiday lambs are marketed after weaning to reduce feed costs.

Before deciding to produce off-season or holiday lambs, you should consider these important management concerns:

- Breeding is more difficult than with spring lambs.
- Lambing rates are approximately 25 percent lower than spring lambs.
- Lambing may interfere with the harvesting of some crops.

To Review Safety Around Farm

Do not let an accident spoil this holiday season.

Take a few minutes and make sure your farm is safe. In the milk house, sanitizer, detergent and teat dip are all potential poisons, especially for children. Keep these items up on a shelf or in a locked cabinet. Handle them with care and avoid splashing them into the eyes. When spilled on clothing, these chemicals can soak through fabrics and burn the skin.

Disposable plastic gloves should be worn when treating sick animals to prevent the spread of disease from animals to humans. In the shop, good housekeeping and proper maintenance of tools and equipment will go a long way in reducing injuries such as tripping and falling, electrical shock, and fire.

Keep all shields on grinders and table saws. A charged fire extinguisher, mounted on a wall, is visible and saves time in an emergency. Check stairways and make any necessary repairs. Finally, make sure all your pesticides are properly locked in storage.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "You become successful the moment you start moving toward a worthwhile goal."

- All Other Classifieds — 9 a.m. Thursday, 12/29.

SHALL WE LOOK ELSEWHERE?
December 11, 1994

Background Scripture:
Matthew 11:2-15
Devotional Reading:
John 1:1-14

Some people always wonder why John the Baptist sent his disciples to Jesus and asked, "Are you He who is to come, or shall we look for another?" Didn't he remember baptizing Jesus at the Jordan and saying, "I need to be baptized by you, and do you come to me?" Did he not hear the heavenly voice say, "This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased"?

I'm sure that John did remember, but now he is in prison, his life is in danger, and I can appreciate that in these perilous circumstances he may have had some doubts. Don't you ever have the same kind of doubts about something that you already "know"? A person of faith is not someone who never has doubts, but who examines those doubts and opts to keep the faith. If doubt disqualified us from Christian discipleship, who would remain to follow the Christ?

ARE YOU THE ONE?

In fact, I believe a faith that has survived its doubts is going to be stronger and more enduring than a faith that has never been disturbed by doubt. Jesus was a man of faith, but there are times in the gospel records when we can see he was momentarily beset by doubts. John the Baptist wanted to be sure that Jesus was the one for whom he had prepared the way: "Are you He who is to come, or shall we look for anther?" None of us can judge John for this question, for we too at times wonder, "...or shall we look for another."

Nor did Jesus get upset with the question by John's disciples. He understood why John might be having some doubts. So, instead of answering with a scriptural quotation or a doctrinal argument, Jesus lays his claim on what he is doing: "Go and tell John what you hear and see: the blind receive their sight and the lame walk, lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good news preached to them" (11:4,5) Jesus' claim is based, not upon whom he says he is, but upon what he is doing: healing the sick and bringing hope to the poor.

If Jesus had lived his earthly life in our own time, we would probably want him to appear before a committee or board, to be examined for the content of his teachings and the validity of his credentials. In that we are probably like his contemporaries for that is what they wanted, too.

MAKING PEOPLE WHOLE

If you look closely in Matthew, Mark and Luke, you will see that Jesus pretty much avoided claiming titles. Most frequently he referred to himself as the Son of Man, a title that could simply mean "a man." I think he knew he was God's "anointed" (Messiah/Christ), but he was also aware that the title meant things to others that it did not mean to him. Jesus came, not to debate with people or win an election, but to heal them of their brokenness. So, questioned by John's disciples, he refers, not to any of his pronouncements he has made, but to the works of healing (the Greek word for "healing" and "saving" is the same, and can mean "to make whole").

Jesus gives a ringing tribute to John the Baptist: "Truly... among those born of women there has risen no one greater than John the Baptist." But then he goes on to say something that probably shook up those who listened: "Yet he who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he" (11:11). The word "greater" is a stumbling-block until we realize that it means in this case, "privilege," not "worth." Anyone who follows Jesus has the "greater" privilege of experiencing what John only prophesied.

Warren County DHIA Meets

WARREN (Warren Co.) — The Warren County Dairy Herd Improvement Association recognized the outstanding county dairy herds at a recent annual banquet.

Maple Place Farm of Sugar Grove and Foggy Meadows Farm of Lander were the top herds in 1994.

Maple Place Farm is owned and operated by Al Ludwick and his son Brad. They were the high herd in milk production; 22,594 pounds of milk average and high herd in butterfat; 862 pound average.

Foggy Meadows Farm is owned and operated by Will Hitchcock and family. They were the high herd in protein production; 722 pound average, and won the herd management award with 85 points.

The highest producing cow in Warren County is also a member of the Maple Place herd. The outstanding Holstein cow produced 35,145 pounds of milk, 1,395 pounds of butterfat, and 1,075 pounds of protein. She produced enough milk to supply a family of four with cheese, butter, ice cream, and other milk products for the next 50 years.

The most improved herd in Warren County was owned by Jack & Gale Lindell of Lander. Since last year, the Lindell herd was the most improved in milk production with an increase of 2,256 pounds milk, the most improved in butterfat with a 52-pound increase, and the most improved in protein with a 74-pound increase.

Producing the highest quality milk with the lowest somatic cell count, the Twin States Farm Inc., of Sugar Grove herd had a 118,000 somatic cell count average for the year.

Overall, the top 10 herds for milk, butterfat, and protein in Warren County were: Milk - 1) Maple Place Farm 22,594 2) Foggy Meadows Farm 22,499 3) Jared Lindell 21,604 4) Twin States Farm, Inc. 21,492 5) Ron Hunter 21,343 6) Bruce & Suzie Lindell 21,219 7) Richard Harrington 21,155 8) Floyd Beardsley 20,830 9) Gla Don Farms 20,752 10) Pine Ton Farm 20,241.

Butterfat - 1) Maple Place Farm 862 2) Richard Harrington 816 3) Foggy Meadows Farm 811 4) Twin States Farm, Inc. 799 5) Floyd Beardsley 795 6) Jared Lindell 781 7) Bruce & Suzie Lindell 773 8) Pine Ton Farms 724 9) Ronald Hunter 720 10) Doug & Diane Hastings 701.

Protein - 1) Foggy Meadows Farm 722 2) Maple Place Farm 720 3) Jared Lindell 695 4) Richard Harrington 689 5) Bruce & Suzie Lindell 682 6) Twin States Farm, Inc. 679 7) Ronald Hunter 667 8) Floyd Beardsley 659 9) Pine Ton Farms 659 10) Gla Don Farms 658.

From the left, Dennis Lindell receives a plaque from Donald Van Ord for having the most improved herd management in the county.

This Rotary Disc Mower Conditioner will get you out of any tight spot in a hurry.

The 1340's innovative 12' Center Pivot is designed for fast cutting. And its long 110" conditioner makes for even faster drying. You'll get unmatched maneuverability with the 1340, and it's easy to set for swathing or fluffy windrows.

A 12' cutting width and a revolutionary mechanical drive line guarantees top efficiency. All 16 high speed swingaway knives are designed to cut right through tough spots in damp and problem fields. Making anthills and gopher mounds history. Mounted on low-maintenance rotary discs, the knives are reversible for twice the life.

See your AGCO/Hesston dealer listed here and ask about our flexible financing plans for the 1340. Best of all, it's backed by the AGCO Warranty Program.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY
WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 7, 1994
OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY

Compared to last Monday: Feeder steers and heifers steady to $2.00 higher. Demand very good for yearlings. Large portion of yearling supply was off early wheat in slight to moderate flesh condition. Calves weak to $3.00 lower. Demand moderate for calves. Calf demand dampened some as cool wet weather was in forecast. Also several farmers thought to be out of market as they have calf supply in hand for this portion of the wheat grazing season. Weigh conditions gaunt to mostly average. Quality plain to average, end attractive. Slaughter cows $1.50-$2.50 lower. Slaughter bulls steady. Demand from packers light to moderate. Good demand from replacement buyers and wheat grazers. 685 cows and bulls sold with 60 percent to packers. Wheat grazing conditions are excellent. At this point in time harsh winter weather is some 35 days behind last year. Receipts this week 10,900; last week 8,388; last year 10,787. Supply consisted of 46 percent yearlings and few calves over 600 lbs.; 48 percent calves under 600 lbs.; 6 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

BECAUSE EVERY ACRE COUNTS.

You know every acre is important. And to make the most of every acre, plant Pioneer® brand seed corn. So see your Pioneer sales representative today. And make every acre count

The performance leader in this maturity. 3525 is a widely adapted, stable, high-yielding hybrid. Tall plant type, excellent for grain and silage. Late flowering will limit northward movement. Outstanding ear flex and good ear attachment. Strong performer under stress.

Record setting yields. This exciting hybrid provides impressive early growth, strong stalks and roots, exceptional stress tolerance, outstanding drydown and lengthy staygreen. Widely adapted to varying soil types, tillage methods and populations. Well-suited for corn silage. Avoid conditions where gray leaf spot is a higher risk.

NEW 3346
113 CRM
Drought tolerant yield leader. Outstanding yield potential and excellent agronomics. Exceptional stalk strength and staygreen. Early growth is slower than average. Expect some early growth "purpling" but excellent stand establishment. Strong silage potential.

Top-end yields. Exceptional early growth. This hybrid features outstanding stalks, lengthy staygreen and very good drought tolerance. Above average grain appearance, test weight and grain protein content. A good dual-purpose hybrid for grain or silage.

IMPORTANT: Each hybrid has unique strengths and considerations. Contact your Pioneer sales representative for more complete information on these and other Pioneer hybrids.

Ag Secretary Wolff Commends Garrahan

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff has recently commended Jim Garrahan, supervisor of the department's Bureau of Plant Industry, for receiving honors from the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

According to a news release, Wolff commended Garrahan for being named the Pesticide Inspector of the Year by the EPA Region III office. Garrahan was presented with the EPA award during a recent state pesticide inspector workshop.

The award is presented by the EPA to the person who best exemplifies an "outstanding inspector," based on exceptional dedication, performance of duties in a consistently professional manner, completion of inspections with proper documentation, seeking innovative approaches to problems and functioning as an educator to the regulated community and the public, according to the news release.

Garrahan, 67, of Kingston, has been employed by the Pa. Department of Agriculture for 18 years, and for the past two years has worked as supervisor of the PDA's Region III office in Tunkhannock.

He and his wife Barbara have two daughters and five grandchildren.

"Proper training is the key to successful inspections," Garrahan said in the news release. "In field work, I would like to be thought of as being tough, but fair."

"It's a great honor for Jim, and for the Department," said Wolff, in the statement. "(Garrahan) was selected from a number of nominees from Pennsylvania and several other states, including West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, and the District of Columbia."

For Boyd Wolff, A Farm Perspective Adds Real Value To His Professional Achievements

Master Farmer was to spend his days during the next eight years in the capital city.

"At the time I had good advice from back home," Wolff said. "They told me, 'Use common sense and always tell the truth.' Yet, I was not ready for the partisan politics and the scrutiny that goes with public life. Being ag secretary is hard work. You do as many things behind the scenes as you do in public accomplishments. I certainly have a greater respect for public workers. There are a lot of good people in government."

As a farmer, Wolff received recognition as a conservationist and for his service to many farm orgnizations. Through the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, now the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, Wolff was exposed to the workings of government through this organization's legislative agenda in both Harrisburg and in Washington, D.C. When it became apparent that some of the people in the Democratic Party seemed to have written off all the area of the state between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia to the Republicans, Wolff started a rural organization of farmers to have some influence on the Democratic Party. This effort gave Wolff the opportunity to be named to Pennsylvania's top ag post.

In addition, a most recent accomplishment is the food processors residual management program that took a lot of coordination between many agencies and the legislature.

On the other side, Wolff lists two major disappointments. The effort to reform real estate taxation did not pass. And all the milk promotion organizations in the state could not be brought together to work as one unit.

Wolff believes the ag secretary should be a farmer. "If you have been a farmer, you bring a different perspective to government than a person does from academia or political circles. I believe a farmer can make a difference in government," he said.

New regulatory responsibilities have recently been placed in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA). This means not only does the secretary speak for farmers but also this person helps regulate what they do.

Wolff believes it makes sense to have these responsibilities combined. For example, in July, restaurants will be inspected by persons under the jurisdiction of the secretary of agriculture. This makes sense because all the other points in the food chain are regulated by PDA. Also, sometimes the regulations help keep the problem of one farmer from hurting another farmer. PDA may quarantine one herd with tuberculosis so many other herds are protected.

"When I came to Harrisburg, I was fortunate to have known something about how government operates from my work with PFA," Wolff said. "You don't come here and expect to change everything in a few weeks. You need to work within the system, but you can't lose patience. You just go back and try again. In the eight years I have been here, it never entered my mind that I wanted to quit. In fact, I never thought about it until someone recently asked me the question."

"I have had two very fortunate things happen to me in my career," Wolff said.

The first happened when he was a college student. He said, "My parents struggled to keep the farm going until I could take it over after I graduated from Penn State."

The second happened when he needed to retire from the farm because of health reasons. "Then I had the opportunity to become secretary of agriculture," he said.

To survive in farming, Wolff believes you need to master four concerns, first being government regulation related to the environment. Federal and state laws must be made so they are tolerable to farmers.

Second, GATT and NAFTA make farming a world economy with a competitive scope to marketing. "We may not be as competitive as we should be," he said.

Third, how we handle biotechnology will determine our future existence as farmers. These new innovations such as BST are here, and we can't ignore them if we are to survive.

And fourth, we need strong consumer advocacy. "We don't mistreat our animals, and we are concerned about the environment. The consumer needs to know this," he said.

"I have been very fortunate to be ag secretary, and I believe we have accomplished much in the last eight years," he said.

"You ask, 'What am I going to do now?'"

"I must say I don't have any idea what I will do when I leave office. I'm only 63 and not ready to quit. I have a standing joke with Gene Shenk (press secretary) that he should make me a sign for my office that says I will work for anyone who will supply me with good Pennsylvania food."

On Jan. 17 when Wolff leaves office, he and his wife Peggy will continue to live in Harrisburg near their three daughters and families that include a granddaughter. And he will find someting to do. But for now this chapter in his life has come to a close. For this ag secretary, subjective insights added greatly to the importance of his professional achievements.

Best wishes, Boyd!

Wolff lists a number of accomplishments in his tenure that give him satisfaction in his work. The farmland preservation program, started in 1989, has permanently protected more than 58,536 acres of prime farmland in the state. And the animal health commission and the ground work for the new animal health laboratory adjacent to the department of agriculture has been the result of this administration's efforts.

Retiring Pennsylvania Ag Secretary Boyd Wolff and his wife Peggy share a moment at home. Wolff served in Gov. Robert Casey's cabinet for the last eight years.

Wolff Named 'Friend Of Extension'

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff has received the State Friend of Extension Award for 1994.

The award was presented by the Alpha Omicron Chapter of epsilon Sigma Phi, the national honorary extension fraternity, at the chapter's annual meeting in State College.

"I am honored to be Pennsylvania's Friend of Extension for 1994," Wolff said. "I've had great respect for the Extension faculty and staff for many years, as a 4-H member in my youth, as a student at Penn State University, when I operated my dairy farm, and in my current role as Secretary of Agriculture."

Epsilon Sigma Phi has chapters in every state. The fraternity addresses issues which are vital to various states. Friends of Extension for each state are recognized on an annual basis. Names of state awardees are submitted to the central office of Epsilon Sigma Phi, which will identify a National Friend of Extension sometime next year.

Pa. Farmers Union Holds 23rd Annual Convention

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farmers Union held its 23rd annual convention on November 14–15 at the Best Western Conference Center in New Cumberland.

Senator Bill Lloyd, Secretary of Ag Boyd Wolfe, National Farmers Union President Leland Swenson, and Larry Mitchell of the National Farmers Union (NFU) Washington D.C. government affairs all spoke at the convention.

Highlights of the convention included Brenda Seyler receiving the Torch Bearer Award. The Torch Bearer Award is the highest award that can be given to any youth that has been active in the PFU youth program. Also, in memory of Leland Stanford, a short program was held by his daughter Jill.

Other awards given during the convention were the Golden Triangle Awards for legislation, education and cooperation as well as the Hall of Fame Award. Every year the Pennsylvania Farmers Union presents these awards to those who are outstanding in these areas of the Farmers Union. This years awards were presented to Amy Seyler for education, Glenn Swartz for cooperation and Jack Rynd for legislation. Allen Deiter and Leland Stanford were awarded the Hall of Fame awards.

During the convention, the delegates worked on new policy and made revisions to their by-laws. The Pennsylvania Farmers Union delegates went on record as opposing GATT and passed this Special Order of Business that reads as follows:

Whereas the implementing legislation for the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) is wrought with excessive spending and political favors (a.k.a. PORK) such as millions of dollars for the Washington Post and Carl Icon, and;

Whereas GATT eliminates many of our domestic laws such as Sections 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933 which protects U.S. farm programs and taxpayers from unfair, predatory imports, and;

Whereas the GATT implementing language will require $31 billion in additional debt over the next ten years for U.S. taxpayers, and;

Whereas members of the House of Representatives will be allowed an average of only 15 seconds each to address the concerns of their constituents on the largest trade agreement in history, and;

Whereas many members planning to vote on GATT in the special "Lame Duck" session of Congress were voted out of office and will no longer be accountable to their constituents;

Be it resolved that Pennsylvania Farmers Union urges no vote on GATT until the pork is trimmed out of the implementing legislation, and;

Be it further resolved that the Pennsylvania Farmers Union urges no vote on GATT until the agreement is renegotiated to correct its fundamental flaws such as elimination of our domestic laws, and;

Be it further resolved that Pennsylvania Farmers Union urges no vote on GATT until its budget impact is properly addressed, and;

Be it further resolved that Pennsylvania Farmers Union urges no vote on GATT until all members of Congress are afforded the opportunity to hold full, open debate on GATT with adequate time to fully address the concerns of their constituents, and

Be it further resolved that Pennsylvania Farmers union urges no vote on GATT by an unaccountable Congress in a special "Lame Duck" session, and finally,

Be it resolved that Pennsylvania Farmers Union opposes this GATT agreement until all of the aforementioned problems are properly addressed.

If it were human, they'd test it for steroids.

Massey Ferguson's newest platform tractor — the MF 3120T — delivers 110 horsepower from a turbocharged Perkins 1000 Series engine But you'd swear it was even bigger That's because the engine's unique Quadram combustion chamber and Dynatorque Power Curve deliver more torque and higher torque backup on less fuel than conventional 110 hp engines

And when you add in the superior performance of Massey Ferguson's exclusive Economy PTO, Dynashift transmission, and optional true 4WD, you've got one powerful performer So much useable power that the competition can't believe it's real.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Corn, No. 2y - 2.14 bu. 3.82 cwt.
Wheat, No. 2 - 3.41 bu. 5.70 cwt.
Barley, No. 3 - 1.74 bu. 3.71 cwt.
Oats, No. 2 - 1.65 bu. 5.15 cwt.
Soybeans, No. 1 - 5.11 bu. 8.53 cwt.
Ear Corn 56.05 ton 2.80 cwt.
Alfalfa Hay - 105.00 ton 5.25 cwt.
Mixed Hay - 104.25 ton 5.21 cwt.
Timothy Hay - 111.25 ton 5.56 cwt.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — These data are calculated using information pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from about one-fourth of the herds across the state.

DMI Sets Budget, Prioritizes Spending

ROSEMONT, Ill.—The boards of directors of United Dairy Industry Association (UDIA) and the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board (NDB) have approved a Dairy Management Inc. (DMI) 1995 program budget of $93.5 million that represents a significant move toward greater impact of dairy promotion programs.

UDIA state and regional promotion groups will supplement those monies with up to $60 million that will extend DMI programs on the local level.

"This budget reflects the ongoing effort to unite the nickel collected by NDB and the dime held by state and regional dairy promotion groups," said Herman Brubaker, a West Alexandria, Ohio dairy producer and DMI chairman. "It represents the blending of national and local promotion to develop and implement successful promotion programs on behalf of dairy farmers."

The 1995 budget addresses six key business priorities that were identified in DMI's strategic planning process: fluid milk, cheese, butter, industrial uses for milkfat, exports and maintaining a positive dairy marketing environment for dairy products.

These priorities were developed based on current market trends, how and where consumers buy dairy products, competition from other products and, perhaps most importantly, the value of each product category to dairy producer income.

In addition to reflecting a continuing commitment to successful ongoing programs, the new budget also represents a significant dollar savings that can be applied to programs, said Tom Gallagher, DMI chief executive officer.

"Starting this year, the DMI joint venture will offer savings of more than $4 million a year through lower agency commissions, consolidated media buys of national advertising and reduced overhead expenses," he said.

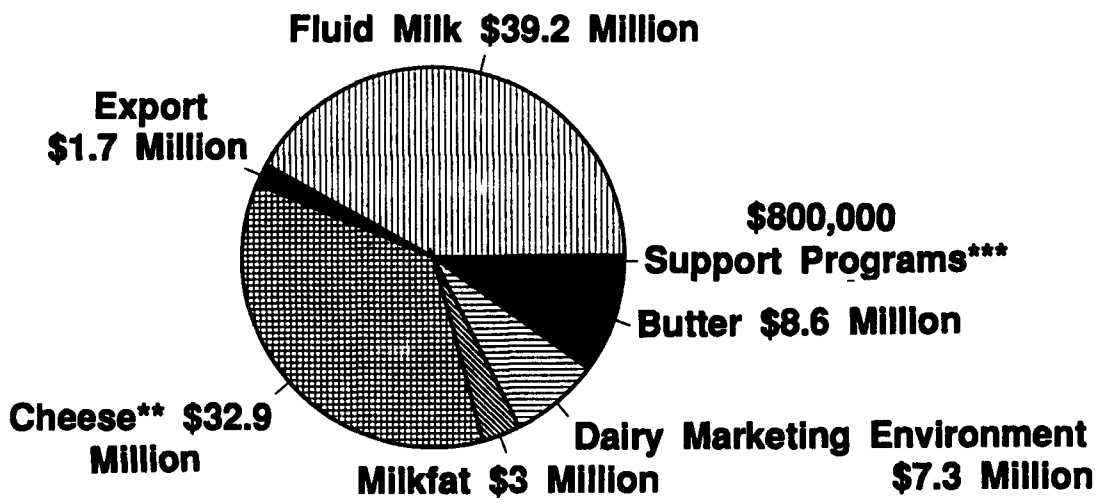
The overhead savings will be realized through a 17 percent reduction in staff between 1994 and 1995, and through consolidated meetings of the NDB, UDIA and DMI boards of directors, Gallagher said.

Staff consolidation has been achieved through the formation of a new organizational structure comprised of five groups: New Business and Technology Development, Marketing Communications, Strategic Information, Corporate Relations and Finance and Administration.

"We have organized staff with one major goal in mind—to increase consumption of dairy products," said Cynthia Carson, DMI general manager and group executive of the corporate relations group. "This organization plan fits in well with our integrated marketing approach that is designed to concentrate all of our resources on driving demand."

Dairy Management Inc. is a joint venture between the National Dairy Board and United Dairy Industry Association that conducts an integrated marketing and promotion program for U.S. produced dairy products on behalf of America's dairy farmers.

Dairy Management Inc. 1995 Budget $93.5 Million*



The boards of directors of both the National Dairy Board and the United Dairy Industry Association have approved of a $93.5 million budget for the 1995 Dairy Management Inc. program. The program was formed by the two dairy promotion, research and marketing groups. The budget reflects anticipated spending on six market priorities that were identified by the organizations — fluid milk, export, cheese, milkfat, butter, and the 'dairy marketing environment.'

* The boards also anticipate that local marketing groups may increase the overall budget by committing local funds to support the national effort.
 Of this, $910,000 has been targeted for use with frozen dairy products marketing, primarily within the foodservice market.
 Spending for support programs includes conducting industry relations programs.

Lancaster DHIA Gives Yearly Report To Members

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

SMOKETOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster DHIA held their annual meeting Tuesday at Good 'n' Plenty Restaurant for a family-style. Three-hundred members attended.

In the election of directors, Dave Garber was re-elected to a second term, and Bruce Kreider, Melvin Lantz, Terry Stoltzfus, and Dale Hershey were elected to new terms.

President Joe Graybeal said that each member of the board had been active on at least one committee and that the study for a new lab had taken much of their time.

Vice-president Steve Hershey told how they had visited different labs and picked up ideas to incorporate into their new lab, which is now processing samples. A report on the new lab appeared on page A1 in the Nov. 26 issue of Lancaster Farming.

Jay Mylin, manager, announced technicians' quality service awards went to Harold Lindecamp, Harold Probst, Floyd Zook, George Book, Rebecca Hershey, and Keith Martin. Martin, Probst, and Book were also recognized for obtaining new members.

On the top of the list for years of length of service for technicians: Lindecamp, 44; Probst, 37; Moses Martin, 38, and Lee Landis, 34.

Robert Kendig, national director, reported the change in National DHIA's direction over the last 10 years as "beyond comprehension." He said that since the state lines have come down, mergers and splits continue to happen. For example, in the Midwest, six states have joined together to form Heartland DHIA.

In another significant change, DHIA is proposing rule changes that would make it an information source rather than judge and jury over the authenticity of the records. He said Lancaster Farming had an informative article on page one of the Dec. 3 issue that "laid out nicely what the new rule proposal is. Take a look at that," he said. "This report communicates even better than what I can at we are looking at. We think we are on the right track."

Amy Espenshade, Lancaster Co. dairy princess, reported on her milk promotion activities. She said one can take pride in the dairy industry because agriculture forms the backbone of the whole earth.

In the production awards, Eugene and Susan Hess, Marietta, had the high herd with their Holstein herd that is milked three times per day. On 60.3 cows they had 25,489m 915f 798p.

In the Jersey breed, Delmar Wenger, Lancaster, had the high herd with 20.6c 16,584m 751f 638p.

ABA, NBA Merge Memberships

DENVER, Colo. — The 1,500-member American Bison Association (ABA) and the 700-member National Buffalo Association (NBA) have consolidated their memberships effective January 1.

Bobby Collins, ABA president and Bud Flocchini, NBA president announced the formation of the new association, called the National Bison Association. This organization represents more than 1,100 producers of American Bison as well as national, state, and local park services, Native American tribes, restaurant, artists and bison admirers.

The first meeting of the new association will be held along with the Gold Trophy Show and Sale of January 19-21 in Denver, Colo. in conjunction with the National Western Stock Show. The Gold Trophy Show and Sale is the premier bison sale in the world with more than 150 bison competing for the covet grand champion male and female trophies as well as 30 other awards.

Last year the Gold Trophy live and video sales resulted in more than $600,000 in sales with the grand champion bison male bringing more than $16,500.

For more information, call the National Bison Association at (303) 292-2833 or write 4701 Marion St., #301, Denver, CO 80216.

Virginia Jersey Wins National Futurity

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — On Nov. 6, 39 entries paraded through the ring competing for first place in the National Jersey Jug Show held in Louisville, Ky.

WF Brass Lora-ET was named the National Jersey Jug Futurity Champion. She is owned by Waverly Farm, Clearbrook, Va. The Stiles family of Waverly Farm received $2,020, numerous trophies, and banners.

The winner was sired by A-Nine Top Brass. Her dam is W.F. Justin Lanita, an Excellent-96. "Lanita" was reserve grand champion in the 1982 All American, grand champion in the 1983 All American, and grand champion of the 1985 All American. "Lora" has a one-laction ME average of 15,670M, 712F, and 554P. She was bred by Waverly Farm.

The second place cow was Juno Golden Trish of SSF. She is a Valleystream J I S Juno, daughter and her dam is Golden Classic Tanya of SSF. She is owned by Phillip Webster, Ayers Cliff, Quebec, Canada and was bred by Frederick Luchsinger, Syracuse, N.Y.

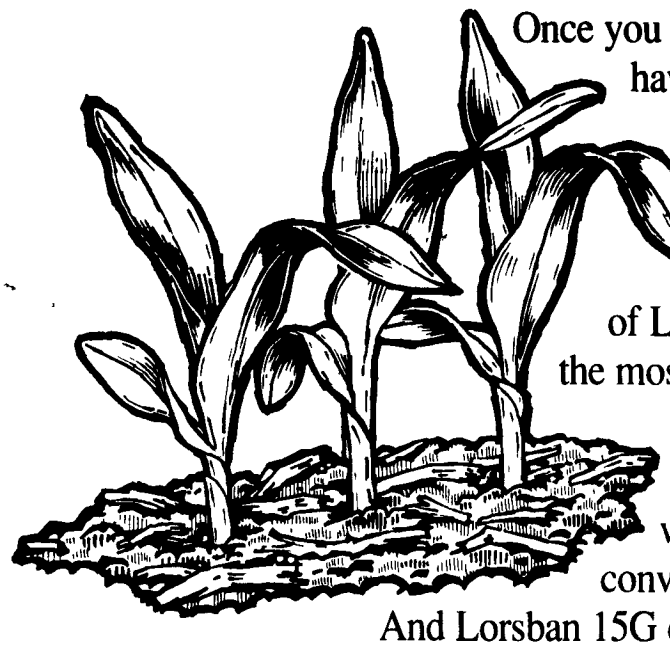
Third place was awarded to WF Justin Sara, owned by Claire Dufford, of Clearbrook, Va. "Sara" is sired by WF Generator Justin. Her dam is W.F. Tora Sara an Excellent-93. "Sara" has a one-lactation ME of 11,068M, 580F, and 404P. She was bred by Eugene George Doody Jr., of Clearbrook, Va.

The Jersey Jug Futurity began in 1954 when 24 females were nominated for the show. In 1956, the Jug was given a wider scope when it moved from Delaware, Ohio to the Ohio State Fair. Then in 1959, the Jersey Jug became a national event when it came under the sponsorship of the American Jersey Cattle Association.

Animals are nominated as calves with hopes that in three years they will be a winner. The total nomination fee is $56 during the three-year process and the exhibitor is guaranteed that money in premiums if the animal is shown in the Jersey Jug. This year there was $10,300 to be divided between the 39 final entries.

Bill Barlass, Janesville, Wis., served as the judge and Doug Billman, Burbank, Ohio was the associate judge for the day.

Keep 'Em Safe from Rootworms with Lorsban 15G.



Once you get the corn planted, you have to keep it safe from rootworms. And the right way to keep it safe from rootworms is with an at-plant T-band application of Lorsban* 15G insecticide – the most widely used corn soil insecticide.

Lorsban 15G stops rootworms whether you're going conventional, minimum or no-till. And Lorsban 15G controls all species of cutworm, plus a broad spectrum of secondary pests; it's compatible for use with Accent and Beacon herbicides; and comes in the convenient, easy-to-handle Farmer Designed bag.

Agway Takes Fresh Start Approach At 30th Annual Meeting

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — For 30 years Agway has prided itself as being a farmer-owned cooperative based on sound business principles.

But executive vice president and chief operating officer Donald Cardarelli doesn't want the organization to rest on those laurels.

When Cardarelli addressed members attending the annual meeting held at Hershey on Thursday, he urged them to take a "fresh-start" approach and look at Agway's direction as being the first of the next 30 years.

In an honest, down-to-earth style, Cardarelli said that he is proud of Agway's accomplishments and performances in many areas, but recognizes that some areas have not been satisfactory.

Although sales remained at last year's level of $1.7 billion, net losses were $3.3 million because of discontinued food processing investments. The sale of Curtice Burns Foods, Inc. has now been completed and the sale of H.P. Hood Inc. is in the wings.

"This transition enables Agway to go forward," Cardarelli said.

While the company had hoped for larger sales overall last year, and fell short of their goals, they did achieve considerable success in the Energy Group (power fuels and heating oil), and The Financial Services Group, which includes Agway Insurance and Telemark Inc. (finances leases for buildings, equipment, and vehicles). Telemark was up 19 percent in profits.

Retail stores include 29 stores, 23 nurseries, and 364 dealers.

During the past two years, Agway has restructured many areas to improve customer relationships and to make the company more profitable.

Some of these changes generated increased costs, which contributed to the shortfall in earnings in the agriculture and consumer retail businesses.

Cardarelli stressed that the customer-driven philosophy continues to be central to Agway, which is to satisfy customers and improve financial performance. He emphasized the importance of honesty and integrity while being open to change.

"Profitability is the key to survival," he said of the need to make changes in areas that are not viable.

Ralph Heffner, board chairman, reminded members that Agway, which was formed in 1964, is first and foremost a farmer-owned and directed organization. Heffner spoke of the board's commitment in working closely with management to improve financial strength and operating results, especially in the billing process.

Young farmer guest speaker at Hershey was Michael Walker, who with his wife Shelly, operates a 70-cow dairy farm in Meyersdale. A panel presentation on "Precision Crop and Feed Management on the Farm" included Don Schalk, Chris Canale, and Dave Pieczarka.

About 600 members and guests attended the Hershey meeting, which was one of three regional meetings with the same agenda held for members. Another regional meeting was held at Syracuse on Nov. 30 and another in Massachusetts on Dec. 5.

Agway policies are determined by an 18-member board of directors nominated and elected by Agway members. Newly-nominated directors Gary Van Slyke, Pike, N.Y., and Edwin Whitehead, Washington Depot, Conn., join re-elected directors Vyron Chapman, Cassville, N.Y.; Ralph Heffner, Pine Grove; Christian Wolff Jr., Bloomsburg; and Frederick Hough, Augusta, N.J.

Several Ways To Increase Dairy Profit

GEORGE F. W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — As dairy producers, our primary concern is getting the right milk price every month, yet we have so little control over it.

We need an organized effort to increase local consumption of milk, yogurt, ice cream and cheeses.

If we can get more people to eat more pizza more often, that will increase the consumption of mozzarella cheese. Why? Because our milk price at the farm gate is driven by how much cheese is sold in Wisconsin every month.

One thing we do have control over at our farms is the cost of producing milk and the reproductive cost of our milking animals which is, next to feed, the major expense.

By reproductive cost, we mean that if most of our cows were in the early months of lactation, we would have nothing but peak yield production and peak efficiency.

But since admittedly we don't yet know how to keep all cows in peak production at all times, we have to suffer the financial consequences of less and less milk production as cows come to the end of their lactations.

Yet it makes a huge difference financially whether we are skilled enough to have only a few cows or many in late lactation.

This skill we can sharpen daily by looking at our herd records, especially our DHIA records on each cow and for the whole herd.

Ask yourself: What is the reproductive status of my herd today?

Not being able to detect cows in heat is probably the biggest obstacle to lowering reproductive costs. Missing half the cows in first heat after calving, because of their silent estrus or other reasons, will translate into an eventual conception rate of no greater than a costly 60 percent, even when insemination takes place by 51 days after calving and everything else works perfectly.

Heat detection accuracy on many of our farms is only 50 percent, and many farms do not yet breed all their cows back after calving by 51 days.

At least eight parameters have a bearing on how well we can reduce reproductive costs. The first is the "length of dry period"; a dry period shorter or longer than 60 days costs money.

A short dry period does not provide enough time for mammary regeneration and results in less milk yield in the next lactation. A long dry period costs in feed money without milk income; it also often causes fat cows with many health problems after the next calving. Our research has shown that each day over 60 days costs an average of $3 per cow per day; and each day under 60 days costs $2 per cow per day.

The second parameter is "days open." Your goal should be no more than 90 days open after calving. Any excess days are costly.

If your herd right now averages 120 days open, as many of our dairy farms do, that means that a 100-cow herd will lose $9,000 per year, based on the cost of $3 per cow per day above 90 days open. Many things are responsible for longer days open—heat detection accuracy, of course, but also semen quality, breeding technique, nutrition during peak production, diseases, the weather and skilled labor.

The third parameter in checking cow and herd records is "services per conception." The number of services are directly related to conception rate.

Conception rate influences days open, because every missed heat period adds 21 days to days open. The goal per herd should be no more than 1.5 services per conception. If the average is 2.0 services, this 0.5 fraction will translate into an additional cost per cow per year of $7.50. At 1.5 services per conception, the average conception rate would be about only 64 percent.

Fourth, but in my opinion the biggest problem, is "heat detection accuracy." At $3 cost for each day open above 90 days, the financial loss for each extra missed heat period of 21 days would be $63 per cow per year.

Fifth is "days at first breeding" after calving. With good heat detection and with proper feeding at peak production, the first estrus should show at 30-50 days after calving. This means that good herd management should lead to first breeding after calving at the second heat, or 51-71 days in milk after calving.

The sixth parameter is "breeding interval," which also is related to how well heat is detected, especially after first breeding. A herd average should be no greater than 25- 30 days, but if a heat is missed, the average breeding interval increases to a costly average of 41 days.

Seventh is "calving interval" between two consecutive calvings. It's affected by days open and pregnancy length.

Calving interval, which is a sharp indicator of historical performance in my herd, should be between 12 and 13 months per cow per year. If a herd instead averages 13.3 months, the financial loss for that herd would be $14.62 per cow per year; at 14 months, it would be $57.54 and at 14.3 months, it would cost $88.92 per cow per year extra.

Research has also shown from a study of 795 herds on DHIA with 121,773 cows that herds with a calving average of 12.7 months had average milk production per cow per year of 18,330 pounds, while herds with 13.7 months had 17,864 pounds and herds with 15 months had only 15,991 pounds, a considerable production and financial loss due to long calving intervals.

The eighth parameter, "days in milk," which is closely related to length of dry period, is probably the quickest and best daily indicator of how skilled reproductive costs in a herd are managed.

An annual average should be no more than half the usual 305-day lactation length, for example, 150 days. Averages around 200 days in milk indicate severe heat detection and conception rate problems, unless a herd is deliberately on a longer than 305-day lactation length maybe for embryo tranfers or other special management decisions.

All these parameters are meaningful only if daily records on each cow are kept either with DHIA or another computerized milk and feed recording system.

We used to do it by hand before the computer age, but now with larger herds, the computer—the PC on my desk or the big one at DHIA—is making the job so much easier, faster, more comprehensive and more detailed. I don't know how so many of our herd owners can survive economically much longer without a computer.

Personally, I'm not a computer devotee, but computers do a lot of work for me, like a slave, which makes my management effective and more profitable even at lower market prices.

Commercial Goat Milk Production To Be Discussed

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co. — An opportunity exists for goat owners to produce milk commercially for a local goat cheese processor.

A meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 13 to discuss the commercial production of goat milk. The meeting will be held in New Holland at the Diffenbach Auction Barns located along Jackson Street, south of the sales stable.

Topics to be discussed include:

- "The Goat Cheese Market" Alan Toby, Fleer De Lait Foods, Ins., New Holland.
- "Budgeting Dairy Goat Income and Expenses" Glenn Shirk, Extension Agent, Lancaster
- "Producing Goat Milk Commercially—Our Experiences" Rick and Denise Goss, Red Oak Farm, Palmyra
- "Getting Started in the Commercial Goat Milk Producing Business" panel consisting of Rick and Denise Goss, Lynn Sammons of the Willow Creek Animal Hospital, Reading and Jacob Fisher, Windy Hill Goat Dairy Manheim.

Anyone who is interested in the commercial production of goat milk is invited. There will be plenty of opportunity for question and for suggestions and to discuss topics to be addressed at future meetings.

This educational meeting is being conducted by Penn State Cooperative Extension in cooperation with the Lancaster County Dairy Goat Club, the Eastern Lancaster County School District, and Fleur De Lait Foods, Inc.

DAIRY NUTRITION GROUP FORMS

Linda L. Smith
Communications Specialist
Penn State

When Dick Adams retired nearly three years ago, he cut back his work week from 70 hours to 40. Adams had led Penn State Cooperative Extension's dairy nutrition program for nearly 40 years. Ongoing faculty and staff have had to reorganize to make up for this change.

Make no mistake, Dick Adams was a tough act to follow. He was an innovator, leader, driving force, pioneer, professional-among-professionals, cutting-edge scientist, and a creative leader in the development of modern dairy farming throughout the world (see "Adams Steps Back, Not Down").

To help fill the void left by Adams, his colleagues have come together to continue serving the needs of the dairy industry. With combined expertise of five individuals, the Penn State Dairy Cattle Nutrition Extension Group will use a team approach to support Pennsylvania producers.

According to group leader Jud Heinrichs, "Where this group is concerned, the whole is definitely greater than the sum of the parts."

Others who comprise the group are Lisa Holden, Virginia Ishler, Gabriella Varga, and Larry Muller (see chart for areas of emphasis).

With the coming of the information age and the opening of global markets, the dairy industry is experiencing many changes. To meet the challenge, methods for education and technology transfer must keep up. According to Heinrichs, the emphasis for this new Penn State group has shifted to empowering educators and professionals who are strategically positioned to work with producers one-on-one. For instance, whereas a few University extension experts used to provide routine dietary information to individual producers, now they will spend more time training feed industry professionals, county agents, and veterinarians.

A prime focus of the group's efforts will be to work with these intermediaries to identify problems in dairy cattle nutrition before they become widespread, seek out solutions, and then provide proactive training for those individuals who interface regularly with producers.

One such problem in particular was identifying proper forage and TMR particle size and characterizing particle-size distribution so feed recommendations could be made. The solution was the development of a manually operated sorting device that simplifies the task (see "Development Of A Simple Forage And TMR Particle-Size Separator").

In keeping with the mission of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science to facilitate transfer and application of relevant information and to develop and implement programs in the public interest, the Dairy Cattle Nutrition Extension Group is working on a "cafeteria menu" of educational programs that can be tailored to individual needs in the feed industry. A recent offering was November's Dairy Feed Industry Seminar, an educational program on timely issues and topics related to nutrition and feeding management. Nearly all of those attending at one of four sites said the material was "practical and useful," and rated both speakers and the program overall "outstanding."

Plans call for a repeat of last February's highly successful Dairy Nutrition Teleconferences and Workshops, offered at 35 locations in Pennsylvania and six nearby states. The workshops, which reached more than 500 people, combined local hands-on activities conducted by extension agents and interaction with University faculty via satellite. As a result of these workshops, Penn State experts have been invited to present papers at two national symposiums in 1995.

This year's sessions — expected to reach nearly 700 farmers at nearly 50 locations across eight states — will take participants, via satellite, through a feed mill, on farm tours, and even inside the rumen of a dairy cow!

Using satellite communication for technology transfer, extension specialists can deliver information to far more people in a matter of hours than what used to take two people nearly a month of statewide travel. In preparation for their role as facilitators at the satellite conference down-link sites, county agents attend inservice sessions — many also via satellite — that prepare them to lead the workshops. In turn, they benefit from the additional training and are better prepared to educate at the local level.

Among other activities of Penn State's Dairy Cattle Nutrition Extension Group will be a Nutrition Inservice in March to teach troubleshooting skills to feed mill owners, sales representatives, and veterinarians. Smaller workshops are also in the planning stages for feed industry professionals.

For more information on any of these programs, contact Jud Heinrichs, (814) 863-3916.

While Dick Adams's legacy obviously will continue to influence the feeding of dairy cattle in Pennsylvania and beyond, the torch has been passed on to a new group of authorities whose partnered efforts will bring Penn State's resources to an even wider and more diverse audience.

Research Findings

Development of a simple forage and TMR particle-size separator

Jud Heinrichs, Dennis Buckmaster, and Brian Lammers

Objective

Develop a simple device to measure forage and TMR particle size and characterize particle-size distribution so feed recommendations can be made.

Approach

Characterizing and interpreting particle size allows consultants and farmers to refine feeding programs. An existing ASAE standard instrument requires use of a motorized device with five sieves and a bottom pan. Penn State's simplified, manually operated device mimics this with only two sieves and a bottom pan.

Rationale

Forage particle length affects both silage fermentation and utilization by ruminant animals. Dairy cows require fiber for maintenance of rumen function. Rumination and cud chewing stimulate production of saliva, which buffers the rumen.

Summary

Forage particle length, as well as distribution of particles in a TMR, can be important factors in formulating diets for dairy cows. This is of particular importance when the forage portion is low or when total dietary NDF is marginal and coming largely from by-product sources. Measuring forage and total diet particle length is a useful nutritional tool, together with forage analysis and ration formulation.

Adams Steps Back, Not Down

Richard S. Adams became a legend during his nearly 40-year tenure at The Pennsylvania State University. His efforts on behalf of dairy producers were multiplied many times by the close working relationships he forged with county extension personnel, industrial nutritionists, veterinarians, and farm organizations over the years. Adams assisted dairy farmers thousands of times with myriad serious problems. His innate ability to inform, motivate, and organize people resulted in widespread adoption of many novel practices and programs that proved successful on dairy farms.

Adams was recognized as a top dairy cattle nutritionist at local, state, national, and international levels. Even Lyndon Johnson and Bill Clinton have sought his advice on matters agricultural.

Since his retirement early in 1992, Adams has functioned in more of a "behind-the-scenes" role in Dairy and Animal Science Extension. These days you're just as likely to find him on stage with a popular local band, The Bavarian Stompers, or serving as hunting-camp cook. Much of his summers are now spent at his favorite place in the world — a small inn on an island off the coast of Maine which he manages alongside his longtime partner, wife Marilyn.

house to capacity with about 450,000 pounds of Maryland 609 type tobacco.

At the close of the auction on Monday, 350,000 pounds of tobacco were sold, for an average price of $1.15 per pound, according to Eric Probst, auction manager. That was up considerably from the start of the auction season last year.

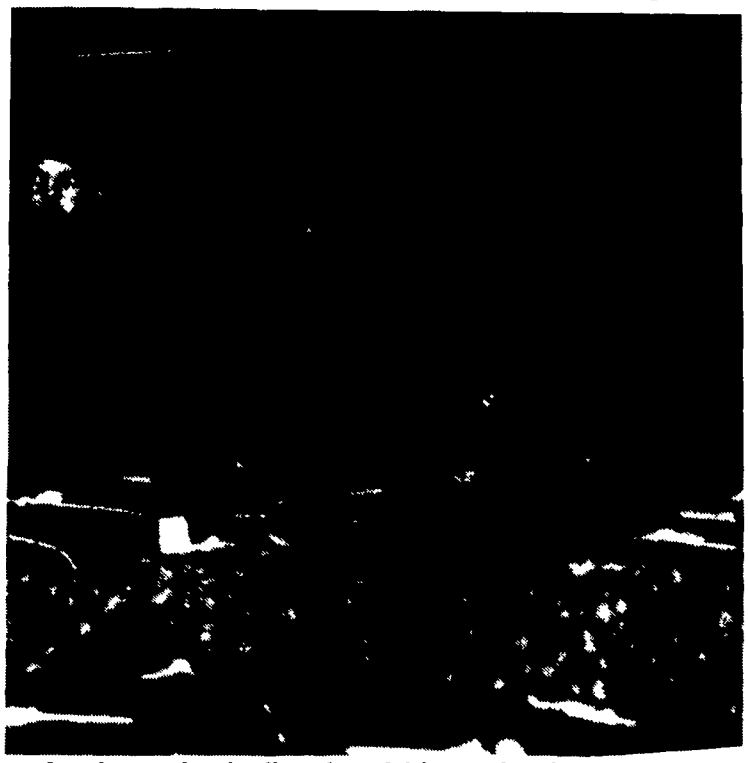
It was the first time in recent memory that the sale barn was filled to capacity. Normally, the overflow would be stacked outside. Because of the heavy rains that morning, according to Donna Probst, the overflow was stored in adjacent sheds.

Regardless, the auction accommodated about 175 sellers on the first day.

As of Wednesday, the top price for all good tobacco, according to Probst, remained at $1.25 per pound. A total of 186,000 pounds were sold for a total of $215,922.

Last year, the high price on opening day was $1.25 a pound (going to a high of nearly $1.50 per pound near the end of the season), down from $1.36 the previous year and $1.65 a pound the year before that. Last year, the auction reported about $296,000 in sales on opening day.

The county's top cash crop was worth an estimated $20 million in 1993. The season lasts 10 weeks long and continues every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday until Christmas week. The auction then resumes for a few weeks in January.



Auctioneer for the first day of this year's tobacco auction season in Paradise was Mitch Ashby, center, in black jacket. Top price for tobacco on Monday was $1.25 per pound.

Waverly Farm Shows Grand Champion Jersey

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — W.F. Justin Bits, owned by Waverly Farm, of Clearbrook, Va., was named senior and grand champion of the 1994 All American Jersey Show, held Nov. 7 in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky.

Justin Bits stood first in the aged cow class of 25 entries and took home first place udder for her aged class. She is Excellent-94.

Starheart Duncan Alpha took reserve senior and reserve grand champion honors and also took home second place udder for her aged cow class. "Alpha" won the Nasco International Type & Production Award (formerly M.B. Nichols award). She received the award for her record of 6-08 19,836M, 918F, and 761P.

This award is based on the highest 305-day record for animals standing within the top 20 percent of their class. "Alpha" is a daughter of Highland Magic Duncan, and is owned by Rock Ella Jersey, Farm Ltd. of Hornby, Ontario, Canada.

Junior champion honors went to Culloden Juno Mollasses owned by Edgelea Jerseys, Little Britain, Ontario. "Mollasses" placed first in the junior yearling class against 36 entries. The reserve junior champion was Walkerbrae MP Olive owned by Piedmont Jerseys Inc., Coaticook, Quebec, Canada. "Olive" placed first in the senior heifer class against 35 entries.

The premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners were both presented to Waverly Farm, Clearbrook, Va. The honor of the premier sire award was given to Valleystream J I S Juno, bred by Valleystream Jerseys, St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada.

Ontario captured first place in the state herd contest, topping the field of 14 entries. Steve White, New Castle, Ind. judged the 442-animal show. Brian Garrison, Tiffin, Ohio was the consultant during the show.

Duncan Daughter Grand At Junior Jersey Show

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Shannon N. Anderson, New Philadelphia, Ohio was awarded the top honor at the recent All American Junior Jersey Show held Nov. 5 in Louisville, Ky.

Her animal, Duncan Eilene of HLF, placed first in the 4-year-old class and went on to capture the senior and grand champion banners. "Eilene" is a Highland Magic Duncan, daughter and her dam is MV Master Etta.

Smith Bros. Sooner Debbie, owned by Claire Dufford, Clearbrook, Va. was awarded the reserve senior and reserve grand champion honors. "Debbie" is a Soldierboy Boomer Sooner of CJF, daughter who won the senior 3-year-old class.

Winners in the two showmanship divisions were Zack Harvenar, Troy, Ohio, in the 9 to 14-year-old division division and Amy Plummer, Chalfont, in the 15 to 19-year-old division.

Tim Abbott, Fairfield, Vt., judged the 243-animal show. David Jones, Yale, Okla., was the consultant during the show.

Cambria County Champion Capon Nets $31 Per Pound

LEBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — This year's winning capon during the annual 4-H Capon, Round-up brought the owner, Linsay Pesarchic, $31 per pound.

Linsay, 17, is the daughter of Blaise and Kim Pesarchic, Johnstown. The two grand champion birds weighted in at 23 1/2 pounds and brought a total of $406.

Mary McGough purchased the second bird. Both buyers also purchased other club members' birds during the sale.

The reserve champion pair was shown by Andy Myers, 10, South Fork, son of Mark and Diane Myers. His two birds brought a total of $238, weighing in at 23 pounds. Dennis Horne, Nationwide Insurance Agency, purchased one of Andy's birds for $15 per pound. Wendy's bought the second one.

Each 4-H member showed two birds at round-up, judged as a pair. Records were maintained on feeding, management, and total cost of bringing the birds to maturity.

At the annual dinner auction, 52 people participated. Judge was Herb Jordan, retired poultry professor, Penn State. The sale was conducted by Wayne Templeton, local auctioneer.

The Capon Club teaches members how to meet people, responsibility, how to care for animals, keeping records, and how to operate a business and find buyers for their products.

Dennis Horne, Nationwide Insurance, purchased the reserve champion capon from Andy Myers, 10.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WEST GROVE (Chester Co.) — Coming home from hunting in the mountains one day, a Chester County equipment dealer noticed a rusting hulk that looked like an old Massey-Harris "Pony" tractor, with a "for sale" sign on it, wasting away in a farmer's field.

The dealer stopped and spoke to the farmer. Indeed, the old "rust bucket," according to Jacob "Jake" Dudkewitz, owner of S.G. Lewis & Son, Inc., equipment, was, indeed, a 1948 Massey-Harris Pony.

Turns out, the tractor was sold to the farmer by S.G. Lewis & Son back in 1948. At that time, the Pony sold for. about $650.

Jake couldn't resist regaining something that reminded him of growing up on his family's small farm in Delaware. He used an old Massey-Harris Pony, similar to the one that needed restoring, in his fields.

So Jake took the rusted tractor from the farmer's hands for a scraping $900.

Sound like a lot? Well, not as much as it cost to restore it. The painting alone, according to Jake, cost $1,200.

That same tractor appears on the cover of a DuPont Classic Farm Calendar (200 in all) issued by the S.G. Lewis & Son business in West Grove.

Jake purchased the tractor in 1990. In 1994, they invited DuPont Classic Tractor series representatives to take pictures of the tractor. A photographer arrived on one of the coldest days of the year, in February this year, to photograph the Pony, which appears in color on the calendar. He took 300 photos of the tractor on a neighbor's farm, according to Jake, and used a lot of photographic equipment to bring out the best picture possible.

It is that kind of devotion that drives a lot of people to collecting and restoring old tractors. Those who are in the business of purchasing old tractors and restoring them for show all want to bring back some of the fond memories of the past.

"We had some of these tractors on our farms and our parents also had some of the Massey tractors," he said. "Today, we still like them as a hobby."

Jake and son John "Jay" Dudkewitz have a collection of about 28 tractors. Jay has restored a 1948 Massey-Harris 55 diesel, a 55 (1955) Massey-Harris liquid propane tractor, and a 1957 555 diesel. Jake is in the processing of restoring two other Ponys. Jay will be restoring a 444 diesel.

Back then, the smaller Ponys were for various light chores. They are quipped with a four-cylinder Continental engine, rated 10 horsepower on the drawbar and 11 on the belt. About 27,000 units were manufactured at the factory located in Woodstock, Canada.

"This size tractor was used a lot in the vegetable growing business," said Jake. "We sold a lot of them for the small farm that replaced the last team of horses."

The Pony weighs 1,500 pounds and could pull nearly 75 percent of its weight.

When they were manufactured from 1940-1953, they were affordable for the small farm. "Now they demand top dollar," said Jake, some going for as much as $5,000 or more.

"I like these little tractors simply because I can load a couple of them up on the trailer and pull them with my pickup truck," said Jake.

Although he said he wouldn't have any idea what you could get for one now, it all depends on "just what anyone would be willing to pay."

This 1948 Massey-Harris Pony, built from 1948-1957, was once a tired old bucket of rust. The tractor was completely restored by Jake Dudkewitz, West Grove. It is featured, in full cover, on the cover of a calendar put out by the DuPont Classic Calendars series. The photo was taken on a neighbor's farm on the coldest day of the year, according to Jake.

One of the problems are missing parts. For many of the small tractors of the era, missing would be side panels, the toolbox, and air cleaner. The panels would be removed when damaged, and the toolbox would be taken out to replace the battery. Often, trees or posts would knock off the air cleaner. Those parts alone are often hard to find.

Fortunately, the Dudkewitzs have an additional Pony "parts" tractor to secure the items they need.

The family has a half a dozen Massey-Harris tractors restored, and the rest are in storage awaiting their turn.

Jake said that his family shows the restored equipment at various tractor shows throughout the country. They have also displayed the restored models at Rough and Tumble Engineers Museum in Kinzers, Lancaster County.

"Every young boy falls in love with a certain tractor — whether it be a Massey-Harris, or International, or John Deere, or whatever — thinking it's the greatest tractor there is," he said. "And we were no different — we always thought the Massey-Harris was the best."

According to Jake, however, those who are looking at restoring tractors for investment should be warned: this isn't a way to make a lot of money.

"It's hard to get all of your money out of some of these things," he said. "It's just the pride in doing it and the fond memories you have of them. And I'm sure collectors of a lot of these farm antiques you see around the country would probably say the same thing. They remember them as a boy or their father or uncle, they fixed them, and worked with them. They restore the tractors out of love."

Jay, left, and father Jake Dudkewitz have restored about seven Massey-Harris tractors, dating from the late 1940s to early 1950s, through the years. They also own and manage S.G. Lewis & Son, Inc., agricultural and industrial equipment dealers, in West Grove.

The sandblasting and repainting were some of the most extensive and expensive restorations done to this 55 liquid propane tractor from Massey-Harris.

Conservancy Groups Successful

WYOMISSING (Berks Co.) — The Berks County Conservancy sent three representatives to the National Land Trust Conference held recently in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Nearly 1,100 local and regional conservation groups are rapidly protecting land in communities across the country, according to a new survey by the Land Trust Alliance. The survey shows that in the last four years alone, the amount of land the Berks County Conservancy and the nation's other land trusts helped protect grew by more than one million acres.

The Berks County Conservancy has concentrated its efforts on the preservation of open space and agricultural land in Berks County. The Conservancy has protected over 1,000 acres in the last two years through acquisition or enactment of conservation easements.

The Land Trust Alliance surveyed local and regional land trusts with these results:

• Land trusts have helped protect 4.04 million acres—an area larger than the state of Connecticut —protecting over 1,300,000 acres since 1990.

• Land permanently protected through conservation easements — voluntary agreements with landowners that permanently conserve their land — has grown from 450,000 acres to 737,000 acres.

• The number of land trusts is increasing at a rate of close to one per week. Half of all land trusts now in existence have been formed in the last ten years.

• In the Mid-Atlantic states, protected land increased 39%. The numbers of land trusts in New Jersey and Pennsylvania doubled.

Survey figures were released at the nation's largest land conservation conference, the seventh National Land Trust Rally. The Berks County Conservancy was represented by Phoebe Hopkins, executive director, Ann Orth, director of land projects; and Joe Hoffman, director of environmental management, at this gathering of more than 700 land trust professionals and volunteers, government agency personnel, and other conservationists. Topics included the latest in the innovative and often highly technical conservation techniques land trusts use.

"People are forming land trusts like The Berks County Conservancy because they want to safeguard the open spaces that make their communities and neighborhoods livable," said Jean Hocker, Land Trust Alliance president.

"They refuse to let shortsightedness cheat them out of their heritage, and that of their children. And they are not waiting for someone else to take action; they're doing it themselves. Land trusts give people a choice. And they are choosing conservation."

Government agencies and the business world have recognized the potential of land trusts' brand of conservation.

"The future of successful natural resource conservation rests with private citizens working in association with each other and with government agencies, conservation groups, corporations, and other landowners," said Mollie Beattie, director of U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and a National Rally speaker. "The growth of land trusts is a sure sign this spirit of partnership is taking root in America."

Hocker calls land trusts' philosophy of voluntary, common sense land conservation a key to their success. Typically, land trusts work closely with willing landowners to help them develop a voluntary plan for conserving their land. Land trusts often buy land or accept it as a donation; however, of particular significance is their growing use of conservation easements.

A conservation easement is an agreement between a landowner and a land trust or government agency in which the landowner permanently restricts development and use of his land.

Conservation easements allow landowners to protect their land while continuing to own and use it, and to sell it or pass it along to their children.

Pennfield Makes $500,000 Investment In Dairy Feed Manufacturing Equipment

MT JOY (Lancaster Co.)—To increase mill capacity and palatability and digestability of their dairy cow rations, Pennfield Corp. has installed two new large state-of-the-art crimpers at their production headquarters to produce what they call "super flakes." This type of equipment is used in the western feedlots and California and Arizona dairy facilities to increase milk production, along with protein in the milk.

In the lower left of this construction photo the two new half-million dollar "super flakes" machines are shown in place before the outside walls were installed. The installation work has been completed and production of the new higher quality dairy feed has come on line.

According to Don Mahlandt, Pennfield dairy feed sales manager, milk pounds and milk protein pounds may be increased by as much as 10 percent with steam flaking versus steam rolling in tests reported by the Journal of Dairy Science. In addition, steam flaking produces a flatter, more digestible corn flake with a 28 lbs./bu density while the present system produces corn at 38 lbs./bu. density. In early production runs at the Pennfield mill, barley has also produced beautiful results.

Randy Adams, vice president feed operations, said the old crimper was installed when the mill was opened in 1987. Because the production needs for dairy feeds have doubled since that time, this machinery is inadequate to meet their needs, thus the present half-million dollor investment in new equipment.

"We could have just installed another crimper and increased our capacity for a lot less money," Mahlandt said. "But we were looking to the future as we help dairy farmers feed their high producing cows to their genetic capability. This is an investment in the future."

When considering the nutritional value of the new flaked feeds, Dr. Tim Snyder, manager of lab and nutritional services, said the process improves ruminal digestion of starches that can increase microbial growth. As a result of this digestion, the production of milk protein can increase.

At present, the new equipmnet is on line and customers have started to see the new feed on their farms.

Dairy MAP Is Family Matter

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

FOMBELL (Lawrence Co.) — Tim Sturgeon is the head of a dairy farm family in Fombell that depends entirely on selling milk and Holstein cattle.

The farm from which the family makes its living has been in their family since about 1870. It is located about 50 miles from Pittsburgh and occupies about 180 acres of hilly, clay-type soil. About 150 additional acres are rented.

The family members are Tim and his wife Kathy, and their three sons — Blane, 12, Wade, 18, and Thad, 21, a senior at Penn State University, and also a 1994 national Holstein Association distinguished junior member.

The Sturgeons milk about 60 Holsteins, mostly registered, with some grade recipient cows used because they do a lot of embryo work.

When Tim was a student at Elwood City High School 30 years ago, there were 20 or so farm families whose children attended school, he said.

Today, the graduating classes have enlarged to more than 200, but at present there are only two full-time farm families with children in the school district. And the other farm family is a neighbor to the Sturgeons.

The situation is similar in many areas.

Whereas the amount of milk needed to be sold in order to support a family has increased dramatically over time, and with the number of mega-dairies competing with smaller farms, the stability of family dairy farms has decreased and many of those farms have disappeared.

The pressure of survival has been increasing on the family farm operation, and is expected to remain.

For these reasons, an educational outreach program was created within the state to help dairy farm families and managers of larger dairy operations.

It is called the Dairy MAP (management and profitability) program, and it is in its third year of being offered through a colaborative effort between the Penn State University Cooperative Extension Service and the Pennsylvania dairy industry.

Earlier this year, Tim Sturgeon attended a Dairy MAP workshop series in his area.

Designed as a two-day workshop, the Dairy MAP program cost $100 per farm which entitles two people to attend. Tim went alone.

"If I had to it to do again, I would have had my wife go along too. I shouldn't just say wife, we have (sons) ... it is just as beneficial for them, if not more beneficial than for my wife an I," Tim said.

So, with ever-tightening cash flows, it may not seem like the best time to divert part of the milk check to pay for a seminar on how to stay in business.

But Sturgeon said attending the workshop may have been the one thing he did recently that will give him a better chance at staying a full-time dairyman.

"I guess the person who thinks he's doing everything right, ought to stay home. (If that person does attend) he's going to find out he's not doing everything right," Tim said.

While a $100 fee may seem steep, Sturgeon said that for him it was definitely money well spent.

"The cost is irrelevant, from what we got out of it," he said. "I do a better job. I do a lot better job of record keeping."

Sturgeon was doing pretty well farming before attending the workshop. He has had his cattle on test for at least 30 years. He raises his own corn, hay, some soybeans, (quit raising small grains), and beds his cattle with wood shavings, locally available and inexpensive.

"We're going to expand, and I wanted to learn about anything that has to do with expansion that we can learn. (Expanding a dairy operation) is a long-range planning process, not something you do right away.

"The thing is, we all (the Sturgeon family) get along really well, but I wanted to get along better."

According to Sturgeon, the workshops he attended were held in the style of an open meeting, "And we did a lot of talking among ourselves and it gave us a good idea of how others were doing, and everybody seemed really open with each other, and that was nice," he said.

But Tim said he got more than good conversation from the workshops.

The Sturgeons now have a mission statement for their farm.

There is a week between meetings in the two-day workshop series. During that time, participants are given homework to do. Part of the homework for Tim Sturgeon was to develop a farm mission statement.

"Our mission is to produce a quality dairy product and to merchandise a top genetic animal, with an emphasis on honesty and respect, not only to others, but by others; to distinguish family values, work in harmony, and be accepted as a businessman, while portraying a Christian image and creating a standard accepted by the consumer.

"We as a family wrote that," Sturgeon said, explaining how they sat down and considered it, all of them, and worked it out. And that they keep it.

Also, the family is closer and communicating better through weekly family meetings, which Sturgeon said started as a result of his attending Dairy MAP.

There are many other changes that came about.

As an example, Sturgeon said he keeps a notebook with him and he writes down how much milk is shipped, what the milk price is, somatic cell count and milk-component production, and other information he needs. He said having ready access to this information when making decisions around the farm allow him to make better-based decisions.

He said by keeping track of the daily milk weight slips, he can keep track of how much he is shipping, especially during times of feed changes.

Information from his notes is recorded on the home computer, although he doesn't use the computer often himself, except for searching for bulls. But his wife and sons can use the computer well.

Tim said months after attending the workshop, he realized that he took home more information than he thought, including a better attitude about how to get things done.

"I guess I would have to say, (I learned) management techniques, and, more than anything, how to work with your help.

"I've always tried to teach the help to have responsibility, even if it's one little thing.

"Our youngest boy, he takes care of (calves). That's his job. But I think that's one thing we talked about at the session — even though I'm the elder person here, instead of being boss and saying, 'You do that and this,' give responsibilities, and make sure that if you are not around, someone can do it.

"Wade, our middle boy ... is basically in charge of (maintaining the quality of the total mixed ration),"

Tim said. "Our nutritionist gives us a worksheet and Wade works off of that. He watches the cows and does all (artificial insemination). He went to AI school and is doing a super job.

"But that's his responsibility. If I see in the morning that there's a cow in heat, and tell him, it's his responsibility to take care of that."

Sturgeon's Dairy MAP-influenced new attitude for success apparently means total success, not just improved cash flow.

"This Dairy MAP taught me how to come home and try to work with the rest of the family and the rest of the help," Tim said.

"It's not difficult to give up (control). It would be if the boys were not interested. In other words, I have enough faith in them, that if I turn a job over to them, it will get done right.

"My past experience is that if any one of our boys sets his mind to doing something, he will do it right, and if he can't do it right, he will come to me and ask.

"I've never given any jobs to my boys that they refused to do. There's no fussing, because we take turns doing stuff (disliked chores).

"Young people have to have responsibility, and they have to realize that responsibility is their's and not someone else's," Sturgeon said, adding his own opinion to what he brought from Dairy MAP.

"I think that's a problem with a lot of parents — they don't encourage their children to take responsibility.

"You can't tell a kid they're dumb, or lazy. If you tell them they're lazy, they're going to be lazy," Sturgeon said.

"You have to give praise once in a while, even if the job is not right, it was better than the last time. You can't cut up your family or your help and expect them to do a job," Sturgeon said.

This year, the program has been changed somewhat. There are three separate workshops offered, starting with a basic workshop called Managing for Success (MFS).

After completing the MFS workshop, participants are eligible to pursue the other two workshops — one for financial management, and another for labor management.

A total of 27 MFS workshops have been scheduled for the coming year, running from January through April, and the locations have been selected to ensure that every dairy manager or would-be manager has a good opportunity to attend a workshop.

Editor's Note: Every year, several hundred Pennsylvania dairy farms go out of business. Changing times make incorporating sound management technologies important for the efficiency and profitability of dairy farm businesses.

In an effort to respond to the need for up-to-date business management information, many dairy industry officials and organizations have turned to Penn State's Dairy-MAP program as one way to help stabilize and reverse the downward trend of the dairy industry in Pennsylvania.

This is the second of three farm interviews with family members who have participated in one of the Dairy-MAP seminars held across the state last year.

Of the two, second-level workshops, this year there are six financial management workshops scheduled, and one labor management workshop.

For more information about Dairy MAP, contact a local extension office, or call Lisa Holden, program coordinator at (814) 863-3672.

Farm Show Volunteers Should Sign Up Now

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Spend a few hours helping to promote the slogan We All Live Downstream by volunteering for the 1995 Farm Show. The Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Education Office is looking for people to help man the exhibit during the show which runs from Saturday, Jan. 7 - Thursday, Jan. 12.

Volunteers will hand out literature and encourage visitors to enter the annual trivia contest, in which knowledge of water quality issues is tested. You don't have to be an expert to volunteer. Each shift will include at least one experienced volunteer and information will be provided on how soil erosion, nutrients, and toxics can affect local water quality and life in the bay. Shift hours are flexible.

Many volunteers sign up every year, and enjoy taking in the Farm Show sights and sounds while helping to educate Pennsylvanians about local water quality and the Bay. Thousands of Pennsylvanians attend the Farm Show annually. The show features livestock competition, crafts, every kind of farm animal, equipment, hundreds of farm and community group exhibits and, of course, lots of delicious food.

Rick Eberle, formerly of Carlisle, has been a Farm Show volunteer for more than five years. "My son has a real interest in water quality issues," said Eberle. "And it feels good to be able to help out in some way. It's great to visit the Farm Show, too. There's really something for everyone and I always learn something new. "

The Pennsylvania Bay Education Office is a part of Pennsylvania's Chesapeake Bay Program, a cooperative project between the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources and related state and federal agencies. The Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Education Office is administered by the non-profit Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, Inc.

For more information, or to volunteer, contact Diane Carlson at the Pennsylvania Bay Education Office at (717) 236-1006.

Provide Adequate Floor Space For Poultry

Herbert C. Jordan
Retired Poultry
Specialist, Penn State

Day-old baby chicks may require as much as 500 square inches of floor space per pound of live body weight, whereas an adult bird may need as little as 20 square inches of floor space per pound of (trim) live body weight.

No one knows why this is so,we can only speculate.

Specialization is, for instance, that we can no longer give birds space based on size (volume) of bird or enterprise. We must give floor space based on age, physical activity, desire, emotional security, or normal behavior.

Since young stock are more active, have higher metabolism, and feel more insecure because they were hatched artificially, we must give day-old birds more and more space to run, play, learn to eat and drink, and learn to get along with each other in captivity.

Adequate space prevents many health or behavioral disorders. So as a rule of thumb, give adult domestic poultry 20 to 72 square inches per pound of live bird and give baby chicks to teen-week birds 72 to 500 square inches of floor space per pound of live body weight.

These figures are from what succeeds from actual field observations on many flocks of chickens, turkeys, water fowl, and ornamental poultry. If birds are crowded, give them roosts or open-end boxes to roost on.

If all else fails in getting growth or reproductive performance, give poultry more floor space or roosts or a four sided open ended box.

Feed, labor, and bird cost per pound of live capons are higher than building cost per pound of live weight bird, so give them space.

Voices Never Heard

Hatchery Manager:

Open unhatched eggs after baby chicks are removed and examine them. Reasons for the unhatched eggs can be found to improve percent hatch next time. If you neglect to open unhatched eggs, the results of human ignorance are compounded and may be increased.

Wide variation among causes of poor hatch is common.

- Inadequate care of parent or breeder birds is frequently found.
- The wrong selection of breeders is found.
- Failure to grow breeders slow and carefully is common.
- Malnutrition, untimely nutrition, pollution, toxicity and incompatible drug use can be found. Poor vaccine use can be found.

In most hatcheries where unhatched eggs are opened frequently the percent hatch is improved. The bad news is that opening unhatched embryos is messy, variable, difficult to interpret and may not show a clear diagnosis.

Ninety percent hatch of fertile eggs or above is valuable. Most people are satisfied with 70 to 90 percent hatch of fertiles. Below 70 percent hatch of fertiles means slow bankruptcy, loss of money, time, effort, and skill. Below 70 percent hatch of fertile eggs results in a loss of labor, loss of breeder function, loss of market share, loss of customers, and loss of capital position. The greatest loss is that many birds that never hatch have superior potential for growth, egg quality, marketability and efficient use of feed.

Association Names Outstanding Producer

SMITHSBURG, MD. — Samuel Hunter, has been named the 1994 Outstanding Polled Hereford Breeder by the Maryland Polled Hereford Association.

Hunter was honored at the 72nd National Polled Hereford Convention, Nov. 2, in Kansas City, Mo.

Winners of the award were recognized for their farm/ranch management, their support of state and national Polled Hereford and cattlemen's activities, community involvement, and long-time contributions to the Polled Hereford breed.

Hunter maintains a herd of nearly 100 head and raises alfalfa and grass hay, along with corn, wheat, and oats. His breeding program produces moderate-framed, easy-keeping cattle that are growthy and well muscled.

He's served as director of the Maryland Polled Hereford Association (PHA) for 13 years, has been treasurer and director of the Pennsylvania PHA, and has served as director and past president of the Mason-Dixon PHA. He's also a member of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association. He's active in his breed's performance records program and participates in steer feeding tests.

He's been a Washington County 4-H leader for 20 years and is a Smithsburg FFA Chapter Honorary Farmer. He's served on the Washington County AG Expo board and is on the Extension Advisory Committee.

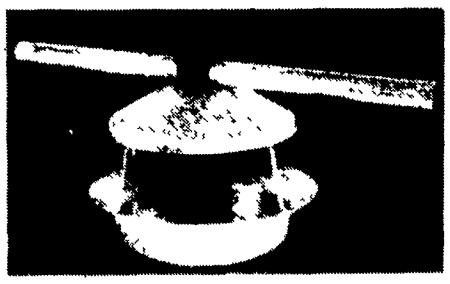
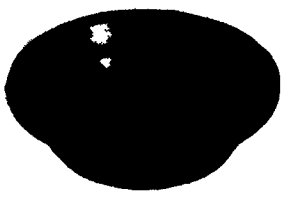
TURKEY PAN FEEDING SYSTEMS



SIMPLY THE LEADER

Cumberland continues being the leader in the manufacturing of poultry equipment by introducing a turkey feeding system for every application. Cumberland's Turkey Feeders have revolutionary features which make them both profitable and easy to maintain for the end customer. Cumberland Feeders deliver feed economically, efficiently, and dependably with savings for the grower. The Cumberland Turkey Pan Feeding System offers a poult turkey pan for young turkeys and two models of adult turkey pans, designed to withstand the rugged treatment of adult turkeys through grow-out.



NEW PLASTIC PAN

Easier to clean... non-corrosive... lighter... Cumberland's plastic pan for both STF and RTF Adult Pan Feeders features improved structural engineering with stronger support gussets, a more durable and effective "hanger" for cleaning and a unique set of two feed-saving "catch walls" that significantly reduce raking and billout.

The HI-LO Pan Feeder

A Two Stage Pan

The first 7-10 days of a broiler's life are critical The eating habits they develop then establish their growth pattern for life.

For these very young birds the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder, resting on the house floor, presents a lip height of 2.1" (the average height of traditional "chick lids"). Because they can easily and safely get in and out of the pan, they're eating out of the pan from day one.

And because the pan needn't be "flooded," they're getting only fresh feed... and only as much as they need.

Then as the birds grow, and the feed line is raised, the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder E-X-P-A-N-D-S into a 3 5" deep adult bird pan!

The higher wall and feed saver lip prevent waste from raking and billout... and cause the birds to eat nearer the outside edge of the pan, assuring a more even "first in, first out" utilization of feed (which also saves feed and maintains freshness).

The Patches Family With Two Dummies

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Chris and Cindy Patches have two adorable daughters and two dummies who live on their farm.

The dummies names are Tony and Kenny. But they aren't the brothers of Ashley, 4, and Alissa, 1. Instead the dummies are stuffed in suitcases, ready for Cindy, a ventriloquist, who entertains crowds with her ability to carry on conversations with the dummies in a way that seems as if the words are spoken by them instead of by her.

Ventriloquism takes a lot of practice of which Cindy has had plenty. She got her start 25 years ago, when she was nine years old and her parents gave her a dummy for a present. Cindy practiced talking without moving her lips by looking in a mirror.

At this time, Cindy sang with her family, The Boshnaugle Family. In the middle of the program, Cindy came on stage to do what she calls "my own thing."

It was good experience for her. As Cindy got older she developed more voices in higher and lower pitches to use in her ventriloquist act.

Her expertise has gained in popularity and Cindy now is kept busy entertaining both adults and children. This is an especially busy time for her as she performs for Christmas programs, banquets, parties, and at church functions.

She estimates that she has at least 18 different themes and will gear her entertainment to fit the occasion and the ages of the audience.

Her husband gets in the act by lugging the suitcases, and he thinks up jokes to incorporate in her acts. Cindy gathers materials "here and there" and puts it all together.

Cindy grew up on a Lancaster County steer and tobacco farm. She met Chris at a roller skating rink.

"My sister dragged me there, but I guess it was worthwhile even though it took Chris forever to ask me out," Cindy said.

Chris considers himself a more cautious individual who doesn't like to rush into things unless he is confident it is the right decision.

When the couple married, they moved on the Lebanon farm, which had been in Chris's side of the family for three generations. On the 130-acre farm, Chris raises 100 head of steers and finishes 4,000 hogs annually. Wheat, corn, alfalfa, and soybeans are raised, but his biggest crop is quality hay that he raises for the horse market.

Since the couple's children have been born, Cindy's time is limited in helping with the farm work but she continues to find some time helping with the pigs, unloading hay, and driving tractor.

Her main area of interest and expertise is decorating the 200-year-old stone farmhouse. The 14-room house at one time was a double house, but the Patches have had the whole house for their use since the beginning.

Each year they choose one room to remodel. So far they finished eight rooms and are working on another one. One room that they finished had not been in use for 40 years. They add electric and heat to each room as they complete it. The couple do most of the finish work themselves. Cindy enjoys choosing the wallpaper, paints, and country accessories for the house.

Chris, who focused on the horticultural side of FFA while in school, now puts his knowledge to work by landscaping focal points around the farm. Both Cindy and Chris consider "keeping the outside looking nice" as their hobby.

Chris limits his outside involvements so that he can devote as much time as possible to Cindy and his daughters.

Cindy considers herself a full-time mother who fills the role of church secretary and ventriloquist on the side.

For those interested in scheduling a ventriloquist program, Cindy may be reached at (717) 949-3261.

Above, Chris and Cindy with daughters, Ashley, 4, and Alissa, 1. In addition to farming, performing ventriloquist's acts with the dummies, and doing all the other things families do, the Patches find time to remodel one room a year in their 14-room farmhouse.

On the right, Cindy uses dummies, Tony and Kenny, for her ventriloquist's acts, which she has been performing for 25 years. According to Cindy, the monkey is more difficult to manipulate than the boy. Cindy has developed different voices to use as she swiftly and smoothly carries on conversations among them.

Ashley gives a kiss to her favorite dummy, while her mother performs a ventriloquist act and Alissa watches.

Chris and Cindy Patches and daughters, Ashley and Alissa, live in this 200-year-old farmhouse that was first purchased by Chris' grandparents.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"Jax is nimble! Jax is quick!

"Jax jumps up and down - and kicks!" (...with apologies to Mother Goose).

The verdict is mostly in on our summer crop of new heifers. These are our two-year-old bovines that have had their first calves, joining the dairy herd as they begin producing milk in response to their maturity into motherhood.

Like any crop, the heifers are producing a mixed yield. There are a couple that you love for their growthy size and good udders, milk production ability, adaptability in joining the herd and for their quiet, loveable temperaments.

There are also a couple at the other extreme that are clueless about finding their own stalls, respecting gates or understanding that the proper place to lie down and rest is on the grass or dry ground of the exercise lot, not the goopiest "mud" puddle around.

And then, like all crops, this one has a weed or two.

Like Jax. Jax is a medium-sized Holstein heifer, good appetite, even is learning to find her own stall. Well, once in awhile. After most of the rest have found theirs and hers is the only left in that vicinity of the barn. Walking down through the double rows of black-and-whites, she stands out from the rest of the "girls" in no significant way whatsoever. Just another herd member.

Until you make a move to do anything with her. Then she turns flakey.

Jumps around. Dances back and forth. Tries to grab your hair when you have your head in near her to wash and prep her for milking. Now, we always have an affectionate pet or two in the herd that will try to lick at your arm or grab your hair when your head is down close to her flank — as close to nuzzling you as a cow generally gets.

But, Jax's intentions are not affectionate. We've never had a heifer that tried to bite you — horses often do — but given the opportunity, I suspect Jax would yank a hunk of hair right out of your scalp. With a piece of scalp attached probably.

And she has one of the most lethal tails I've ever seen on a cow. I regularly trim the cows switches to a fairly-short length, to minimize the amount of dirt and manure they pick up with them to slather all over themselves, other cows — and the people who milk them. Jax has an extraordinarily long tail, all bone and little switch on the end — and knows precisely where to club you on the head wisk it. First, she makes sure it is properly wet and dirty. Weird thing about Jax is that, once the milker is on her udder and the milk flowing, she generally just stands there and makes little more fuss.

Margaret, on the other hand, is a first-calf heifer of a gentler kind. Tall, big-bodied and maybe just a bit gangly, like a fast-growing teenager that hasn't quite learned to handle her body with grace, she has the personality of a little pussycat. When Margaret nuzzles you, it's with affection.

She even has a sense of humor. Last evening, she slipped away as I went to milk her and led me on a likely game of tag up, down and around the barn. It took about three innings of this barn tag (and I was "it" on all of them) to finally get Margaret back in where she belonged.

In this post-harvest time of year, most farmers take stock of the year's crops and make plans for the next.

For next year's heifer crop, I'd like to place an order for several more Margarets. And no more Jax's. Please.

Let The Buyer Beware This Holiday Season

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The saying, "A fool and his money are soon parted," can be especially true during the holiday season. With the hectic pace and frazzled nerves that many people experience at this time of year, it's easy to get careless when making spending decisions.

But there are a few tips to keep in mind that can help you avoid unpleasant shopping experiences, according to a family resource specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"With a lithe bit of common sense, you can make holiday gift-buying relatively painless," said Dr. Marilyn Furry, associate professor of extension education.

"First of all, shop only in reputable stores," said Furry. "Avoid unlicensed street peddlers or vendors who canvass office buildings, offering special deals on high-priced items. If you do consider merchandise from such a vendor, only buy an item with no moving parts and be sure it can be thoroughly inspected."

Furry said you should ask about a store's refund and exchange policy when buying gifts, and keep all receipts. "Also, study any warranty before you buy," she said. "If you don't understand it, have it explained to you."

Set spending limits for gifts, decorations and holiday entertainment, and try to use credit cards in moderation, Furry said. "Don't let the ease of charging tempt you into extending yourself," she said. "Payment due dates and high finance charges have a way of sneaking up on you."

If you do charge items, Furry recommends checking the receipts and credit card slips against the statement you receive in the mail to make sure the bill is correct.

"Your statement must reach you at least two weeks before payment is due," she said. "Don't let a store assess finance charges on unpaid balances if your late payment is due to their failure to mail your statement on time."

If a dispute arises over a billing error, do not write a note on the bill. Instead, said Furry, write a separate letter to the store, preferably by certified mail, explaining The problem. The store or credit card company cannot make an unfavorable report to a credit rating firm while the dispute is in progress.

Some people prefer the convenience of shopping at home through mail-order catalogs. But Furry said that can be risky unless you order from reputable companies.

"Mail-order merchandise can arrive late or defective, or may not come at all," she said. "If the company can't deliver the items within 30 days, they must notify you in writing, giving you the option to cancel the order for a full refund or accept a later delivery date." For information on reputable mail-order companies, check the October 1994 issue of Consumer Reports magazine.

Furry said if you receive unordered gifts or packages in the mail, they are yours to keep. "By law, you are not responsible for merchandise you have not ordered," she said. "You do not have to return the merchandise or pay for it."

But use caution when receiving C.O.D. packages for you or your neighbor. "Accept C.O.D. packages only when they're expected," said Furry. "Don't pay the post of fice for a surprise package — the surprise may be more than you bargained for, such as gift-wrapped stones."

Beef Industry Wins Award

CHICAGO — The checkoff-funded LunchPower! Healthy School Lunches program, a guide to reducing fat and sodium in school lunch meals, was recently awarded the respected Presidents' Circle Nutrition Education Award from The American Dietetic Association and its Foundation.

The award was presented to the Beef Industry Council (BIC) during ADA's 77th Annual Meeting, October 17-20 in Orlando, Fla. The Presidents' Circle Award was established in 1983 to honor an organization or government agency for excellence in developing scientifically sound nutrition information that is "unique in concept, creative in presentation, and free from specific commercial message or endorsement." The BIC is a division of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, which also won the Presidents' Circle Award in 1986 for the Meat Nutri-Facts program.

TAKING TIME

by Rebecca Escott

Penn State
Extension Home Economist
For Lehigh County

For the first time ever (I think) I had my Christmas gifts all purchased before Thanksgiving. Of course, I had an ulterior motive — save on shipping costs by delivering to family members in person. That was one stress out of the way, but now the rest are flooding me.

In the next few days I want to accomplish many things: write and mail cards; bake cookies; host a caroling party; get the tree, lights, wreaths, candles, and garland up. Of course, I also "need to" fit in office festivities, friends' open houses, a Messiah Sing-a-Long, an evening horse-drawn carriage ride, and more! My scheduling has been complicated by the fact that my husband is out-of-town for eight days this month. I'm starting to panic. He wants all the "atmosphere" in place early so he can enjoy it before he leaves.

Are you panicking, too? In the midst of all this holiday hubbub, I uncovered an excellent article written by Jerri Wolfe, a family life educator in Seattle, Washington. Her thoughts helped me regain a healthier attitude. Maybe they will help you. She suggests reflecting on these 12 thoughts.

1. I can choose with my family how to spend the holiday season.
2. I can discard old traditions that are no longer meaningful and create new ones that fit my family and our needs and personality.
3. I don't have to compete with others.
4. I will treat myself with respect and get plenty of rest.
5. I need to enjoy the process of preparing for the holidays, rather than fret about the deadlines.
6. I can discard my "overly" adult attitudes and behaviors and look at the holidays from a child's perspective.
7. I am not responsible for orchestrating everyone else's holiday experience. I can incorporate those around me in planning meaningful activities.
8. I will allow myself to enjoy the season, rather than focus on just one or two special days.
9. I can ignore attitudes and behaviors I find objectionable.
10. I will remember that there are no "perfect" families, where meals are all wonderful, children are all well behaved and everyone gets along.
11. I will find the thoughtfulness in each gift regardless of how bizarre it may seem.
12. I will give the gift of experiences.

I encourage you to read these statements often over the next few weeks. Pick ones that are particularly difficult for you. Write them on a card and post them in a prominent place. No matter what the holiday or the occasion, you have choices to make. Take time this month to actually enjoy the real beauty and warmth of the winter holidays.

Calcium Connection To Lower Blood Pressure

COLUMBUS, Ohio — High blood pressure, which is also known as hypertension, affects more than 50 million Americans or one in every four adults. High blood pressure can lead to heart disease, stroke and several types of kidney disease. Almost half of all people with high blood pressure do not even realize they have it.

Following advice for reducing the risk of high blood pressure means making lifestyle changes: lose weight if you are overweight, exercise regularly, reduce sodium intake, don't smoke and limit alcohol consumption. The National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute (NHLBI) stresses the importance of diet in the prevention and treatment of high blood pressure.

Mounting evidence suggests dietary changes may have a positive impact on reducing risk for high blood pressure for those who consume adequate calcium, magnesium and potassium in their diets. Evidence accumulated in more than 300 studies conducted since the early 1980s has shown that individuals at risk for or already diagnosed with high blood pressure were consuming less than the RDA of 800 milligrams of calcium per day—or, for example, the equivalent of three eight-ounce glasses of milk. Calcium, magnesium and potassium are found in many foods. However, they are found together in significant quantities in one natural food source—dairy foods. Dairy foods, including milk, cheese, and yogurt, offer the combined nutrient package of calcium, magnesium and potassium. More than 50 percent of adults do not consume enough calcium. Adults need two to four servings of dairy products each day to meet their RDA for calcium.

Gifts From The Kitchen

"A homemade gift from the kitchen is a true token of affection," said Betty Rosbottom, cookbook author and founder of La Belle Pomme Cooking School in Ohio. "Lovingly wrapped and ribboned, the sweetest gifts are the ones you make for family and friends."

When baking gifts for giving, Rosbottom uses the highest quality ingredients — like real butter. Its taste is unmistakably rich. In addition, butter enhances the flavor of other ingredients, making them more pronounced.

Tabletop designer Nancy Wall Hopkins believes that the package is just as important as its contents. "Homemade treats deserve handmade containers," she said.

She suggests using on-hand household items or materials that can be purchased inexpensively from craft of hobby stores. Decorate a round cardboard box by gluing twine or cording around it. Sponge on gold acrylic paint for a dazzling finishing touch. Or simpler yet, glue dried leaves or flowers onto a plain box. Using "natural finds," as she calls them, is environmentally friendly and consistent with the trend toward do-it-yourself.

Package treats in the boxes lined with tissue paper or in cellophane bags. Attach gift tags decorated with colorful stickers and tie with a red or green ribbon for a colorful holiday presentation. If time permits, copy the recipe and include it with your gift.

JOLLY JARS OF SNACK MIX

For an instant gift, top a jar of Holiday Snack Mix with a spectacular bow. Place snack mix in clear containers with lids.

HOLIDAY SNACK MIX

3 cups cinnamon toast flavor cereal
2 cups chocolate bear-shaped graham snacks
2 cups peanuts
1½ cups red and green candy-coated chocolate pieces

In large mixing bowl, combine cereal, graham snacks, peanuts and chocolate pieces. Pour mixture into container with lid. Makes 16 to 18 servings.

SHAKE 'N SERVE CRACKERS

¾ cup SoyOil
2 12-ounce packages dill weed
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon lemon pepper
1 envelope ranch dressing

Mix all ingredients except crackers. Add mixture to oyster crackers in large plastic bag. Shake and serve or put mixture into glass jars for gifts.

CHOCOLATE ALMOND MINI-TORTES

Tortes:
4 ounces bittersweet chocolate, broken into small pieces
½ teaspoon instant coffee powder
½ cup butter, room temperature
⅔ cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup finely ground almonds
¼ cup fine, dry plain bread crumbs

Glaze:
4 ounces bittersweet chocolate, broken into small pieces
¼ cup butter
2 teaspoons honey
Sliced or slivered almonds

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. For tortes, melt chocolate in top of double boiler over hot, not boiling, water. Stir in coffee powder. Remove from heat and cool slightly. In large mixer bowl, cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add melted chocolate mixture, almonds and bread crumbs, beating just until smooth. Divide batter among 24 paper-lined mini-muffin cups. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool slightly; remove tortes from pans and transfer to wire rack; cool 30 minutes.

For glaze, place chocolate, butter and honey in top of double boiler over hot, not boiling, water. Stir constantly 3 to 4 minutes or until smooth and shiny. Transfer to small bowl; cool about 10 minutes to thicken slightly. Spread about a teaspoon of glaze over top of each torte; top with almond slice.

Packaging food gifts gives that extra special touch that can make ordinary food seem elegant.

GLITTERING GIFTS

Ordinary cookie tins become elegant gift boxes when decorated with a holiday bow. Pies sparkle when wrapped in Reynolds Crystal Color Plastic Wrap, which is available in crystal rose, green, and clear colors to add that special holiday glow to your gift giving. Several of the cookie recipes are from Sarah Clark, Breezewood, who bakes tons of cookies for gift giving each years.

COCONUT SHOO-FLY PIE

1 cup flour
¾ cup dark brown sugar
1 cup coconut
1 tablespoon shortening
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup pancake syrup
1 cup hot water
1 teaspoon baking soda
9-inch pie crust

Mix together flour, sugar, and coconut to form crumbs. Reserve ½ cup of this mixture for topping in another bowl. Mix egg syrup and ¾ cup hot water; add to dry ingredients. Dissolve baking soda in remaining ¼ cup hot water. Add to mixture, pour in unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Bake at 375 degrees for 35 minutes.

The end-of-the-year-holidays bring out the cook in all of us. The kitchen lures us into its web of stove, oven, and mixer.

The idea of giving a gift made in your own kitchen is certainly not new. But it is a warm, personal gesture that is always appreciated. It brings pleasure to both the giver and the recipient.

All that is needed are good recipes that require minimal culinary skills. The American Dairy Association has gathered such a collection — from candy and flavored butter to quick bread and cookies. For a free copy of the brochure, send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to Dairy Gifts from Your Kitchen, Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association, P.O. Box 19464, Baltimore, MD 21206.

Here is a recipe from the brochure.

SNACK MIX

½ cup butter
¼ cup soy sauce
1 teaspoons seasoned salt
1 cup blanched whole almonds
3 cups bite-size crispy rice squares
1 pound salted cocktail peanuts
1 cup golden raisins
3-ounces chow mein noodles
¼ cup sesame seed
3½ ounces flaked coconut

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Heat butter, soy sauce, and seasoned salt in large skillet over low heat until butter is melted. Stir in almonds. Cook, stirring constantly, 5 minutes. Stir in cereal, peanuts, raisins, noodles, and sesame seed. Cook, stirring constantly, until noodles begin to brown, about 10 minutes. Stir in coconut. Spread half of the mixture in a 15x10-inch jelly roll pan. Bake 10 minutes. Cool on paper toweling. Repeat with remaining mixture. Store in airtight container at room temperature until ready to package as gifts. Will keep up to one month.

Tasty Treats For Canine Friends Only

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Looking for a special gift for a pampered dog?

Make some dog biscuits or deer jerky. Your pet will gleefully gobble homemade pet treats.

If you have a friend who loves dogs, package some homemade dog biscuits in an airtight container and tie on a holiday ribbon. He or she will appreciate the thoughtfulness you show in remembering this often-forgotten family member.

Here are recipes from our readers.

Deer Jerky

1 pound venison (shoulder cuts, flank or round steak)
½ cup soy sauce
1 teaspoon garlic powder

Slice venison with the grain into thin strips, ¼ to ½ -inch wide and 2 to 6 inches long.

Paint on or dip the strips into a mixture of soy sauce and garlic powder.

Place on wire rack in deep oven pan; dry completely in 150-degree oven for eight to 12 hours.

Pet Bread Pudding

Preheat oven to 325°

Grease baking pan with butter.

Cube white bread and put in baking pan.

In bowl, mix 3 eggs, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Pour wet ingredients over bread in baking pan.

Place baking pan in a pan of water in oven and bake for 1 hour just 1/2 cup each day.

This recipe is for dogs when they get sick.

Dog Biscuits

2 cups whole wheat flour
2 cups all-purpose flour
3/4 cup cornmeal
4 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 cups boiling water
4 bouillon cubes

If desired, garlic, crisp bacon strips, bacon drippings or your dogs, favorite flavor.

Combine first four ingredients. Mix well.

Add bouillon to flour mixture. Mix to make a stiff dough.

Roll onto a floured surface. Cut out shapes with cookie cutter or glass.

Bake in a preheated, 300-degree oven for 30 minutes.

Doggie Biscuits

1 1/2 cups unbleached flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
1/2 cup rye flour
1 cup bulgur
1/2 cup cornmeal
1/4 cup instant nonfat dry-milk powder
2 teaspoons salt
1 envelope active dry yeast
1 1/2 cups chicken broth
1 egg, slightly beaten with 1 teaspoon milk

Turn oven to 300°F. Mix the first 8 ingredients with a wooden spoon in a large bowl. Heat chicken broth to lukewarm; add to flour mixture. Stir until dough forms. Roll out dough until it is 1/4-inch thick. Using a large dog biscuit for model, cut out bone shapes from dough. Place on greased cookie sheets. Brush dough with egg glaze. Bake bones for 45 minutes. Turn oven off. Biscuits should remain in oven overnight to harden. Makes 50 3-by-1-inch bones.

Chocolate Canine Chews
18 Chews

3 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
2 1/2 cups oatmeal
3 tablespoons corn oil or margarine
2 squares (1-oz. each) unsweetened chocolate
2 cups water or milk
3 tablespoons brown sugar

Preheat oven to 300°. Mix flour and oatmeal together. Heat water, oil, chocolate, and sugar over low heat, stirring occasionally, until chocolate melts. Pour into flour mixture and stir until well mixed. Dough should be stiff.

Pat out dough to 1/2" thickness on lightly oiled cookie sheet. Cut with doggie biscuit cutter and remove scraps. Pat out scraps and proceed as before.

Bake for 1 hour or until brown and crisp. Cool on wire rack.

Rye Crisps
16 Crisps.

2 cups rye flour
1/2 cup soy bean flour or 1/4 cup each white flour and cornmeal
6 tablespoons oil
2/3 cup warm water

Preheat oven to 350°. Blend flours. Mix oil with water and add to flour. Mix well, dough should form a ball.

Pat out dough to 1/4" thickness on lightly oiled cookie sheet. Cut with doggie biscuit cutter and remove scraps. Pat out scraps and proceed as before.

Bake for 40 minutes, cool on wire rack.

Master Recipe for Dog Biscuits
10 Biscuits

2 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
1/2 cup powdered dry milk
1/2 teaspoon each salt, garlic powder
6 tablespoons margarine, shortening, or meat drippings
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon brown sugar
1/2 cup ice water

Preheat oven to 350°. Combine flour, dry milk, salt, and sugar, cut in shortening until mixture resembles cornmeal. Mix in egg. add enough water so that mixture forms a ball.

Pat out dough 1/2" thick with your fingers, on a lightly oiled cookie sheet. Cut with doggie biscuit cutter and remove scraps. Pat out scraps and proceed as before.

Bake for 25-30 minutes. Remove from oven and cool on cake rack.

Variations and helpful hints for the master recipe. To vary flavor and texture add one of the following:

1 cup pureed cooked green vegetables or carrots

6 tablespoons whole wheat or rye kernels (available at health food stores)

2-3 tablespoons dried soup greens

3 tablespoons liver powder (available at health food stores)

Mix in the ingredient of your choice when you add the egg, then proceed with the basic directions.

The master recipe may be made in your food processor. Divide recipe in half and proceed with your processor's directions for pie dough.

Cover cookie sheet with tinfoil and just reoil between batches. When you are finished, no clean up.

Dog Biscuits

1 1/4 cups whole wheat flour
1/2 cup quick rolled oats
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup white flour
1/2 teaspoon sugar
3/4 cup dry powdered milk
1/4 cup yellow corn meal
1/2 cup hot water
1/3 cup vegetable oil

1 tablespoon chicken or beef boullion granules or 1/4 cup canned grated cheese (add 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder)

Mix all. Roll on floured board. Cut with cookie cutter. Makes 3 dozen.

Oven: 350°, for 15–20 min., until dry.

Microwave: 50%, 5–10 min., turning every 2 mins.

"Doggie" Oatmeal-Peanut Butter Cookies

3 cups whole wheat flour
1 1/2 cups bran flakes cereal
1/2 cup quick cooking oatmeal
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup beef drippings or safflower oil
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup milk
1/2 cup peanut butter, smooth
1/4 cup brown sugar or honey

In mixing bowl, combine dry ingredients. Stir in drippings or oil, eggs, milk, peanut butter and brown sugar or honey. With hands pat dough out on lightly floured board and cut in shapes suitable for your breed of dog. Place on cookie sheet and bake at 350° for 20 minutes.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Linda Fisher, Ronks, would like a recipe for salsa, either hot or mild.

QUESTION — Anna Lehman, Hershey, would like a recipe for black walnut chipper cake.

QUESTION — Rosemary Mattiuz, Kersey, wants a recipe for liverwurst. The family butchers their own pigs and has lots of liver to use.

QUESTION — Ruth Best, Newburg, wants recipes for diabetic jams and jellies of several different fruit flavors.

QUESTION — A York County reader would like a recipe for fresh coconut cake using a boxed cake mix.

QUESTION — Anne Crist, Airville, would like a recipe to make root beer in a gallon jar. Yeast and root beer syrup is added and left set in the sun for a day. Anne previously used this recipe and her family loved it, but she misplaced the recipe.

QUESTION — Betty Evans, Pequea, has been looking for years for an old recipe for roll-out sugar cookies that are soft and look like they rise during baking. When cool, the cookies are frosted.

QUESTION — Ruth Ann Burke, York, would like a recipe for Firehouse Potato Soup. She had clipped it from this paper several years ago and her family really liked it. Recently, her daughter requested it, but the recipe has been mislaid. Did anyone else clip the recipe?

QUESTION — Marjorie Ludwig, Hegins, wrote that a few years ago a recipe was printed in this column for a compote filling that was hot and put into a hollowed-out pumpkin for serving. She mislaid the recipe and would like it again. Does anyone know to what recipe she is referring?

QUESTION — Sandy Sheffer, Glen Rock, would like a recipe for canning Polish dill pickles from scratch, not using the pickling mix packets.

QUESTION — Alice Rhoad, Grantville, would like a recipe for the starter for Friendship Cake, not the cake recipe.

QUESTION — Becky Shires, Oxford, would like a recipe for lemon meringue cake. She had a piece at Miller's Smorgasbord near Lancaster recently. The layer cake had a filling between layers and pecans on the outside.

QUESTION — M.J. Howard, Columbus, N.J., would like a recipe for the ham and bean soup that was sold at the Gordonville Fire Co. Builder's Sale on October 16. She writes "it was wonderful and I bought every container they had left."

QUESTION — Andy Andrews, Brownstown, would like a recipe for pumpkin-flavored candy apples.

QUESTION — A Lancaster County reader would like a recipe for pepper jelly made with Karo or white corn syrup.

QUESTION — Do any readers have a recipe for homemade ice cream made with potatoes?

QUESTION — Aida Mothes, Renick, W.V., writes that she was in Norway, a quick bread that was often served in restaurants was a fruit or nut bread that was very moist. She would like the recipe.

ANSWER — Donna Gravier, Bernardston, Md., wanted a recipe for grape jelly using frozen concentrated grape juice. Thanks to A.P. Isennock, York, for writing that she uses frozen grape juice undiluted to make the recipe that is printed with the Sure-Jell directions. Make sure you follow the directions exactly. Frozen apple juice may also be used to make apple jelly.

HOLIDAY GOODIE BASKET

Fill basket with caramel mini-popcorn balls and add a bow.

CARAMEL MINI-POPCORN BALLS

24 squares vanilla caramel candies
1 tablespoon water
5 to 6 cups popped popcorn

In large mixing bowl, place unwrapped caramels and water. Microwave on high one minute. Stir. Continue microwaving on High, stirring every 30 seconds, until caramels are melted. Add popcorn; toss until well coated. Wet hands; shape mixture into 2-inch balls. Wrap each popcorn ball in a sheet of crystal clear plastic wrap. Makes 1½ dozen popcorn balls.

BEAUTIFUL CANDY BOXES

Nestle homemade candy bonbons in boxes lined with colorful plastic wrap. To make individual nests for candies, place thumb in center of 6-inch sheets of crystal rose or green plastic wrap. Mold plastic around thumb to form nests. Place bon-bons in nests and arrange in decorative box.

PEANUT BUTTER BON-BONS

1½ cups confectioners' sugar
⅓ cup peanut butter
3 tablespoons softened butter
1 tablespoon milk
6 squares (1 ounce each) semi-sweet chocolate
2 teaspoons shortening (do not not substitute butter or margarine)

In large bowl, with electric mixer, cream together powdered sugar, peanut butter, butter, and milk until smooth. Using about 2 teaspoons mixture per ball, shape into 24 (1-inch) balls. Refrigerate until firm. In 1-quart microwave-safe bowl, stirring every minute, microwave chocolate and shortening on medium until chocolate is melted and smooth, 3 to 4 minutes. Dip balls into chocolate mixture. Place balls on wax paper-lined tray; refrigerate until set. Microwave remaining chocolate mixture on medium heat for 30 to 45 seconds. Drizzle over chilled bonbons. Makes 2 dozen candies.

ANSWER — Donna Gravier, Bernardston, Md., wanted a recipe for snow pudding. Thanks to Blanche Morgan, Hegins; Kitty Robson, Lebanon, and an anonymous reader for sending recipes.

Snow Pudding

Mix:
1 envelope gelatine
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
Add and stir until gelatine dissolves:
1½ cups boiling water
Add:
¼ cup lemon juice

Chill mixture until it is as thick as unbeaten egg whites then add:

3 egg whites, beaten until soft peaks form.

Snow Pudding

1 tablespoon gelatine
1 cup boiling water
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup cold water
¾ cup sugar
2 egg whites
Dash salt

Soak gelatine in cold water about 5 minutes then dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar, lemon juice, and occasionally stir mixture while letting mixture jell in the refrigerator. When mixture is fairly thick, beat with beaters until frothy and white looking. Add stiffly beaten egg whites and beat until mixture holds its shape. Turn into individual molds.

When serving, add custard sauce (remove pudding from molds). Recipe for custard sauce follows:

2 cups milk
4 egg yolks or 2 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla

Scald milk in double boiler. Return to double boiler and cook while stirring constantly. Cook until mixture coats the spoon. Remove at once. If mixture cooks too long, it will curdle. Add vanilla.

Snow Pudding Or Lemon Whip

2 tablespoons granulated gelatine
½ cup cold water
½ cup boiling water
2¼ cups ice water
1 cup sugar
¾ cup lemon juice
Little lemon rind

Soak gelatine in cold water until soft. Add to boiling water and stir over hot water until thoroughly dissolved. (The object of heating only part of the water is to hasten the cooling and solidifying of the gelatine mixture).

Add sugar and stir until dissolved. Remove from heat. Add remaining liquid and rind and mix thoroughly. When mixture begins to congeal, beat it thoroughly with an egg beater. Pour into mold. When cold and jelled, serve with soft custard.

GUMDROP COOKIES

1¼ cups flour
1 cup quick-cooking oats
1½ cup finely cut up gumdrops (any flavor but licorice)
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter, room temperature
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 large egg

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Lightly grease cookie sheets. In large bowl, mix oats, flour, 1 cup gumdrops, baking powder, baking soda, and salt until blended.

In other bowl, beat butter, sugar, and vanilla until fluffy. Beat in egg until blended. With mixer at low speed, gradually beat in flour mixture just until blended.

With floured hands, roll slightly rounded teaspoonfuls of dough into ¾ -inch balls. Place on prepared cookie sheets 2-inches apart. Place gumdrops on top of cookie to decorate.

Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool 5 minutes on cookie sheet before removing to rack to cool. Store in airtight containers up to two weeks or freeze. Makes 72.

PEANUT BUTTER SURPRISE COOKIES

⅔ cup shortening
⅓ cup light brown sugar
2 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon almond extract
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup peanut butter
1½ cups chopped salted peanuts

Cream shortening and sugar in a bowl. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beat well until light and fluffy. Add the almond extract. Add sifted dry ingredients and stir in creamed mixture. Chill. Shape into 24 balls and flatten each on a lightly floured board. Place one teaspoon peanut butter in the center of each and wrap the dough around peanut butter. Roll in lightly beaten egg white, then peanuts.

Place on cookie sheet sprayed with vegetable spray.

SHAGGY DOGS

1 cup butter, melted
1½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups chopped dates
4½ cups rice crispy cereal
1 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
Coconut

Cook butter, sugar, milk, salt, and dates until thick and fairly smooth.

Add vanilla, cereal, and nuts. Roll into balls and then roll in coconut. Store in cool place.

Generate Beef Sales

CHICAGO, Ill. — Consumer market research shows that new recipes can generate incremental beef retail purchases. Using checkoff funds, the Beef Industry Council (BIC) has created a new self-standing, meat counter display, called the Beef Recipe Center, to distribute more recipes during this time of increased supply.

The Holiday Entertaining Recipe Center is the first of three mailings that will hit stores during critical supply periods over the next year. In April, retailers will receive the second Recipe Center with grilling recipes and in September, they will receive another Recipe Center with winning recipes from the 1995 National Beef Cook-Off®.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Catherine Bucher, Harleysville, wanted recipes using wild (native) persimmons and also information on Pennsylvania persimmons. Thanks to Joan Yarnall, Gilbertsville, for sending a recipe.

Persimmon Cookies

1 cup fresh persimmon pulp
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup sugr
½ cup butter
1 egg
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup dark raisins

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease cookie sheets. In small bowl, combine persimmons and baking soda. In large bowl, cream sugar and butter; beat in egg. Add persimmon mixture and remaining ingredients to creamed mixture; blend well. Drop batter by teaspoonfuls onto prepared cookie sheets. Bake for 5 to 10 minutes or until golden. Cool on wire racks.

ANSWER — A Chester County reader wanted a recipe to make wine or brandy from pears. Thanks to Jacque Schiffer, Olivebridge, N.Y., for sending a recipe. She recommends the book "Enjoy Home Winemaking," by Robert and Eileen Frishman. It's a good guide for the beginner and only costs $2. Wine making supplies are available from various suppliers, check the yellow pages under winemaking. She gets her supplies from The Science and Hobby Emporium in Tillson, N.Y. 1-800-763-3212 or The Mountain Malt and Hop Shoppe in Lake Katrine, N.Y., 914-336-7688.

Pear Wine
1 gallon

4 pounds ripe pears
6 pints water
4 cups sugar
2½ teaspoons acid blend
½ teaspoon pectic enzyme
1 teaspoon yeast nutrient
1 campden tablet, crushed
1 package wine yeast

Wash, drain, remove stems. Cut in half and core. Cut into small pieces. Using nylon straining bag, mash and strain juice into primary fermentor. Immediately add crushed campden to prevent discoloring and spoiling of juice. Keep all pulp in bag, ..e top and place in primary fermentor. Stir in all other ingredients except yeast. Cover. After 24 hours, add yeast. Cover. Stir daily, check specific gravity and squeeze pulp lightly to aid juice extraction. When specific gravity reaches 1.040 (3-5) days syphon wine off into glass secondary fermentor. Attach air lock. Let fermentation continue until SG reaches 1.000, about 3 weeks. Syphon off into clean glass fermentor. Reattach airlock. Syphon again in two months and again if necessary until clear before bottling.

The recipe is for one gallon of wine. Simply multiply the ingredients by the number of desired gallons. Except yeast: 1 package will do five gallons.

ANSWER — LaFaye Burkholder, Fredericksburg, wanted to know how to dry sunflower seeds and also how to wash them. Thanks to Diana Broskey, Howell, N.J., who writes that this method also works well with pumpkin and squash seeds. When the seeds separate easily from the head, the sunflowers are ready to be soaked. Add sunflower seeds and 2 tablespoons salt to a large container of hot water. Soak overnight. Drain and rinse seeds lightly with fresh water. Spread the seeds on towels to dry or put on a cookie sheet in oven with pilot light on. As the seeds soak in the hot water, they absorb the salt. As the seeds dry the salt crystalizes inside on the meat of the sunflower seed.

Kids Korner

Skilled woodsmen, industrious beavers use their large front teeth to fell trees for their dams and lodges. They can gnaw down trees in minutes and build a new dam in days. The paddle-tailed animals, North America's largest rodent, are being used to restore overgrazed and overlogged rangeland in the West.

A wary beaver sniffs the air and listens. The paddle-tailed rodents, common in most of North America, are natural conservationists: They create new wetlands, improve water quality and attract other wildlife. But they're considered pests in some places because of the damage they can cause to woodlands.

Busy Beavers Help Rescue West's Parched Pastures

PAT DURKIN
National Geographic News Service

Lew Pence was called crazy by Idaho ranchers who thought the only way to restore eroded Western rangeland was to build tiers of $2,000 concrete dams.

But ever since a pair of beavers that Pence relocated to a cattle-trampled stretch of Copper Creek did the job naturally, his how-to slide show has been in great demand.

Today, converts throughout the Western United States are using beavers to restore land that has been overgrazed, overlogged or otherwise abused. Beaver committees have been organized all over the region.

Still, the buck-toothed rodent remains unpopular with a lot of people.

On the positive side, the paddle-tailed dam-builders have proved to be better than humans at Copper Creek and some 30 other areas. When beavers re-engineer a watershed, they create new wetlands and improve water quality. Fish, ducks and grasses return.

"It's not like I deserve a lot of credit," said Pence, who is project manager for Idaho's Wood River Resource and Development Area. "The Indians have been telling us for a long time that we need to put beavers back into the system."

When University of Wyoming researchers supplied logs to beavers living in dried-up creeks near Rock Springs, Wyo., in the 1970s and '80s, the animals built dams and restored the eroded watershed.

Since then, the Beaver Committee of the Wood River organization, a coalition of ranchers and government agencies that fosters economic development in rural southern Idaho, has placed about 30 pairs of beavers along the Copper and other small creeks that water the once-lush grasslands of the Wood River basin.

"We started to show pretty good results several years ago," said Pence, whose traveling presentation makes the point with dramatic before-and-after photographs of Copper Creek.

His pictures tell the story of how beavers reverse the erosion process. In the fall, they build dams of sticks, logs and mud that create moats around their lodges, where the animals spend the winter and rear their young

The dams protect the land by slowing fast-moving storm water and spreading it across the ground to be soaked up by dry soil. Studies show that the dams also catch 90 percent of the eroded topsoil that otherwise would be washed downstream.

In Copper Creek, it took about four years for the level of the severely eroded stream to rise enough for grasses to return. Waterfowl, fish and the tiny organisms that live in healthy streams returned soon thereafter.

"Beavers give more to the system than they take out," said Pence. "They get the water in there, and that's all it takes."

Ecologists have dubbed North America's largest rodent a "keystone species." A Cherokee Indian legend said that God called on the beaver to help finish the Earth.

Archaeologists credit the animal with creating North America's fertile prairies. Evidence of beaver dams dates back 55 million years.

Some scientists date the beginning of the decline of the continent's great wildlife era to the killing of beavers for fur. Rampant beaver-trapping, which started with the opening of the Canadian West in the 1600s, all but eradicated the species from North America by the 1900s.

"Once we took them out of our system, the system went to hell," Pence tells National Geographic. "Then we sat back and wondered what happened."

He praises the return of beavers. Often, a pair will build dozens of dams, restoring parched meadows in as little as two years.

Ida's Notebook

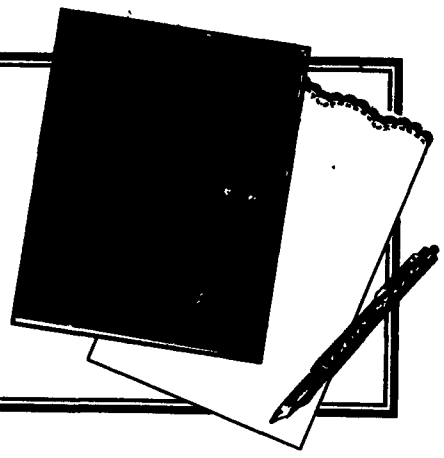
Ida Risser



It is definitely time to take the Indian corn and the small orange pumpkins off the front porch and replace them with Christmas wreaths. However, I am slow to start decorating but then I allow the tree and trimmings to be up a while after the holiday.

Usually I start with the cards and get them addressed and notes written first and proceed from there with other preparations. My cookies are made over a period of weeks and frozen. Then I pack boxes for neighbors and friends from a dozen or more kinds.

Only now have I started to arrange the flowers that I dried. I'm always anxious to see how they have turned out. Each year I must hunt new containers as last years bouquets still look fine and I can't throw them away. My big orange marigolds will look nice with some grasses that I gathered when I walk in the morning. There are also zinnias, mums, and calendulas beside the bitter-sweet that I picked.

This fall I visited a farm where the retired farmer raises exotic animals. He has pens of rheas and emus and unusual goats. The emus look a bit like the African ostrich. A breeding pair can cost thousands of dollars. The meat is said to be low in fat and cholesterol. And, emu leather is used in high-fashion boots, wallets and belts.

Here I also saw the largest bed of saffron that I'd ever seen. The plants were full of purple flowers. The deep orange stigmas are removed and dried and used as flavoring in cooking. In moving my bulbs from the farm garden to my present one some of mine did not survive. Maybe they have too much shade.

Meat Industry Strengthens Nutrition Partnership

CHICAGO — Strategic alliances have been identified as an effective way for the meat industry to reach consumers with positive meat messages. The 1993 publication of the Meat Alliance Task Force report reinforced the need to work with health care organizations to provide credible endorsement to industry efforts.

The American Dietetic Association, the nation's largest group of food and nutrition professionals, was identified as one of the most valuable alliances to help reduce negative health perceptions of meat. A longtime collaborator with the ADA, the National Live Stock and Meat Board recently strengthened this relationship with the launch of several new jointly-developed nutrition programs.

At ADA's 77th Annual Meeting and Exhibition in Orlando, Fla., October 17-20, the Meat Board sponsored a major session and distributed nutrition education materials to the more than 10,000 registered dietitians who attended the meeting. A highlight of the week was the introduction of Lean N'Easy: Preparing Meat with Less Fat and More Taste, an educational video and kit resulting from a year-long partnership with ADA.

Showcased at ADA's own exhibit throughout the meeting, Lean N'Easy is a checkoff-funded program that positions meat as a lean, contemporary choice that is consistent with today's healthy lifestyles. The program, which includes a 25-minute video, leader's guide, and reproducible patient/client handouts, demonstrates low-fat cooking techniques that help keep meat lean.

"We've learned through talking with dietitians that their patients really don't know how to cook meat in a low-fat way," explained Mary Young, coordinator of allied health programs for the Meat Board. "So we felt it was important to visually show them how to do that." Young said the program helps people understand how to make dietary changes while keeping meat part of their menus.

ANSWER — For Betty Loump, Bernville, who wanted recipes for pumpkin roll, my desk is swamped with recipes. Although we can't print them all, thanks to many who sent them including Betty Evans, Pequea; Katie Mae Nolt, Richland; Lisa Sparr, Upper Falls, Md.; Sharon DeForenza, Catawissa; Keith Darr, Newville; Grace Sauder, New Holland; Joyce Shoemaker, Mount Joy; Dotty Gainer, Holtwood; Linda Fisher, Ronks; Mary Ella Musser, Lebanon, and — the mail keeps coming....

Pumpkin Cheesecake Roll

8-ounces soft-style cream cheese
⅓ cup sugar
4 eggs
1 tablespoon milk
¾ cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
⅔ cup canned pumpkin
Cream cheese icing

Grease a 15x10x1-inch baking pan; line with waxed paper; grease paper. Reserve 2 tablespoons cream cheese. Combine the remaining cream cheese and ⅓ cup sugar; mix until blended. Add one of the eggs and milk; beat until smooth. Spread in prepared pan; set aside. Stir together flour, baking powder, cinnamon, and salt. In large mixer bowl beat remaining eggs at high speed for 5 minutes. Gradually add 1 cup sugar, beating until sugar dissolves. Stir in pumpkin. Fold in dry ingredients. Spread over cheese mixture. Bake in 375 degree oven for 15 minutes. Loosen cake from sides of pan. Turn out onto towel sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Carefully peel off paper. Starting with narrow end, roll cake up fairly tightly without towel. Cool. Garnish with icing and grated orange peel, if desired. Serves 10.

Cream cheese icing: Combine the reserved 2 tablespoons cream cheese, 1 tablespoon milk, and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Stir in one cup sifted powdered sugar, blend until smooth.

ANSWER — A Pine Grove reader wanted a recipe for ice cream that does not use eggs. She also wanted a sugar-free ice cream recipe if available. We did not receive sugar-free recipes but we did receive several ice cream recipes made without eggs. Thanks to a reader who writes that she always uses the ice cream recipe that comes with the Junket rennet tablet box to make ice cream without eggs. You can substitute milk for the cream. Junket is a registered trademark. The tablets come in a box of 12. The box is about 2½ x2¾ -inches. It is usually sold in stores where Jell-O is shelved. But not every store carries it. Thanks to Blanch Morgan, Hegins, and others for sending the following recipes. Thanks to Marlene Weaver, Lititz, for sending a Dairy Queen recipe.

Use Holidays To Teach Children

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — Holiday gift-giving can be difficult for children. Store displays and television commercials may convince them they need everything they see. But a child's allowance probably is insufficient to buy gifts for Mom and Dad, brothers and sisters, grandparents and teachers.

With a little help from parents, the holidays can be an opportunity for children to learn good spending habits and the value of money, said a Penn State expert in family resource management.

"Children should have an active role in gift-giving," said Dr. Marilyn Furry, associate professor of extension education in the College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Parents should guide and advise, rather than direct and dictate what children buy," Furry said. "Allow children to learn from their mistakes and successes. The holiday season is a good time to show them how to make a spending plan and keep track of money spent."

Furry said handmade gifts from children often are the most appreciated. "Help children make gifts for teachers and grandparents," she said. "Take the kids shopping to buy needed supplies. If they have other gifts to buy, devote a shopping trip to helping them. Don't expect them to do all their shopping while you are running through crowded stores trying to get your chores done."

At this time of year, parents also may want to consider the various ways their children receive spending money. "Giving money for special needs and requests may make sense for young children and for certain expenses such as school fees," said Furry. "But with this method, the parent makes the spending decisions and the child has no responsibility."

An allowance is a better way to help a child learn how to manage money. "An allowance can be used any way the child chooses," she said.

Philadelphia Ice Cream

Scald:
1 quart cream
Add:
¾ cup sugar
Few grains salt
Stir until sugar dissolves. Chill. Add the following:
1½ tablespoons vanilla OR 1 teaspoon grated vanilla bean
Freeze in hand cranked ice cream freezer according to manufacturer's instructions.
For a lighter version, use 3 cups cream and 1 cup milk.

Dairy Queen Ice Cream

Soak 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. Heat 4 cups whole milk until hot but not boiling. Remove from heat and add:
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 teaspoon salt
Cool and add:
3 cups cream
Freeze five to six hours.

AGCO ALLIS
8600 SERIES TRACTORS

36 SPEED CHOICES

AGCO Allis 8600 Series tractors give you 36 speed choices, an electronic engine speed governor and many other quality performance features, as well as a comprehensive 4-year/4,000-hour warranty.

- Speed choices for all conditions. The standard synchropower transmission offers 24 forward and 12 reverse speeds. An optional power Hi-Lo transmission boosts that to 36 speeds both forward and reverse. Both 8600 Series models are AWD with planetary final drive, and a self-adjusting, hydraulically-actuated clutch.
- The air- and oil-cooled engine advantage. The 8600 Series tractors feature the high-output, 6-cylinder, air- and oil-cooled diesel engine that eliminates components that cause downtime in liquid-cooled engines. The 8610 model has a 103 PTO hp engine with a 22% torque rise and the 8630 model has a 120 PTO hp turbocharged engine with a 30% torque rise.
- PTO power and versatility. The independent PTO operates at 540/1,000 rpm with 6- and 21-spline shafts and an electrohydraulically-actuated wet PTO clutch. The 3-point hitch comes standard with telescopic stabilizers: Category II/I on the 8610; Category III/II on the 8630. Optional telescopic lower links are available.
- Quality performance features. The 8600 Series tractors ride on premium Goodyear radial tires. They have hydrostatic steering, a tilt-telescope steering wheel and hydraulically-actuated wet disc brakes on all four wheels for 40% better braking. These models also have electrohydraulically-actuated rear and front differential locks that an operator can manually disengage for tighter turns.

To learn about all the quality features of the 8600 Series tractors, or any of the "orange" line of AGCO Allis tractors ranging from 40 to 128 PTO hp, stop by or call us soon.

Family Living Focus

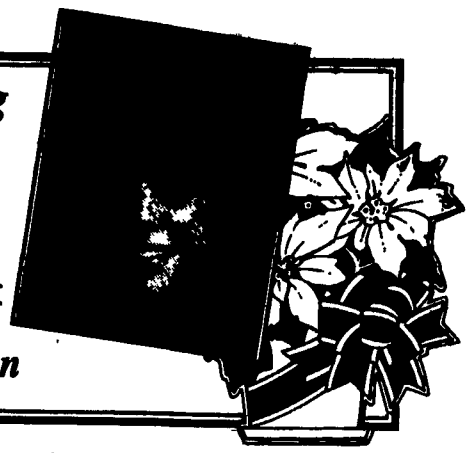
Debbie Naumann



As the holiday season approaches, we anticipate family fun and togetherness, the exchange of gifts, and the observance of family traditions that make time spent with loved ones most memorable. But once this wonderful time of celebration, thankfulness, and sharing has passed, many people, young and old, find themselves filled with an overwhelming sense of sadness. What is it about the "post holiday pits" that leave so many of us feeling unusually bleak, blah, and blue after the holidays?

The reasons are many. Family members may be returning to homes far away. Decorations are packed away and returned to storage. Children are restless. Frigid winter weather may begin to chill even the warmest households. And physical fatigue from making countless holiday preparations and going to social gatherings may begin to take its toll on family members.

The post-holiday blues may also be the result of a sense of loss. It may be the loss of looking forward to the holidays. When they are over, many people may feel that they have nothing to look forward to for quite a while. Another culprit may be the unrealistic expectations that people have for the holiday season itself. When gifts or family gatherings are not as perfect as they could be, when long-standing family traditions are abandoned, and when certain family members are not present to share in the holiday spirit, many people are likely to feel let-down and disappointed.

So how can we avoid the holiday blues and prolong the festive, warm feeling of the holiday season? Here are a few suggestions:

Make Expectations Reasonable — If you have looked to the holiday season as a solution to your other dissatisfactions in life, and as the time to "finally be happy", you're almost inevitably going to find that the season can't possibly live up to your expectations for it. Why not make expectations more reasonable. Instead of saying "things just have to go well...", try "it will be nice if..." If your party or gift weren't as "perfect" as you would have liked them to be, remind yourself that sharing special times with family and friends is what truly matters most at holiday time.

Pace Yourself — Which of the holiday activities that you do really brings you enjoyment? Are there some you impose on yourself that you really do not enjoy? If mailing all those greeting cards to everyone you know has become more of a dreaded chore than a fulfilling activity, maybe it's time to let go of this tradition in favor of another that is more enjoyable for you. With so many tasks to carry out at holiday time, we all need to take more time to relax and enjoy the truly special moments of the season.

Give to Others Even After the Season — One cure-all for the post-holiday blues may be to extend your giving to others in the community. Toys that are no longer used or interesting may be donated to a church or favorite charity. A plate of cookies, a card in the mail, a phone call, a delivered flower, or a short visit for no particular reason are sure to brighten the day of a friend, relative, neighbor. or someone in need of special attention from another. It is likely that after giving to others, you'll forget all about your own postholiday blues and will become filled instead with a greater sense of warmth and contentment.

Celebrate throughout the year — With everything geared towards the holidays, it's no wonder that the months following seem like a dismal period of winter slush, runny noses, and overall boredom. Keep the holidays in perspective as a happy time, but not the only happy time; as a time to be together with family and loved ones, but not the only family time; and, as a time to let others know you care, but certainly not the only time for caring. By celebrating special moments with friends and family throughout the year, the warm feelings felt throughout the holidays can last year-round.

The Chain Saws For People Who Want To Act Like Lumberjacks, Not Work Like Them.

If you know a little about the timber business, you know that Stihl chain saws have been used by professional woodcutters for over sixty years.

So maybe you think Stihl equipment is "too good" for a suburbanite or farmer or anyone else who needs to cut wood on an occasional basis.

Well, we're happy to tell you that Stihl makes a whole series of chain saws with your needs in mind.

But don't confuse them with discount-store chain saws.

All Stihl saws are designed for performance, ease of handling and starting, and durability

Now, about the 026 shown at the bottom we'll admit we sell this saw to professional woodcutters. But it's also bought by people who simply put a lot of hours on a saw every year.

And by the way, when were you ever unhappy because you bought a product that was too good?

The Stihl 023 All the features of the 021, plus 30% more power

Bedford County Teen Is Jersey Jug Queen

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Being crowned Jersey Jug Queen was one of the dreams of Janelle Koontz. It was a dream that came true fast following on the heels of her state Jersey crown and also that of being named Fall Foliage Queen of Bedford County.

At 16. the daughter of Wayne and Nancy Koontz, says her best asset is a "gift of gab". It's an important asset when sitting down with adult judges who are looking for that element of maturity not always seen in teenage girls.

Held in Louisville, Kentucky, the Jersey Jug Futurity Queen reigns over the annual Jersey Futurity contest.

This contest actually begins three years prior to the event with Jersey farmers from across the country entering a calf in the contest which will not take place for three years.

Girls sharing the spotlight with Janelle were 15 state queens from across the United States.

Arriving on a Friday night, Janelle says the first event was a get-acquainted pizza party. Saturday began with handing out ribbons at the 4-H Junior show interspersed with judge interviews.

Janelle was one of the three busiest gals in the contest taking time out to show one of her own Jersey cows.

Following a full day of judging (both girls and cows), it was time for the banquet followed by the pageant.

"The girls were so good," Janelle said, "They could only narrow it down to six finalists. Ordinarily there are five."

Each of the 15 girls was asked one impromptu question and Janelle says hers was, "What quality do you have that would make you a good representative of the American Jersey Cattle Association."

"I told them my family and friends all tell me I have a gift of gab," Janelle said as she beams her perfect smile.

"I added that if I didn't have the answer, I would find it for them."

The second question asked of each of the six finalists was, "If you were chosen as National Jersey Queen to go before Congress to convince them of the importance of the dairy industry on the economy and the health of America, what would you say?"

Janelle was quick with an answer. "I would ask them how many meals each of them ate a day which included dairy products and I would name them: milk, butter, cheese, yogurt, cottage cheese, ice cream."

"Then, I would tell them that while we may need a health care plan in America, dairy products could help to improve the general health of all Americans."

One of two of the youngest contestants in the contest, Janelle competed mostly against college students. "The judges told me they liked the way I looked them in the eyes," she said.

The following day, Janelle began her queenly duties by reigning over the Futurity contest. "It was beautiful," she adds. "There was green sawdust everywhere designed to look like grass. And, the cows were numbered and presented just as the queen contestants had been.

After the top cows are selected by appearance, stature, etc., each is milked out to determine if productivity is also present.

When not fulfilling the duties of her various royal titles, Janelle is a busy junior at Bedford High School.

She will play Guenivere in the musical, "Camelot". She has also been chosen to attend district chorus.

Janelle is junior class vice president; on the Student Council Executive Board; participated in the Pennsylvania Junior Academy of Science; is a varsity cheerleader and a Red Cross swimming instructor.

She has recently made application to the 4-H ambassador program.

While her future plans keep changing, she now hopes to work in the field of food sciences or ag administration and will probably attend Penn State University.

Despite her busy schedule, dad, Wayne, keeps her busy at the barn. It is Janelle's job to do the computer work that the farm requires. "It piles up sometimes, but no one does it for me," she admits.

This busy young lady has nine cows of her own including one which gave her nine bulls before presenting her with a heifer calf on her 16th birthday. "I named her 'Sweet Sixteen,'" Janelle laughs.

She has been showing cows since she was big enough to hold a halter.

The Koontz family lives on a 550-acre farm owned by Edna Koontz, and Leased by Wayne. They milk 90 registered Jerseys.

Appalachian Tales Told At Hershey

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Yarns will be spun on Saturday, December 10 at the Hershey Museum when The Puppet Factory presents "Appalachian Tales" at 1:30 p.m. and 3:00 p.m. The Puppeteers will share the story of "Wicked John and the Hairy Man" using puppets, storytelling and authentic music to teach children about friendship as they retell some Appalachian mountain tales that are full of humor, trickery and surprises! The performances are aimed at children aged five through twelve years, and each is approximately 45 minutes long. There will be a chance to meet the puppeteers and the puppets between shows.

The Puppet Factory is a professional, non-profit touring puppet theater. Since 1969, The Puppet Factory has been entertaining children throughout the Mid-Atlantic region. Their humorous stories encourage audience response.

The show is free with Museum admission: adults $4; youth(ages 3-15) $1.75.

Puppeteers Carolyn Koerber and Joanne Bouton of the Puppet Factory present "Applachian Tales" at the Hershey Museum on Saturday, December 10, 1994, 1:30 and 3 p.m. The tales they tell are full of humor, trickery and surprises! Seating is first-come, first-served and is free with museum admission.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women #20 met Thursday, November 3 at the home of Pauline Reinhart with Dorothy Crawford as co-hostess. Following the refreshments, Dorothy had the devotions and for the scripture read from the 18th chapter of Deuteronomy. She had two readings titled "Remember the Giver" and "You Get What You Give." Following the Lord's Prayer the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was repeated.

The president, Nancy Axe presided at the business meeting when the officers for 1995, president, Nancy Axe; vice president, Jean Ressel; secretary, Anna Mary Groff; corresponding secretary, Vivian Hess, and treasurer, Vera Herr were elected. The treasurer reported the proceeds from the TownsEdge bake sale were $209.30.

Six of the members attended the County Convention where the Home Extension representative, Althea Engle spoke. Members are sponsoring Kelly Frey for the Miss Solanco Pageant. The county project for this year was The Farm and Home Center.

There were 24 present at the meeting and at the close there was a food auction which amounted to about $40. There will be no meeting in December but the Christmas Party is at 6:30, December 10, at the Quarryville Fire Hall.

Lancaster Society 18

The Nov Meeting of Lancaster Farm Society #18 was held in the home of President Mrs. Ruth Landis, Hershey Ave. Lancaster.

Devotions by Mary Lou Shelton was followed by a business meeting.

Farmer missionary Catherine Gregory gave a resumé of "A Trip to China." The usual greeting in this country of one billion people was "walk in peace." Catherine saw congestion everywhere in the cities, the streets, the buses with people; trays of food and geese. Living quarters had a small apartment holding two to three families, five occupants in one small room, different day and night renters of the same room. Two most amazing reports seem unbelievable in this country becoming modernized: 1. A steel foundry completely "manned" by women. 2. Road building carried on by literal hand and foot application of the construction materials.

This lovely "Home" meeting, unusual refreshments, and congenial fellowship made this a most pleasant afternoon. The challenge of the song "Brighten the Corner Where You Are" ended the meeting.

Berks Society 1

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 1 met at the home of Bettye Wegman, Oley, for its November meeting. President Ruth Walters presided at the business meeting.

Group 1 will again distribute fruit baskets and poinsettias to shut-ins during the holiday season. After the business meeting, members renewed memories as they reviewed their past year books.

December's meeting will be the annual Christmas party to be held at the Stage Coach Stop Restaurant, Maidencreek, . on December 14, at 6:30 p.m.

Busy Beavers

They can gnaw down trees in minutes and build a new dam in days — a helpful attribute when heavy rains change the course of a waterway overnight. "Concrete dams stay put," said Pence, "But the beaver just moves with the creek."

With few natural predators, such as otters and wolves, to pare their numbers, beavers are proliferating rapidly over much of North America, especially in wet coastal areas.

Not everyone is happy about that. The 40-to-60-pound rodent has a well-earned reputation as a pest in some places. Denver has lost dozens of trees to beavers along its urban river parks.

Operators of golf courses with creeks running through them spend thousands of dollars each year trying to prevent the animals from reorganizing the fairways.

Animal-control officers in Fairfax County, Va., rate beavers as equal to deer as the No. 1 source of complaints.

Some ranchers are convinced that the animal they know as a varmint is more trouble than it's worth. Some believe that beavers create unwanted wetlands and take food from their cattle.

"When you have beavers, you have to manage for beavers as well as cattle," said John Shelly, a range conservation officer for the U. S. Forest Service in Idaho.

To assure beavers a source of building materials, he said, ranchers must prevent cattle from eating aspen, willow and cottonwood seedlings that grow near creeks.

But a growing number of ranchers now see beavers as a means to restore their lands and get environmentalists off their backs, Pence said.

"Ironic, isn't it," he asks, "that the little animals that opened the West might save it?"

Diversification Is Key To Successful Vo-Ag Program

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

TYRONE (Blair Co.) — When William C. Harshman first arrived at the Tyrone Area High School, there were eight active members in the FFA.

"My orders," says this tall, thin, fatherly, teacher who has the stamina of the Energizer bunny, "were to bring FFA back to life and to concentrate on areas of agriculture other than pigs and black and white cows."

"I think it is a total lack of diversification that has caused so many FFA's to fold up in high schools," Harshman continues. "You have to realize where agriculture is today and pursue all the avenues."

Diversification is the rule at Tyrone. Individual projects include sweet corn, alfalfa, wildlife conservation, green beans, hogs, vegetable gardening, poultry meat, flower production, beef growing, beef steers, pheasants, lawn care, dairy beef, lambs, dairy cows, silage corn, cold frames, soybeans, and capons.

"Many of the students have earned themselves extra spending money with their projects."

Communication skills are not left out of the Tyrone program. Each year nearly half of the FFA members participate in the annual speech contest for an extra 10% on their vo/ag grade.

With 105 students (50 percent girls) in grades eight through 12 enrolled in the vo-ag or vo-ag elective courses at Tyrone, Harshman is constantly busy exploring agricultural avenues. "I love my job and it is never boring. Sometimes I'm helping to build a building for a local community fair; then I teach a class in proper nutrition for animals including computer programs; the day might end with a horticulture class."

In the spring the horticulture class includes growing bedding plants and Easter plants. In the fall, they take in area geraniums, cut them back and restart plants for next year.

Plant work is done in a greenhouse built entirely with money furnished by a grant and constructed by students.

It's attracted such students as Julie Zang looking for extra credit in a science class. "I've always lived in town and we never had a garden," Julie admits. "But, this year, I grew my own flowers from seed and was very proud of what I learned. I can't wait for next spring to begin the process all over again."

Jason Day is another student who has never lived on a farm. "But," says Harshman, "He gives 100 percent in the classroom. It doesn't matter if it's building a display for one of our fairs or working in the greenhouse, Jason is willing." The enthusiasm includes a few perks. He's the only boy in a horticulture class of eight girls.

Horticulture doesn't stop with growing plants. The students have a course in flower arranging done on a $200 a year annual budget.

"We worked out a deal with the local funeral directors," Harshman explains. "Those involved with planning a funeral may choose to donate the leftover cemetery flowers to the school. We invested in a small refrigerator to keep them fresh, then recycle into arrangements for the home dining room tables. "These kids often walk out with flower arrangements worth $25 or $30," Harshman says.

At Christmas they make pine wreaths, swags, or centerpieces for their holiday tables.

Some of the excitement in this year's animal nutrition class revolves around two Polish exchange students who are in the United States to learn all they can about agriculture and eventually will take their knowledge back to their native country.

The girls, Renata Bajek and Holina Pietrar, complete the exchange by bringing knowledge of Polish farming to the students at Tyrone.

Adding to the classroom with his first hand experiences of Russian farming methods is Jeremy Rice who spent part of the summer in Russia. "I asked him if he would go and he jumped at the chance," Harshman says.

All of the eight students in the dairy nutrition class plan to enter into some phase of agriculture in their post high school days. Rice plans a career in conservation and raising wild game.

Another hopes to get into feed sales; a young man, growing up in Tyrone, hopes to work on a farm; another student eagerly anticipates exploring the same field; a young lady will be a floral designer and own her own flower shop; the girls from Poland plan to become county agents or conservationists.

Two of Harshman's students have been declared Regional South Central Star students with Andrew Harpster of Evergreen Farms receiving the "Farmer," award and Brian Harpster of Sinking Valley Farms, the "Horticulturist". The boys are not related.

Because Blair County has no central county fair, the students at Tyrone participate in a number of community fairs including Bellwood,Sinking Valley, Martinsburg, Williamsburg, Hollidaysburg, and Claysburg. Some also enter competitions in the Huntingdon County Fair.

"These smaller fairs can be a plus for our diversified program," Harshman explains. "If we only had county fair competition, the grand champion steer that goes for $5 a pound would take all the attention. As it is, students growing vegetables or fruits are likewise in the spotlight. It's always difficult to get the same attention for prize winning vegetables lying on a plate as that of a champion steer."

"Diversification is the key to good vo-ag classes today," Harshman affirms. "We live in an area with 46 dairy farms where more than 5,000 cows are milked each day. Money has been invested in our local farms to stay in business well into the next century. It's very important for these students to learn the role of the dairy farmer as well as other diversified aspects of rural living."

Kristin Johnston Is Delegate to National 4-H Congress

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Kristin Johnston, Gettysburg, will be among 1,400 youths gathering in Orlando, Florida for the 73rd National 4-H Congress, December 3 through 7. Delegates from all 50 states and Puerto Rico will be joined by state advisors, National 4-H staff, trustees, donors and volunteers for the 4-H Congress. While building on its history of educating American youth to solve "issues critical to their lives, their families and society," the 1994 Congress is leading the way into the future with its bold, new Workforce Preparedness Initiative.

Darlene Resh, Adams County 4-H agent, will also be attending National 4-H Congress. She will be on assignment as a chaperone to the 21 member Pennsylvania delegation.

Through the new program, which is being launched at this year's Congress, delegates will receive information and skills to help them in career applications.

Kristin Johnson

Visits to business will be the source or further exposure to various worksites and career opportunities. industry leaders, trustees, donors and state advisors will address and interact with delegates in a variety of other sessions. Delegates will also learn more about living in a culturally diverse society including an international assignment to learn about the people, culture, history and economics of the 11 countries featured at EPCOT Center.

More than 5.4 million youths, ages 8-18, participant in 4-H. Members, of which more than 30 percent live in metropolitan areas and more than 25 percent are members of ethnic or racial minorities, are involved in diverse programs.

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

Like Father, Like Son

The picture on the left appeared in this paper in 1969 when Glen Rohrer, who was then 15 years old, shot an 8-point buck in Tioga County. This year, 25 years later, Glen's son Geoff, who is 15 years old, shot a 9-point buck in Tioga County. "All I can say is that his dad taught him well," said Geoff's mother Joyce. "Hunting's definitely in the blood. Glen's father Wilmer is 75 years old and continues to hunt." The Rohrer family milk 200 cows and farm about 360 acres at Blue Rock Road, Lancaster.

Sheppard Begins Second Term As National WIFE President

JETMORE, Ks. — Women Involved In Farm Economics (WIFE) held their 18th annual convention in Montgomery, Alabama, November 9-12. Mary Ann Sheppard, Shorter, Alabama was elected for a second term as president of the national organization.

Sheppard said, "Although there are fewer farmers, those remaining continue to provide a plentiful supply of safe, affordable food for the United States and the world. WIFE supports the continuation of the 1990 Farm Bill with minor changes. We support increasing the loan and target prices to reflect the cost of production plus a profit."

Other 1995 national officers elected are first vice president, Jenifer Felzien, CO; second vice president, Sheila Massey, NM; recording secretary, Marlene Kouba, ND, and treasurer, Nancy Spiegel, KS. Area directors include: Phyllis Howatt, ND; Luella Stevens, NE and Chris Peel, AL.

Yule Love Eggnog

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The holiday season is traditionally the time to enjoy and serve eggnog for snacks and entertaining. This year, the American Dairy Association Mid East (ADA Mid East) is working to boost eggnog sales by conducting several promotional activities throughout the Mid East UDIA service area.

In a pilot program, patrons in selected supermarkets will receive eggnog samples while shopping the dairy case. As consumers try samples of eggnog, demonstrators will track those who are tasting eggnog for the very first time.

"We're trying to expose new people to the delicious flavor of eggnog, thereby building incremental sales," says June Wedd, dairy marketing specialist for ADA Mid East. Additionally, consumers at the demonstration sites are provided with American Dairy Association recipes which call for eggnog.

Participating supermarkets in the eggnog test program are: 10 Shop 'n Save stores in Pittsburgh, Pa; Buehler's Markets in Wooster, Ohio; 10 Big Bear Supermarkets in Columbus; 5 Big Bear Supermarkets in Huntington, W.Va; 5 Kroger stores in Charleston, W.Va; and 10 Thriftway stores in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Eggnog and Zoo Lights!

Two special eggnog promotions are also slated in conjunction with holiday light displays at the Cincinnati and Pittsburgh zoos. More than 1,800 visitors to the Cincinnati Zoo received samples of eggnog Friday, Nov. 18, 1994 as they toured the zoo for the annual "Festival of Lights." As with the supermarket promotions, guests were asked if this was their first time to taste eggnog. Fifteen percent of those surveyed were trying eggnog for the very first time, leading to possible increased eggnog purchases for the holiday season.

The Pittsburgh Zoo will hold its annual "Holiday Lights" festival Dec. 12-16, 1994. To promote the event, 16 TV and radio stations will focus on eggnog during on-air promotional segments. Recognizing ADA Mid East as a sponsor, zoo personnel will appear live and present TV and radio personalities with eggnog served in glasses touting the theme, "Yule Love Eggnog!" The media spots invite the public to see "Holiday Lights" and remind them to buy plenty of eggnog for their holiday celebrations.

Questions and answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask — You Answer, Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — Horst Schaper, Moosup, Ct., would like to know where he can buy a shepherd's staff or crook. Call him at (203) 564-2579.

QUESTION — Tom Hicswa, Hammonton, N.J., would like to purchase sheet metal parts for a Case tractor model 300B made about 1960. He wants a grille, gas tank cover, etc. Please send information to Hicswa at Box 2169 Elwood R1, Hammonton, N.J.

QUESTION — Nate Levine, Flemington, N.J., needs a source for parts to a Prizer #100 cookstove manufactured by Prizer-Painter of Reading, Pa. The company no longer carries parts for it.

QUESTION — Teresa Wenger, Elizabethtown, would like to know where she can purchase bee's wax to make candles.

QUESTION — Carl Humer, 4745 Carlisle Rd., Dover, Pa. 17315 is trying to locate a company that sells the machine to produce firewood from logs. He understands that you place a full length log on the table, a series of saws come down or out and cut the logs to length. You then move the log to the splitter area and the machine splits the logs into cord wood. Humer would prefer to see the machine in operation if anyone has one to sell.

QUESTION — Evelyn Michaels, Beaver, asks if anyone remembers Ole Oid, a type of linament made by Dr. Peter Farhney and Sons Company in N.Y. City. It contained camphor, oil of cloves, sassafras, and turpentine. The Swedish/Finnish community in Tioga County used it widely from the 1930s to the 1960s. Evelyn has asked telephone operators in the calling areas 212, 718, 917, and 914, for telephone listings for the company but no listing exists in those ares. Does anyone know a supplier?

QUESTION — A reader would like to know where solar powered window candles may be found. Is there such a product?

ANSWER — Here's another answer for Stanley Siedlecki, Jarrettsville, Md., who had trouble with his woodburning stove emitting odors when not in use. Anne Crist, Airville, writes that he should put a 9x13-inch pan of clean cat litter into the stove when not in use. The litter will absorb the odor. Be careful not to burn the litter and pan.

ANSWER — Evan Weidman, Westfield, wanted to know where to buy a cornplanter to plant green beans. Call Thom Wheary who can help him at (717) 687-6553 or write 2971 Lincoln Hwy. E. Gordonville, Pa. 17529.

ANSWER — E.M.L. of Phoenixville wanted to know where to find a thimble with John Deere marked on the side to add to a collection. Thanks to Thom and Beth Ann Whearey, who wrote to contact them at 2971 Lincoln Hwy. E Gordonville, Pa. 17529.

ANSWER — For the Lehighton reader who needs help with house plants and flowers, contact Bennie Yoder, Star Rt. Box 39, Springs, Pa. 15562.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

Farm Women Group 20 met at the home of Miriam Patches then went on a mystery tour stopping at Sharon Zellers Craft Shop then toured a bed and breakfast at Harpers.

Members returned to Miriam's home for the meeting. The hostess read Psalm 100 followed by the Lord's Prayer and salute to the flag.

Pat reported on the convention.

It was decided to give $50 to four families.

Pat announced the officers will remain the same as last year.

The next meeting will be at the home of Janet Werner when members will reveal secret pals.

Lancaster Society 24

Lancaster Farm Women Society #24 members recently attended a hockey game at the Hershey Stadium, where they enjoyed a buffet supper served in the Bears Den. Prior to their meeting, six members along with six members of Society #31 entertained the residents at Conestoga View to games of Bingo and awarded prizes to all attending.

Eleven members attended the 77th Lancaster County's Farm Women Convention held at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, Lancaster on November 5. The group will hold their next meeting at the home of Ruth Hoober, New Holland, when the program will be on baskets presented by Miriam Horst.

Lancaster Society 15

Lancaster Society of Farm Women No. 15 met on November 17 at the home of Joan Whiteside. Hostesses were Sadie Greenleaf, Jean Kreider, and Nancy Shoemaker.

Joan Whiteside led in the devotional.

Gail Trendler, from Eye Physicians of Lancaster presented a program about "What to expect as eyes grow older."

Arlene Harnish thanked the group for the monetary support she received to send kits to a children's orphanage in Moldova. Arlene showed a sample of what went into the kits.

The meeting was adjourned by singing "Brighten the Corner Where You Are."

You'll produce as much as 440 pounds of additional yield per acre with Promise alfalfa Over a three-year stand, this fine-stemmed variety can generate yields that could amount to more than 1,200 pounds of additional forage.

In trial after trial, Promise has lived up to its name, producing added tonnage over check varieties, with many stands lasting into the fifth year And Promise demonstrates high resistance to the Northeast's most common alfalfa diseases.

With high yields, high disease resistance and the Hoffman name behind it, there aren't any better choices That's our Promise!

Ground controlled fill caps

Opening and closing of the fill cap is made easy by our spring loaded, Auto-Lok ground control.
Offered as a standard tank feature, this factory assembled control has a single chain to operate the entire opening, closing, and latching process. In the open position, the lid lays parallel to the ground to insure ease of filling the tank, along with eliminating the possibility of damage from the fill auger. In the closed position, the lid is automatically and securely locked down by the gravity assisted, positive latching mechanism.

The Nitrogen level of the pit waste will be enhanced by 300% with

GEHL

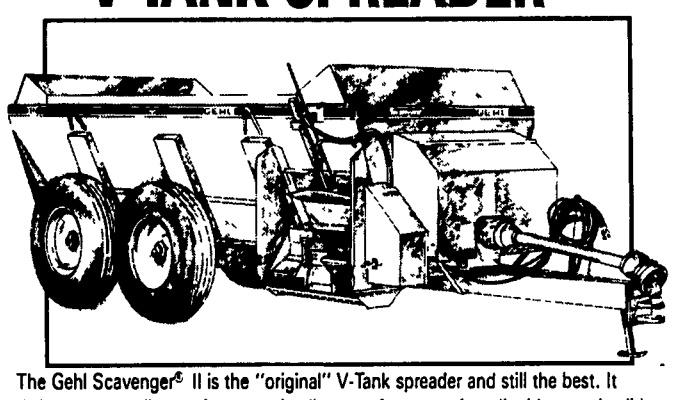
V-TANK SPREADER



The Gehl Scavenger® II is the "original" V-Tank spreader and still the best. It delivers outstanding performance in all types of manure, from liquid to semi-solid to pen-packed or even frozen manure.

- Patented square-tube auger – Hydraulically powers up and down to break up solid material.
- Variflo discharge – Spreads smoothly and evenly for complete application control.
- Five models – From 192 to 596 bushel heaped capacities to match your operation.
- 10-Year warranty – Against rust-through on the tank for peace of mind.
- Options include – Truck-mounted units and hydraulic lids.

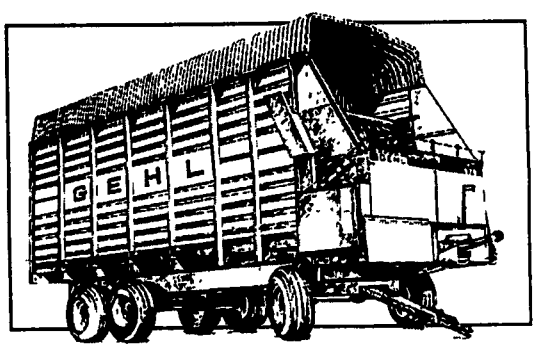
#1 FORAGE BOX



Gehl makes the best selling forage box in North America Here's why

- Five sizes deliver the capacity to match your forage harvesting operation
- 10-Year Warranty against rust through on sides, endgate, stakes and roof
- Wide 23 1/2 inch cross conveyor extends nine inches beyond the box side, for easy positioning to the blower
- Even Feed third beater has extended tines to break up clumps for smooth crop delivery to the cross conveyor
- Four speed drive system features #50 roller chain for added durability
- Heavy-duty Gehl running gears match the capacity of Gehl forage boxes

Northern Waste System Authority Donates To Recycling Program

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — The Recycling Education Program of Montgomery County Cooperative Extension recently received a generous contribution of $10,000 from the Waste System Authority of Northern Montgomery County.

The contribution will allow the recycling program to continue and expand its compost education in the county's northern district. The program provides information and educational activities for residents composting in their backyard and for commercial businesses and municipalities composting on a medium to large scale.

Sally Pick, recycling education director, reported that "plans are in the works to hold a Master Composter training class and build a compost education park in Montgomery Township next fall. The compost park will be next to the new township building and will show residents compost bins they can construct themselves or purchase locally. Residents will also see the composting process in action. Township officials and the Environmental Advisory Board have voiced their support for the project."

Pick also said that the program is looking for other locations in the northern district to build compost education parks and would welcome ideas from any of the following communities: Souderton, Telford, Franconia, Lower Salford, Hatfield, Towamencin, Lansdale, North Wales, and Upper and Lower Gwynedd.

The Recycling Education Program also provides technical assistance to municipalities, farmers, landscapers, and other medium to large scale composters and users of compost. In addition, it acts as a coordinator to connect generators of excess organic materials with those who recycle or compost organics. The program's "Directory of Organic Material Recycling & Composting" provides a list of area organic material recyclers, composters, and those with recycled organic products. To obtain a copy of this directory, send a request with a self-addressed stamped envelope to the address below.

For more information about the Recycling Education Program, call (610) 454-1245 or write Recycling Education Program, Montgomery County Cooperative Extension, 1015 Bridge Road, Suite H, Collegeville, PA 19426-1179.

U.S. Makes First Sale Of Malting Barley To China

WASHINGTON, D.C.—"This is the sale we have been working hard to get, and now we are going to make sure that China is able to use the remainder of its 1995 Export Enhancement Program allocation for malting barley," said Michael Callahan, director of international operations/Asia, U.S. Feed Grains Council, upon confirming that China purchased 35,000 metric tons (1.6 million bushels) of U.S. malting barley. It is the first time China has purchased U.S. malting barley.

At the time of the sale, Callahan said, "Over the past five years, the Council has sponsored numerous market development activities which led to today's sale. The Council sponsored brewing and malting comparison demonstrations in China, and with the cooperation of its members, sent malting barley samples and hosted numerous teams to the United States, demonstrating the quality and availability of the U.S. crop, and the reliability of the United States as a feed grains supplier.

"In the United States, per capita beer consumption is 80 liters (just over 21 gallons) per year, compared to only 8 liters (just over 2 gallons) per year in China. Beer output reached 12.25 mmt in 1993, making China the second largest beer producing country in the world, just behind the United States. When you multiply that consumption by a population with one of the most explosive growth rates in the world, you begin to have a sense of excitement that all of the market development programs have finally worked, and we have a sale," Callahan said. "The Council predicts that China will increasingly depend on imported malting barley and malt to meet its future demands, because the brewing industry in China has taken off in the last 10 years."

Cost Comparison Available

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Now you can compare the costs of ownership between a tower silo and a bunker with a worksheet available from the Crop Storage Institute.

Entitled "A Cost Analysis Between Two Storage Methods," the worksheet compares silos and bunkers by analyzing costs in five areas: initial investment, interest cost/year, filling costs, storage loss, and feeding cost for each system.

For your free copy of "A Cost Analysis Between Two Storage Methods" and an instruction sheet on how to complete the worksheet, write to the Crop Storage Institute, P.O. Box 560, Lafayette, IN. 47902-0560.

MG IN HOUSE FINCHES: IMPLICATIONS FOR DOMESTIC POULTRY

Patty Dunn, DVM
Animal Diagnostic Laboratory
Department Of Veterinary Science

Throughout the summer and fall months of 1994, wild bird watchers and feeders, wildlife rehabilitators, Game Commission officials, and others have noted an apparent emerging disease problem with indigenous house finches in the mid-Atlantic U.S.

Some finches congregating around wild bird feeders showed clinical signs of conjunctivitis or swelling and inflammation of tissues around the eye and eyelids. Mild discharge from the eyes and beaks was also present in some birds. The more severely affected finches were depressed and slow-moving.

Various media reports released during the summer months suggested that chlamydia, a bacterial agent that is transmissible to humans as well as other mammals and birds, was the causative agent of this clinical problem in finches. This supposition remains unsupported, despite extensive laboratory testing of specimens from affected finches. All attempts at isolating chlamydia from the finches have been negative.

Dr. F. V. Pierson of the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, and Dr. S. Porter, of the Wildlife Center of Virginia, reported on July 22, 1994 that samples from finches in their region tested positive for mycoplasma gallisepticum (MG) (by culture) at two laboratories that specialize in avian mycoplasmology — University of Georgia and North Carolina State University. Additional isolations of MG from affected finches have been made since that time. Although it is still unknown if MG is the sole causative agent of the finch conjunctivitis, it is present in finches with the condition.

Studies aimed at experimentally reproducing the condition in clean house finches inoculated with the finch MG isolate are under way. The house finch is a year-round resident of Pennsylvania and surrounding states. In urban, suburban and farm areas alike, it is among the most common of all wild birds.

Wild bird feeders, especially those with seeds that attract finches (black oil sunflower seeds, thistle seed, etc.) are frequently visited by groups of house finches. Adults are generally 5 to 5 1/2 inches long and sparrow-like in appearance. The male has attractive rose-red coloring on the eyebrow, forehead and breast, and the flanks are finely streaked. He has brown streaking on the back, wing, and tail feathers. The female is much plainer in appearance. She has brown streaking over the whole body with no red coloration.

According to Robert Boyd of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, finches with conjunctivitis were thought to be confined to the southeastern part of Pennsylvania during this summer, but as of August 1994, affected finches have been seen as far west as Mifflintown and Williamsport.

Recently, Dr. Margaret Brittingham, associate professor of wildlife resources at Penn State, reported sightings of affected house finches in the State College area. Dr. Brittingham will be directing a student in a study involving observations of affected finches and flock mates to help elucidate the progression/transmission of the clinical problem among wild finches.

All three veterinary diagnostic laboratories in Pennsylvania (New Bolton Center, Summerdale, and Penn State) have received finch submissions involving conjunctivitis as the primary clinical feature.

At the 29th National Meeting on Poultry Health and Processing, held in Ocean City, Md. on October 20 and 21, 1994, Dr. Stan Kleven, an international authority in avian mycoplasmas and director of the Poultry Diagnostic and Research Center at the University of Georgia, gave an update on the situation and its implications for the poultry industry. He reported the following:

- There are now confirmed cases of MG in house finches in the following states: Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina.
- The MG organism from finches is difficult and time-consuming to isolate because it is extremely slow-growing when compared to MG isolates from poultry. However, the detection technique known as "PCR," or polymerase chain reaction, that amplifies the MG DNA to detectable levels picks up the finch MG readily, and at this time appears to be a reliable detection technique.
- The reliability of serologic testing for antibodies to MG in finches is unknown.
- Most importantly, the finch MG has been used experimentally to inoculate susceptible chickens and turkeys and was shown to be pathogenic (capable of causing disease) in both of these species of poultry.
- The specific finch MG strain has not yet been detected in any poultry as a cause of natural infection.
- The susceptibility of other species of birds to the finch MG strain is unknown.

The significance of the above findings is clear. The information should serve to heighten the awareness of all poultry producers of the importance of avoiding any direct or indirect contact between poultry and wild birds, particularly house finches. Any such contact could allow the introduction of MG into MG-free flocks.

Poultry houses should be checked and secured to prevent entry of free-flying birds. Screens or other barriers should be placed at any potential small bird-sized opening, particularly those under the eaves of houses. All vents, windows, or other openings must be covered with ¾ inch wire.

erly. Maintain the outside perimeter of the house free of trees, brush, tall grass, and equipment to discourage wild birds from resting in the area. Any spilled or loose feed or grain outside the house, on the feed bin pads, etc. should be cleared away immediately so that birds are not attracted to the vicinity of the poultry house.

Likewise, good drainage around the house should prevent the formation of water puddles that attract free-flying birds to these water sources and bathing places. Under no circumstances should wild bird feeding stations be located at poultry houses or in nearby yards. Personnel involved in caring for poultry should be aware to avoid tracking through areas where wild birds congregate.

Mycoplasma gallisepticum (MG) is a specialized type of bacterium that infects certain strains of birds but is not transmissible to humans or other mammals. MG infections in chickens and turkeys have been studied extensively for many years. The disease occurs throughout the world in those food-producing avian species. Its major effects include respiratory disease complexes that result in air sacculitis and carcass downgrades in broilers and turkeys, and suboptimal egg production in layers.

Because the MG organism can be transmitted from infected breeders to the embryonated egg, it can also cause reduced hatchability. MG is commonly spread by direct bird-to-bird contact, by carriers such as feet, machinery, etc., and by aerosol over short distances.

In the U.S., MG in commercial poultry has been well controlled because of the united industry support for the eradication scheme put in place by the National Poultry Improvement Plan (NPIP) several decades ago. The program was aimed at establishing all MG-free breeder flocks, thereby ensuring MG-free progeny.

Today, virtually all chicken and turkey breeders are MG negative, and MG infections of broilers and market turkeys are fortunately very rare. Most outbreaks in these birds can be traced to lapses in biosecurity. However, on continuous production (multi-age) sites, spread of MG is difficult to control.

Commercial layers in multi-age complexes are the most common type of poultry infected with MG. Many such complexes in Pennsylvania use MG vaccines to lessen the adverse effects of MG infections and to eventually displace the field strains of MG with the much milder vaccine strains. These vaccines are for use only in commercial layers, and are safe and effective in this production setting. Certain antibiotics can lessen the effects of MG infection in poultry, but do not rid the birds of the organism.

Many years of dedicated effort have been directed at controlling MG in the U.S., and complacency at this point in time should not be allowed to compromise these gains. Realizing the potential for spread of MG from wild house finches to poultry in our area serves as a strong reminder to tighten all aspects of biosecurity management, especially those measures aimed at preventing contact of poultry with free-flying birds.

Ag Program Looks For Innovative Ideas

BURLINGTON, Vt. — The Northeast Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) Program will award up to $100,000 in grants in 1995 to producers to test and develop innovative production and marketing methods.

The Farmer/Grower Grant Program, now in its third year, offers producers the opportunity to take the lead in developing more sustainable farming methods.

"It's really different than ASCS (Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service) programs where farmers can get cost sharing to do specified things," said Northeast Region SARE Coordinator Frederick Magdoff. "We're asking for farmers' ideas and then providing an opportunity for them to take some chances and try them out."

The grants will be awarded on a competitive basis to farmers throughout the 12-state region. Projects may involve small research trials, educational activities and demonstrations. Project activities should promote good stewardship of natural resources, prevent agricultural pollution and/or improve farm profitability.

Last year 40 grants were awarded. They ranged in size from $325 to $5,571.

SARE is a USDA competitive grants program. Its mission is to develop farming practices and systems that are environmentally sound, economically viable and that contribute to quality of life for farmers and society as a whole.

The Northeast Region includes Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, West Virginia and Washington, D.C.

Grant applications are available from the Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program, Hills Building, University of Vt., Burlington Vermont, 05405-0082. The application deadline is January 20, 1995.

Farm Credit Reports Improving Financial Position

LEWISBURG, (Union Co.) — Improving capital position, credit quality, and strong third quarter earnings of $459,000 on a $199.3 million loan portfolio were posted by Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA as noted in its third quarter financial reports.

Association permanent capital reached 13 percent for the first time since the 1989 merger of the former Northeastern and Headwaters associations. Credit quality continued its steady advance to a 93% acceptable loan rate. The third quarter net income represented a 5 percent decrease from the same period of 1993. However, the slight decline was primarily due to a $200,000 reversal of previously anticipated patronage earnings from the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore (FCB).

As a result of restructuring costs incurred by the FCB, which are designed to make it a more competitive and cost effective leader in the future, no patronage income from the FCB to Northeastern ACA is expected in 1994.

Robert T. Reich, president of Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA attributed the solid earnings to advancing net interest income and a lower provision for loan losses, primarily as a result of the continuing improvement in credit quality. Net interest income for the quarter increased significantly from the third quarter of 1993. The improvement in net interest income resulted from higher levels of capital and a decline in funding costs.

Feeding System Has Direct Drive

FORT ATKINSON, Wis. — Jamesway, a leading manufacturer and marketer of livestock feeding equipment, announces the introduction of a new line of high-capacity belt feeders and conveyors.

The "Direct Xpress"™ belt feeding and conveying system features a unique, high performance direct drive system through an industrial drive gearbox with enclosed oil bath and standard 1, 2 or 3 hp C-faced motor. The Jamesway direct drive design eliminates pulleys, jackshafts, sprockets, chains, V-belts and shields for longer life and less maintenance.

Jamesway's low profile drive and motor can be mounted on either side for added installation flexibility. With the Direct Xpress, farmers have a wider variety of choices in the way they feed. The Direct Xpress system can be easily adapted for stanchion or free access barns, feedlots and mounted or suspended bunk feeding arrangements.

ABS Reformulates Pre-Gold

DeFOREST, Wis. — American Breeders Service (ABS) has recently announced a reformulation of Alcide brand Pre-Gold Germicidal Pre-Milking Teat Dip.

The reformulation consists of the addition of Sorbital, a moisturizing agent, to slow drying and moisturize the teats. This eliminates the concerns which some producers had about chapping and premature drying during prepping.

Pre-Gold is specially formulated to provide superior killing ability coupled with a very fast acting kill. It has the ability to complete its germicidal activity in less than 30 seconds.

Pre-Gold has been thoroughly tested following National Mastitis Council (NMC) experimental exposure protocol guidelines. It has been proven effective in preventing new intramammary infections, including those that become clinical.

It's high-quality surfactant (cleaning agent) quickly penetrates mud and manure. This surfactant serves as the vehicle to deliver the germicide directly to the mastitis-causing germs. The quicker it gets there, the better the kill during limited contact time.

Producers interested in Pre-Gold Germicidal pre-milking teat dip, or any other Alcide brand product, should contact their local ABS representative or call 1-(800)-ABS-STUD.

Repower Your Tractor With BSD Engine

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Why go through the hassle and expense of rebuilding an engine when you can replace it with a new Basildon Series Diesel (BSD) engine from Ford New Holland?

In most cases, purchasing a new factory diesel engine is comparable to the total expense required for a complete overhaul, especially when the cost of downtime is considered. BSD engines are rugged, dependable replacement engines suitable for repowering many prior and current Ford tractors from 1965 to present.

BSD engines are built at the same facility which manufactures the engines for the current Ford New Holland lines of agricultural and utility/industrial equipment. And all BSD engines come with a full one year warranty.

Ford New Holland BSD engines include the block assembly, cylinder head assembly plus internal components, oil pan, rocker cover, crankcase vent tube, 5" diesel starter, tachometer drive adapter (3 and 4 cylinder models), front crank pulley, fuel system including dual fuel filters, injection pump, lines and injector nozzles, water pump, thermostat, water outlet connector, timing gear cover, rear engine cover plate, and turbocharger (where applicable). All components are assembled and the engine is factory "hot" tested prior to shipment.

For more information, contact your local Ford New Holland dealership.

Vermeer Introduces Mower/Conditioner

PELLA, Iowa — A new, larger rotary disc-style mower/conditioner has recently been introduced by Vermeer Manufacturing Company, Pella, Iowa.

The new Vermeer RC9120 mower/conditioner has a cutting width of 11 feet 8 inches and operates at speeds up to 9 mph. It is powered by a single, direct drive gearbox to both the cutter bar and conditioning rollers. Three-point spring-loaded suspension provides excellent flotation, both laterally and vertically, minimizing scalping and "missed" low spots. An overrunning slip clutch protects both tractor and mower/conditioner.

With the RC9120 there are no drive chains, belts, or high-maintenance flatbed-style gear systems. The high-performance disc-style cutter bar consists of independent cutting heads driven by a steel hex shaft. Each cutting head is self-contained and prepared with its own set of gears, bearings and lubricant.

Cabs Feature Standard ROPS

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Laurin, Inc. of Laval, Quebec, Canada has introduced a new line of tractor cabs called "Vision Plus."

These cabs feature as standard equipment approved rollover protection structure (ROPS), pressurized air-heater system, extensive tinted glass, interior lights and working lights.

All cabs have molded ceiling and leather-ette covered foam rubber interior sides. They also feature push button door handles and 18 inch pantograph front windshield wiper.

The "Vision Plus" series of cabs are available for John Deere 5000 series, Kubota 2900, 3300, 3600, 4200 and L-35. In addition, Laurin, Inc. manufactures a complete line of cabs for most 20 to 70 HP tractors.

Laurin, Inc. is represented locally by R. A. (Bob) Weaver, at (717) 486-7789.

New Parts & Service Director At Northern Tier Implement

MANSFIELD (Tioga Co.) — Dick Berner has recently accepted a new position at Northern Tier Implement Co. as parts and service director. In this new position, Berner will be expected to coordinate all service and warranty work, and oversee the parts department.

Since February 1994, Berner has worked for Northern Tier as a sales representative, and was named top salesman for two months. His love for farming was nurtured while growing up on a dairy farm outside of Lansing, Mich., where he held various offices in FFA, 4-H and his local church groups.

After graduating from Grand Ledge High School as a vo-ag student, Berner entered the U.S. Navy and received training as a jet engine mechanic. He later graduated from Southwestern Michigan Community College with an Associate degree in aviation maintenance and received his aircraft and power plant license (A & P).

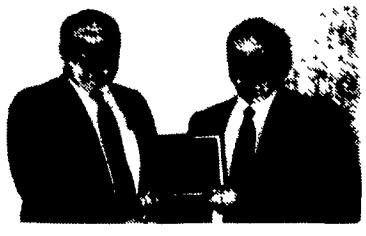
After working in general aviation for four years, Berner reentered the Navy and held various positions as mechanic, supervisor for engine shop, quality control, and production control for the next 16 years. In 1990 Berner retired from the Navy and settled in the Wellsboro area, where he held the position of area manager for Agri-King, a livestock nutrition company.

Council Honors Auctioneer

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS (Crawford Co.) — Recently C. Sherman Allen, auctioneer from Conneaut Lake, accepted an award which was given by the Crawford County Council of Farm Organizations for distinguished service in the Crawford County Area.

C. Sherman Allen, known in the ag industry from his participation in many projects involving the 4-H and FFA youth, received this award with his gratitude from the Farm Council.

He acknowledged his family and the associates from the auctioneering firm for help making this award possible.



C. Sherman Allen, left, was recently honored for his work in the ag industry. Max Hebert presented the award.

Outstanding 4-H Equestrians Honored

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Lebanon County 4-H members enrolled in the horse project area were honored for outstanding accomplishments at the Lebanon County 4-H Horse Recognition Banquet held Tuesday, Nov. 29.

Receiving awards for their achievements in the county grooming and showmanship contests were Heidi Urban, Bethel, 12 years and under; Beth Doeing, Lebanon, 13-15 year olds; and Kirsten Bixler, Newmanstown, 16 years and older. Grooming and showmanship awards were sponsored by Brandt's Mill and Saddlery, Lebanon. Members were also recognized as class winners at the county horse roundup. Equitation trophies were awarded by Sheehy Ford, Lincoln Mercury, Inc., Lebanon.

Outstanding project book awards were presented to the following: Amanda Patterson-Equestrians, Horses Are Fun; Tracie Pasker-Equestrians, Novice Horseman; Alicia Smith-Hoof & Horns, Tenderfoot Horseman; Jennifer Miller-Equestrians, Junior Horsemanship; Sarah Stieg-Spur & Bit, Senior Horsemanship; Erin McClellan-Spur & Bit, Advanced Horsemanship; and Amy Tshudy-Hoof & Horns, Horse Production.

The Lebanon County 4-H Hippology Team was recognized for placing sixth at the state contest held at Penn State University. Team members included Kirsten Bixler, Erin McClellan, Jennifer Miller, and Sarah Stieg. The team was coached by Rosemary Stieg and Martha Gregory, 4-H coordinator.

The following adult volunteers were recognized for their leadership of county 4-H Horse Clubs: Jeff and Colleen Krause, Steve and Denise Hain, Michelle Beck, Cindy Beck, Terry Kreiser, John Tshudy, Eileen Yorty, Donna Cikovic, and Trisha Gettler.

The 4-H Horse program provides youth with the opportunity to acquire knowledge of horses and equine related subject matter. Ownership of a horse while desirable is not required to participate in 4-H horse program activities.

If you would like more information on how to become a 4-H member or an adult volunteer, please contact the Lebanon County Cooperative Extension Office at (717) 270-4391.

Hughes Wins PACAA Communication Honor

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Chester Hughes, Penn State extension agent in Lancaster County, recently received special recognition from the Pennsylvania Association of County Agriculture Agents for his outstanding efforts in communication.

Hughes was awarded with a certificate and a check sponsored by the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative. The presentation was made at the annual PACAA awards banquet held at the Atherton Hilton in State College.

The Pennsylvania Association of County Agriculture Agents encourages good communication skills among its membership by sponsoring a communications contest each year. The contest has nine categories that cover various methods of reaching clientele.

PACAA members submit samples of their work to the association to be judged. Hughes won first place for his slide set, "Alternative Feedstuffs for Beef Cattle," first place for his radio program broadcasted biweekly on WDAC, and second place for his newsletter, "Pork Page."

Chester Hughes has been a Penn State extension agent in Lancaster County for the past 12 years. His major area of responsibility is developing educational livestock programs for youth adults.

ASC Elections Next Fall

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — This year's election for positions; on the Lancaster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, which were to he held in December, are being rescheduled to accommodate changes brought on with last month's enactment of the law to reorganize the USDA.

According to Paul B. Kline chairperson of the Lancaster County ARC Committee, the change in the election schedule is nationwide and is authorized under regulations issued by USDA. Current members of ASC committees will continue in their posts until the new election is held next fall.

The law, which reorganized USDA, created a new Agency—the Farm Service Agency (FSA)—which encompasses all of the commodity support and basic conservation programs of the former Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), all of the risk management programs of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC), and the farm lending activities of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

Kline said the new committee system, when fully implemented, will exercise increased responsibilities in its enlarged role. "Rescheduling the elections on a nationwide basis avoids confusion which could occur from hastily drawn rules and regulations," Kline said, "and will create efficiencies by using funds which would have been spent on this year's election process to be used in training committees in performing their added duties."

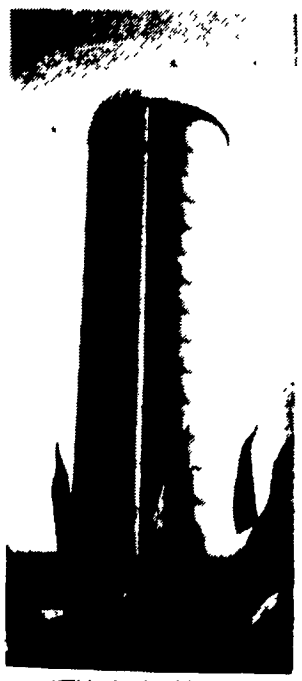
PLAN NOW FOR 1995!



"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

When Planning Your Forage Programs, Remember That Your Main Objective Is To Store The Plant And Remove It From Storage In As Good Condition As Possible. The Upright Silo Has Never Been Equalled In Its Ability To Do This...
On Most Dairy Farms, Forage Quality Is The Single Most Improtant Factor Relating To Profit...

Poured Concrete Silos Consistently Out-Perform All Other Methods Of Storing And Preserving The Total Digestible Nutrients In Forage Crops...

"Nobody Protects Forage Quality Like We Do..Nobody!"

NEW BELT FEEDERS & CONVEYORS

Big Capacity Delivery... With All The Advantages Of Dependable, Efficient, Low Profile Direct Drive Design!

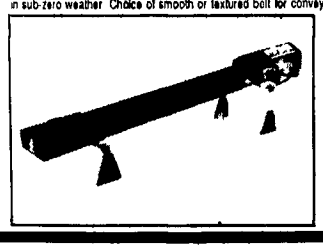
That's what farmers really appreciate about the new Jamesway family of Direct XPress Feeders and Conveyors. All models feature a dependable and efficient heavy duty industrial drive with an closed oil bath and standard 1 2 or 3 H.P. C faced motors. Our direct drive design eliminates pulleys jackshafts sprockets chains V-belts and shields. The low profile motor and drive, can be mounted on either side for added installation versatility.

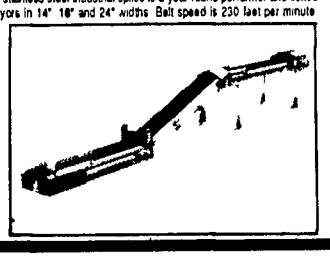
The Direct XPress family includes
DXF 1400 Single or Divided Lot 14" Wide Belt Feeder 180 Maximum Length
• DXC 1400 14" Wide Belt Conveyor 180 Maximum Length
• DXC 1800 18" Wide Belt Conveyor 180 Maximum Length
• DXC 2400 24" Wide Belt Conveyor 124 Maximum Length

X Sides Are Standard
All Direct XPress System models feature heavy 16-gauge weather resistant galvanized steel sides in 2 1/2 5 and 10 sections. We call them "X" sides because they are "X tra" strong and will span 20 between supports. And they are built to last and will stay looking good "X tra" long!

Do It Your Way!
Match your feeding layout and requirements with reversible elevating conveyors inclines and declines without sacrificing capacity speed and uniform delivery. All inclines and declines are infinitely adjustable up to 30 degrees elevation for textured belt and up to 15 degrees elevation for smooth belt.

Tough 1/8" thick polyester belt with PVC covering and dependable stainless steel industrial splice is a year round performer and flexes in sub-zero weather. Choice of smooth or textured belt for conveyors in 14" 18" and 24" widths. Belt speed is 230 feet per minute.





YOU JUST CAN'T MATCH OUR MIX

TMR Ruffage Master

These new Oswalt® four auger Model 200/250 mixers are designed to process and mix all feeds, including baled hay, into a fully-blended TMR better than anyone! The aggressive, notched, 20 -diameter, full-pitch, four auger mixing pattern, dual shear shelf design and exclusive, self-lubricating Tuff-Glide® liners help feed materials flow more freely, reducing horsepower requirements and virtually eliminating material hang-ups and dead spots. The end result: A better quality of mix! See your Oswalt Dealer today!

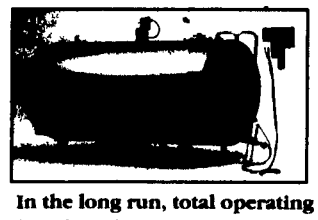
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Offer

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$26,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

LLAMAS LLAMAS LLAMAS

If you've been considering starting in llamas, or having a llama for a pet, why not stop in to see our herd.

Our young males start at $500, our weanling females at $2,500, our pregnant females at $3,500. A deposit will hold any of our crias (baby llamas) for you.

We prefer selling off the farm, rather than subjecting our animals to the stress of auctions.

All of our llamas are registered with the International Llama Registry. Some of the finest wool and blood lines can be found in our herd, including Otter Creek Harold.

All llamas can be halter led, and are gently trained by teenagers.

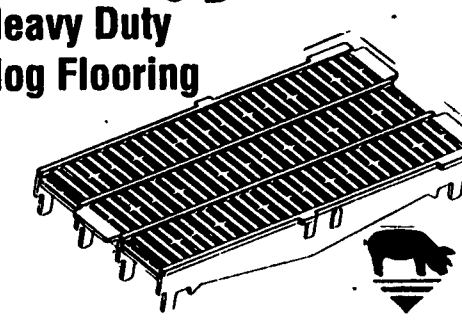
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? ☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™
Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.
Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.
◆ POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?
◆ More piglets survive until weaning
◆ Less splay/spraddle leg problems
◆ Heavier piglets at weaning
◆ Better conditioned sows at weaning

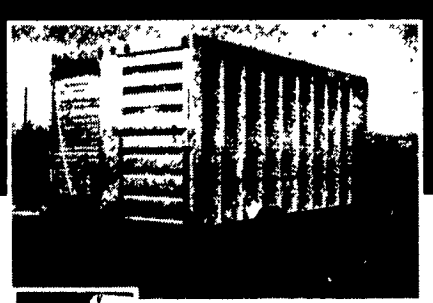
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

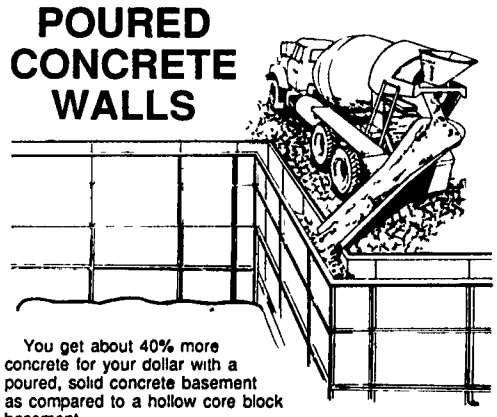
POURED SOLID CONCRETE STORAGE SYSTEM SPECIALISTS

START WITH THE BEST!
POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs. more per cubic foot! Far denser. What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic . there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced

Solid Concrete For:

- Manure Pit Walls
- Hog House Walls
- Barnyard Walls
- Chicken House Walls
- Retaining Walls
- House Foundation Walls
- Silage Pit Walls
- Cistern Walls
- Concrete Decks
- Concrete Pit Tops

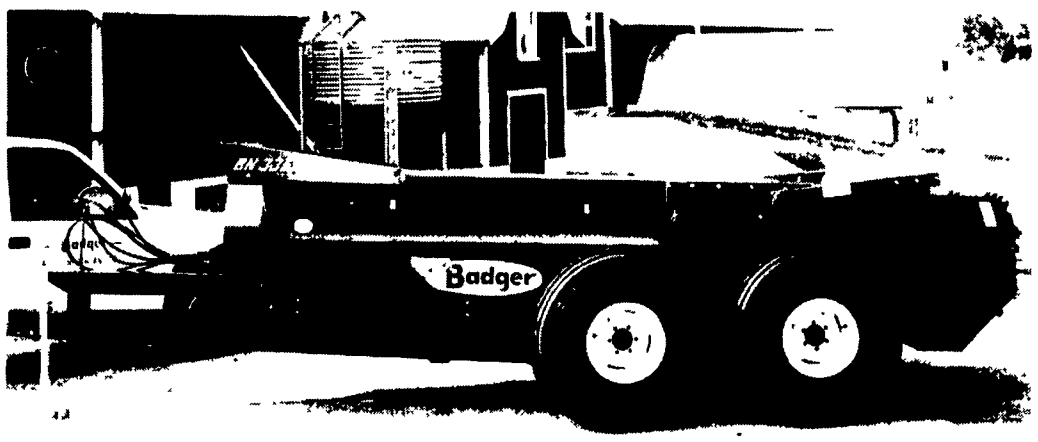
MANURE HAPPENS!

Badger®

Badger Northland's rugged, reliable spreaders work as hard as you do.



Two models of hard-working manure spreaders available up to the large 355 cubic foot capacity model BN3352 include these features:

- Aggressive Beaters - takes punishment from frozen chunks and provide uniform spreading at the same time.
- Strong Steel Understructure - the steel angle cross members and frame rails will give you many years of service
- Six Apron Speeds - apron drive eliminates jaw clutches.
- "V" Belt Beater Drive - cross drive provides built-in slip clutch. Belt servicing is easy with front mounted shaft bearings
- Hydraulic Drive - assures longer life to the P T O and front "V" belt
- Superslick Deck - 3/4" fir plywood core coated with fiberglass with resin impregnated gelcoat makes clean-out easy
- Top Beater (optional) - allows for more uniform spreading and increased capacity
- Litter Pan (optional) - prevents material from falling out below the beaters and falling over the endgate during transport
- Splitter Valve (optional) - makes it possible to operate both the hydraulic apron and endgate with only one tractor remote hydraulic circuit
- Endgate (optional) - protects beaters during loading and prevents manure from resting on the beaters during transport

SAFETY! It's no accident

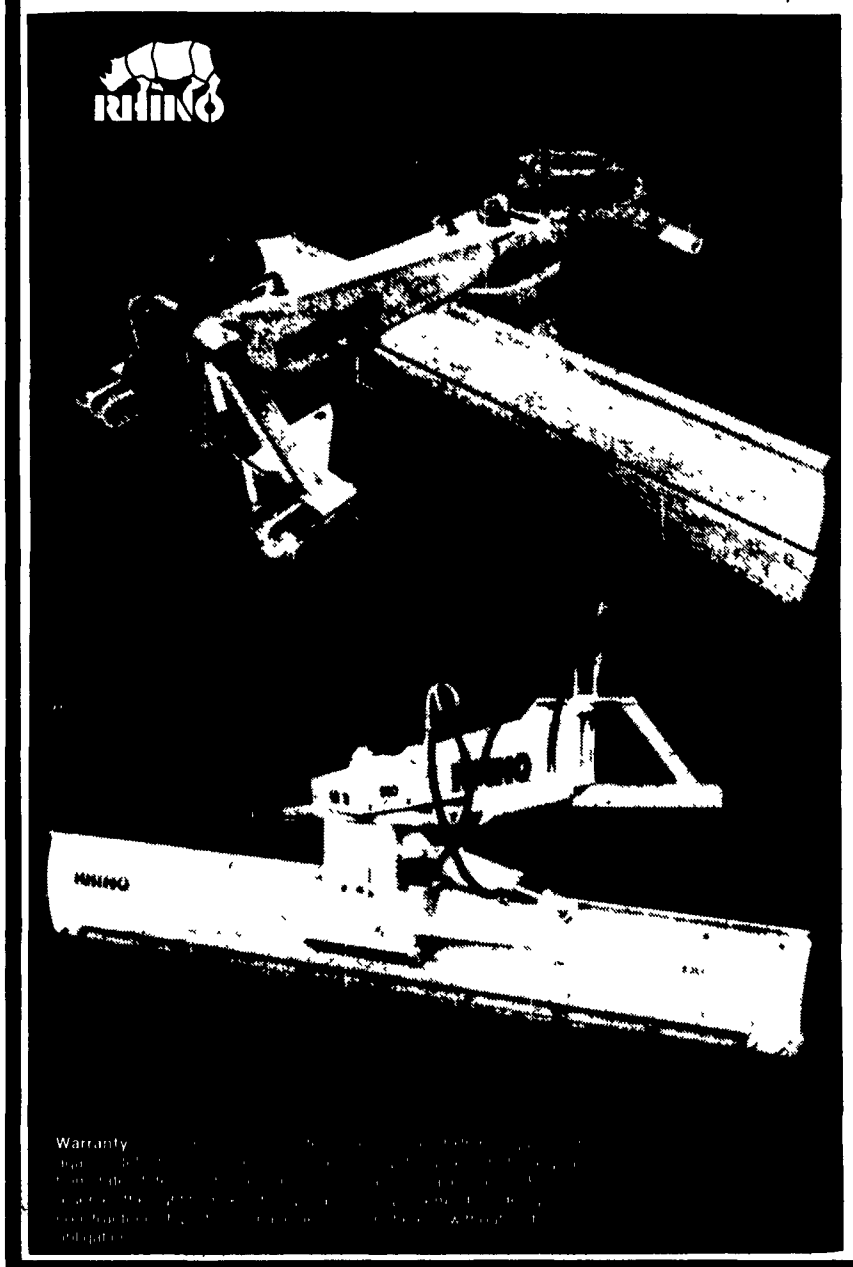
If It's Snow Removal Or Heavy Duty Excavating, You Need A Rhino Blade From Binkley & Hurst Bros. NOW!



For over 50 years, Rhino has been manufacturing the leading line of rear-mounted blades. Throughout this time, our expertise in design and manufacturing techniques has enabled us to satisfy over 300,000 blade owners across the country. Over the years, we have expanded our manufacturing technology in order to continue building RHINO blades with superior craftsmanship and innovative designs. This dedication for quality assures you of the best when you buy a RHINO blade. Today, our investment is paying off for you.

Moldboards. An important factor in the performance of RHINO blades is the precision-formed moldboard with the exact curvature necessary to achieve maximum penetration. This added precision allows RHINO blades to cut and roll the soil rather than dragging, which saves time, horsepower, and fuel.
The 1540 with 8' moldboard is available for tractors rated to 190 PTO HP and with 10' moldboard for tractors rated to 160 PTO HP.
The Rhino 900 and 950 blades are both available to be equipped with several sizes of moldboards for your specific job requirements. For tractors rated to 125 PTO HP, the 900 and 950 are available with a 7' or 8' moldboard. For those with tractors rated to 95 PTO HP, a 7', 8', or 9' moldboard is available.
The cutting edges of all RHINO blades are ½ "x6" high-carbon steel, grader cutting edges. The cutting edges have off-center countersunk bolt holes which give you full life of the blade without wearing into the moldboard, and you don't have to reverse the cutting edge in order to gain maximum life. Unlike some center-punched blades, the off-center punch enables the cutting edge to assume the same curvature as the moldboard, allowing a free upward flow of dirt. This unrestricted flow produces less drag, with better fuel economy. That is, the dirt slides upward and breaks at the top of the moldboard.

The Rhino cutting edge is the same as used on many motor graders. RHINO blades are designed with the strength, ruggedness, and movements to do many jobs of a motor grader quickly and easily. You will be proud of the volume of material that you can move with your tractor and a RHINO blade.

Case IH Drills For Seeding In Stock

In Stock - • 20x6- Plain Type With Soybean And Grass
• 24x6 Seed Attachment, And Press Wheels
• 16x7- Equipped With Fertilizer Attachment, Press Wheels, Grass Seeder, And Soybean Attachment

There's nothing more important to a crop than early even emergence. To get it, you need accurate, even seeding

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a function of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers. And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models. Press wheels and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers. Grass seeding attachment for 16x7.

NEW FARMING PRESS VIDEOS FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING

NEW! FARMING PRESS VIDEOS NEW! JOHN DEERE VIDEOS TWO-CYLINDER TRACTORS VOL 1&2

Volume 1 starts with the Froslitch replica and the Waterloo Boy and takes the story up to 1938 when styled tractors made their appearance. Filming was done in Iowa, Illinois, Ontario and England. Many tractors shown are rarities and outstanding examples of restoration. The owners describe the features of their tractors and give fascinating insights into John Deere history. High Professional quality Videos are in full color, 55-minutes. $34.95
Review! In "Antique Power" Magazine. They ought to be on your shelf, the best video photography of John Deere Tractors.

NEW! John Deere on Video Two Cylinder Tractors Vol. 2

In Volume Two we look at the last of the older series tractors identified by a letter and follow with the first of the numbered models from the 1950s. It was also the time when diesel power was beginning to take over. Some stationary engines are also covered. Finally this video finishes with a look at the latest new models from the Waterloo Factory. These comprehensive videos will prove to be of indispensable value to both the collector and restorer of John Deere Tractors. VHS in full color 50 minutes $34.95.

NEW! JOHN DEERE TWO-CYLINDER TRACTORS

This excellent detailed book includes more than 130 full color photos, with detailed shots, which illustrate the design changes which took place over more than four decades. Has serial numbers and Nebraska tractor test results. Great reference guide, by Michael Williams, who is internationally recognized authority on tractors. 128 pgs. Hardcover $29.95.

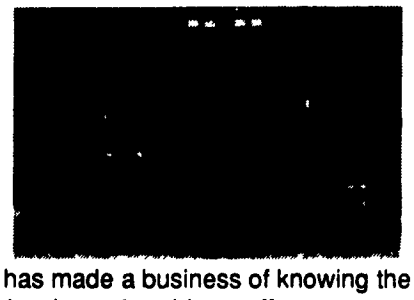
USED TRACTOR PRICE GUIDE

1994 EDITION



For over 43 years, Intertec has made a business of knowing the used equipment market. That's why we're able to offer you comprehensive tractor pricing, specification and loan value information. Introducing the 1994 Used Tractor Price Guide. Covering over 25 manufacturer's models from 1970-1992, this handy reference provides you with detailed information on engine size, transmission speeds, PTO hp, drawbar hp, shipping weight, approximate retail price when new, estimated trade-in values (high and low) and more. You'll also find special sections covering tractor serial numbers and their locations. So if you're buying or selling a tractor... or just interested in model specifications, turn to the 1994 Used Tractor Price Guide for complete reference information. 1994 editions/5.5x8" softbound/288 pages.

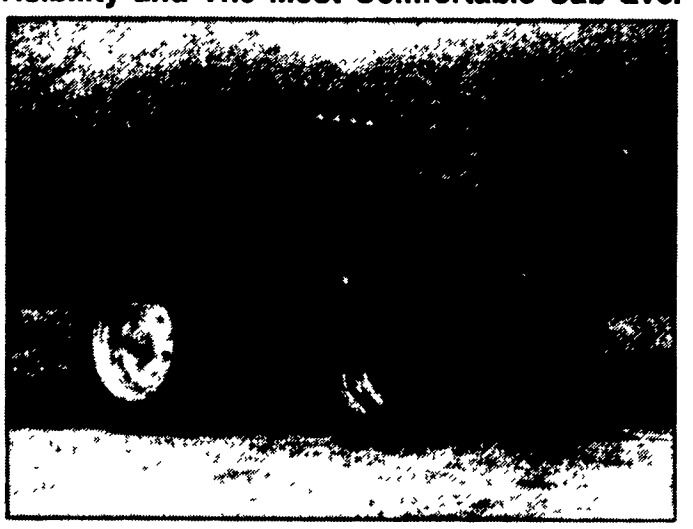
For The Way You Farm Today

Fingertip Powershift Control, Improved Field Visibility and The Most Comfortable Cab Ever



AGCO ALLIS
For the way you farm today

Model 9650
147 PTO HP (109.7 kW)
In Stock Ready For Delivery

With their new 18x9 speed full powershift transmissions that electronically control the engagement of massive gears with just the tap of a hand... their cab-forward design that permits a clear, unobstructed view of the field in all directions... and their roomy, comfortable cabs, that feature a unique swivel, air-ride seat and an exclusive seat-mounted control console, the new 9600 Series tractors are clearly ahead of the time.

Every component — from the sleek, sloping hood, to the rugged, cast-iron mainframe to the world-proven air-cooled diesel engines, that require less maintenance — has been designed to match the way you farm today. The result is greater comfort, better performance and improved productivity.

Compare the features and specifications for yourself. Better yet, stop by BHM Farm Equipment soon and try out the 9650 model for yourself. You have to drive it to believe it.

Ground Breaking Savings On New Tillage Systems Til Jan. 31, 1995

We redesigned the GLEANER rotary from header to spreader with fewer moving belts and chains. So you get greater reliability and reduced maintenance during harvest. And now, three of four models* offer you an engine choice — a high torque rise Cummins diesel or a low maintenance air-cooled Deutz, both loaded with power to spare. Check out the combine that's built for greater reliability and backed by a strong AGCO warranty and superior service — the GLEANER rotary. Visit your local AGCO GLEANER dealer today. And ask about flexible AGCO financing.

*Kz available with Deutz air cooled engine only

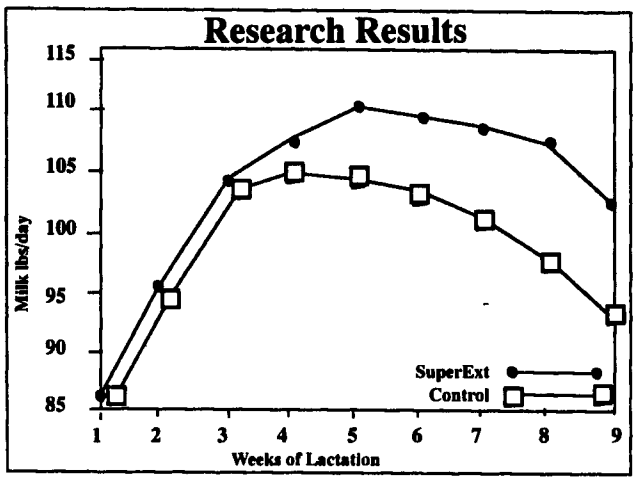
PURINA

SUPER-EXT

A dairy feed that could make your cows more productive, while also improving their feed conversion and breeding efficiency.

SUPER-EXT is a blend of high fat nuggets and pellets specially designed and manufactured by Purina to deliver feed quality, nutrient density and super palatability. The nutrient-rich blend is placed with complete nutrition and is highly palatable.

In field trials, cows fed SUPER-EXT produced an average of 6.7 pounds more milk per cow per day, while improving or maintaining milk composition. And while porduction increased, the cows that were fed SUPER-EXT maintained or improved their body-condition scores after freshening and were more-feed efficient.



Research Results
	Milk	Milk lbs/day	Milk Protein lbs/day
Control Average Production	100	3.24	2.83
Super-Ext Average Production	107	3.47	2.86
Average Improvement Per Cow	+7	+.23	+.03

Consider All The Benefits Of SUPER-EXT

- Increased milk production
- Good milk composition
- Good body condition
- Improved feed efficiency
- Improved breeding efficiency
- More income opportunity!
